Poles to War For Danzig Even Alone, English Hear

Hitler Calls City's Leaders to Confer; Warsaw Demands Satisfaction in Slaying

European Affairs

DANZIG IS ACTUALLY "100-per cent German now," and the issue is merely a blind to confuse England, Gregor Zeimer, retiring headmaster of American School in Berlin, declared on arrival in America. Page 5.

BRITISH GOVERNMENT was reported to be preparing a positive peace plan for submission to Hitler in which Germany would be asked to sacrifice some of her armaments for which Britain, in return, would obtain for her huge loans to enable Hitler to transform German industry from a war to a peace basis. Page 5.

Warsaw Defiant

By International News Service

London (Friday), July 21.—That Poland is ready and determined to fight, with or without allies, to prevent Danzig from returning to Germany's ownership was the warning attributed by the London Daily Mail today to Marshal Smigly-Rydz, the Polish dictator.

A Warsaw dispatch to the newspaper quoted Poland's iron man as saying:

"We shall spare no effort to settle the Danzig question peacefully. But if Germany insists on anschluss (territorial reunion), Poland will fight even if she has to fight alone."

News of this strong statement coupled with a similar radio declaration at Warsaw reached London after British press messages from Berlin said it was reported Reichsfuehrer Hitler summoned Danzig's Nazi leaders to a Berchtesgaden conference to "make the most important decisions." An Exchange Telegraph Berlin dispatch said the reported conference may be held at the end of next week in Hitler's Bavarian mountain chalet.

The Warsaw radio last night broadcast a declaration that Poland would unhesitatingly fight for her present interests in Danzig if they are infringed upon, Exchange Telegraph said.

Danziger Kills Pole

Free City of Danzig, July 20.—A Danzig customs officer shot and killed a Polish soldier today near the Danzig frontier village of Postelau and angered officials of the Polish Commision declared grimly tonight they would demand satisfaction from the Nazi-controlled Free City.

One Polish official said: "My government has not yet acted formally but it would seem that we will not be appeased by a mere apology in this case."

The fatal shooting also irritated the Danzig Nazi authorities and heightened the tension along the uneasy frontier with Poland.

Army Head Speaks

[At Tannenberg, Germany, Lieut. Gen. Walter von Brauchitsch, commander in chief of the German army, told graduates of the Tannenberg Military Academy today that "we are not looking for a fight but we are not afraid to fight," according to the United Press.

[He voiced a warning, presumably toward Poland, that East Prussia was German soil, and Berlin newspapers played up his speech with headlines asserting: "Brauchitsch Answers Polish Warmongers."

["We are not seeking war," von Brauchitsch said, "but we fear it even less than we avoid it . . . I want to emphasize that this (East Prussia to which Poles have laid counter-claim) is an old German land . . . over the graves and crosses of many centuries, during which this soil has always been victoriously asserted as German property, our path leads forward to the honor and greatness of the fatherland."—Editor's note.]

Arabs Beseech Kidnapers to Free American

Ohio Pastor Held For $5,000 Ransom In Palestine Hills

By the Associated Press

Jerusalem, July 20.—Arabs bearing gifts of rice, flour and choice fowls took to the Moab hills tonight to beseech a rebel band of their own race to release a kidnaped preacher from Ohio.

The prisoner is 29-year-old Gerould R. Goldner and the Arab kidnapers want $5,000 to free him, according to Dr. Jacob Goldner, his father, who also was kidnaped but permitted to return to Jerusalem to arrange for ransom.

Dr. Goldner, 67, is a Christian Church pastor in Cleveland; his son is pastor of the Christian Church at Mogadore, Ohio. The latter's wife and their 10-month-old son are in Cleveland. The younger Goldner attended Hiram (Ohio) College and Yale Divinity School.

United States Consul George Wadsworth joined in the rescue but a preliminary search by British planes, police and military authorities was suspended while friendly Arabs made an effort to find the abductors.

A donkey boy, one of two who who were permitted to return to Jerusalem with the elder Goldner, said the two Americans were treated well by the Arabs.

Trousered Queen, Wife of Buddhist, Received by Pope

Vatican City, July 20 (AP).—A young Indo-Chinese Empress, clad in trousers, paid her respects today to Pope Pius in a ceremonial audience accorded those of royal rank.

The Pope received Empress Marie N'Guyen Houhao of Annam, 23-year-old Catholic consort of the Buddhist Emperor Bao Dai. Annam is a French protectorate in Indo-China.

The Empress appeared in native costume, wearing white silk trousers, red slippers, yellow jacket embroidered with a golden imperial dragon and a yellow cap.

WPA Reveals Irregularity In Louisiana

WPA Strikers Blocked

Charges of Graft

By the United Press.

Works Projects Commissioner F. C. Harrington yesterday disclosed WPA investigators have discovered "irregularities" in Louisiana, principally in Baton Rouge, during their inquiry into alleged diversion of Government materials and labor to private use.

He said the instances involved "possibly $5,000 to $10,000" and that prosecutions would be made "through regular channels."

The alleged diversions, he said, consisted of using WPA materials and labor for improvements on private property, such as fences and sidewalks. He did not mention names of individuals purportedly involved.

He said he is not contemplating changing WPA administrative officers in Louisiana.

Murphy Pushes Case

Meanwhile, Attorney General Murphy said at a press conference the Federal Government would pursue its investigation of corruption in Louisiana vigorously, regardless of who was involved.

Asked about a newspaper report which spoke of a "close hookup between Washington and New Orleans," he said, "The people of Louisiana can be sure we won't let go the hold we've got until we get to the bottom of the situation."

Of the "close" connections between Washington and New Orleans, Murphy said, "They may be close, but they are never close enough. No one's closeness is going to make any difference on what we do here."

Smith in Court

New Orleans, July 20 (AP).—Dr. James Monroe Smith told a court today he was advised to leave Louisiana after resigning the presidency of the State university and was assured he faced no threat of criminal action.

Although Smith did not name his advisers in a petition seeking bail on a Federal charge, former Gov. Richard Leche promptly called the educator's claim "absurd and obviously untrue."

Leche announced Smith's resignation nearly a month ago after a conference at the executive mansion. The nine-year head of L. S. U. dropped from sight immediately and was not heard from again until he surrendered six days later in Canada.

In the interim, Leche disclosed financial irregularities at the school and had withdrawn from the Governorship, giving ill health as his reason.

Smith, protege of Huey P. Long, asked the right to make $10,000 bond on a Federal mail fraud charge so he might be returned from Federal jail here to a State cell at Baton Rouge to escape being "harassed" by Federal agents he said were trying to force him to confess crimes he did not commit.

Simultaneously with the filing of this petition by Smith's counsel, 11 more charges were piled up against him in District Court here, bringing to 36 the total he faces, and increasing bail to $189,500. Ten of today's charges were of forgery, one of operating a confidence game.

Whitney's Wedding Completes Wife Exchange With Massey

By the Associated Press

Storington, England, July 20.—A change of wives by Actor Raymond Massey and William Dwight Whitney, New York lawyer, was completed today with Whitney's marriage to Actress Adrianne Allen.

The bride was divorced from Massey two weeks ago, while Massey's bride of ten days is the former wife of Whitney.

Dorothy Ludington Whitney (the present Mrs. Massey), prominent in New York society, and her lawyer husband were divorced July 15, 1937.

Massey, star of "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," and Miss Allen, his second wife, were divorced July 6. The actor and Mrs. Whitney were married four days later.

Miss Allen, British stage actress, and Whitney were married in the rose-garlanded register office of this Sussex town.

The couple left immediately after the ceremony for London, from where they planned to go to Paris tomorrow.

Miss Allen's two children by her marriage to Massey, Daniel, 5, and Anna, 2, and her mother, Mrs. Ethel Allen, attended the ceremony.

"Our honeymoon will be spent in France," Miss Allen said. "I am not going to leave the stage and my husband and I will spend part of each year in England and part in the United States."

One version of the Allen-Whitney romance was presented by a writer for the London Evening News who said it started when Whitney learned of Miss Allen's arrival in the United States to start divorce proceedings.

Thinking she had few friends in America, this reporter said, he telephoned her in her New York hotel and asked if he could be of service.

Rain or Shine, 6 Playgrounds To Open Today

Dampness Defers Schedule for 4; 2 Added to List

As Lewis R. Barrett, new director of recreation for the District, begins concentration on plans for rounding out a long-range program that will put a playground within one-fourth of a mile of every child in Washington, six "emergency" grounds will open this morning with WPA workers in charge.

Four of the grounds—those at Harrison, Cleveland, Grimke and Bundy schools—were prevented by rain from opening on schedule yesterday. The two to be added today—rain or shine, officials declared yesterday—are at Stanton Park, Fifth and D streets northeast, and at Lincoln Park, Eleventh and East Capitol streets.

At the two latter workers will supervise the play of small children only. Barrett said yesterday that as additional WPA workers are assigned to the emergency work, necessary this summer, he would place them in recreational areas already open to be in charge of play for children under 10 years of age.

Considered Best in World

"That's the weakest place in our supervisory set-up, as our survey of traffic accidents last year showed the most victims to be children under 10," he said, expressing the hope this will be the last summer barren school grounds and small deserted spots in congested areas will

G. W. U. Students To Rally Tonight Against 'Censors'

A mass meeting to protest alleged faculty censorship of the George Washington Hatchet, student paper, has been called for 8 tonight at Columbian House, on the campus, by the newly organized "Committee for the Defense of Student Rights."

Speakers will be Howard Ennes, former Hatchet editor and president of the Washington Youth Council, and Frank F. Burnet, who says he has been discharged as 1939-40 Hatchet editor by order of Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of George Washington.

U. S. Flag Reported Torn by Japanese

Hankow, China, July 20 (AP).—A report that Japanese soldiers had torn down and destroyed an American flag flown over the Standard Oil Co.'s installation at Chenglingki, Yangtze River port, was received here today.

This account said about 100 Japanese infantrymen entered the installation, drove out the Chinese staff and damaged the property.

Horse Tramples Actor Monte Blue

House Orders NLRB Probe After Battle

Smith, of Virginia, Wins Inquiry by 254-134 Vote to Override Committee

By the Associated Press

The House yesterday voted an extensive inquiry into the National Labor Relations Board, approving over the protests of a powerful Democratic bloc the creation of a five-man investigating committee with full subpoena powers to study the whole NLRB set-up and make any recommendations for legislation.

The action, which carried 254 to 134, came as a blow to Chairman Norton (Democrat), New Jersey, of the House Labor Committee, whihc has been considering amendments to the act since May 4.

Mrs. Norton denounced the resolution of Representative Smith (Democrat), Virginia, as one which would "usurp" the powers of her committee, and shouted to the House that Smith himself "is the last man in the world to pass upon labor legislation."

Smith Cites Pressure

The sponsor, however, declared as the bitter debate opened on the floor, that "something is wrong that needs looking into," and that unless something had been amiss there would not have been the "tremendous pressure" for an inquiry.

Under the resolution, Speaker Bankhead is to name a committee whose duty will be to:

1.—Find out whether the board has been fair in its interpretation of the law and in its decisions.

2.—Check the effects of the act on employer-employe relations and upon economic conditions.

3. Find out whether the board "has attempted to write into the act" purposes not justified by its language.

4. Suggest amendments, if any, and determine whether Congress should further define interstate commerce.

Can Judge Personnel

The committee will make recommendations, also, concerning the personnel of the board. It can hold hearings anywhere, at any time, and can subpoena witnesses and documents. While the resolution made no provision for funds, it was expected that the members would apply to the Accounts Committee.

Almost the entire Republican membership and a sizable bloc of Democrats pushed the resolution across over the protests off Chairman Norton, Representative Ramspeck (Democrat), Georgia, and other members of the Labor Committee.

Replying to contentions of Smith that "good work can be done for labor, industry and the Government if the matter is looked into calmly by men of this House," Chairman Norton argued the matter should not be taken out of the jurisdiction of her committee.

"You men can count on your

Packing Concern Rejects Parley In Strike Threat

Chicago, July 20 (AP).—Armour & Co., confronted by threats of strikes at 17 of its plants, rejected proposals for a peace parley with representatives of the C. I. O. today while union chiefs decided to submit the issue to President Roosevelt.

Spokesmen for the huge meat-packing firm refused to heed the demand of the packinghouse workers' organizing committee for negotiations for a contract. At the same time they declined to consider suggestions of the city council labor sub-committee that they agree to confer with the unionists or submit the dispute to mediation.

Armour officials insisted the major issue—a national contract—should be placed before the National Labor Relations Board.

Fire, Set in Test, Burns for Week, Bringing Alarm

District firemen were back at the old Firestone Building, at Third street and Independence avenue southwest, yesterday, squirting water on the fire they started a week ago to try out a new fire-fighting method.

Members of Engine Company No. 4 said the blaze was confined to cork insulation from the razed walls of an old refrigerating plant adjoining the Firestone Building. They said this material has been smoldering since the fire was set. Yestsday it became so active an alarm was turned in.

The Fire Department touched off the building July 12 to test carbon dioxide for battling blazes.

Modified Lending Bill Meets Senate Revolt; Plan Called Unsound

House Bi-Partisan Bloc Puts Teeth Back Into Hatch Bill

Restores Provision Banning Political Activity by Federal Officeholders; Backers Continues Battle for Original Measure

In a long-drawn night battle, a coalition of House Republicans and Democrats scored a smashing success last night in what they called their effort to put the teenth back in the Hatch bill banning "politics in relief" and barring Federal employes from political campaigns.

Led by Representative Dempsey (Democrat), of New Mexico, the coalition got the House to approve a provision forbidding a vast army of Federal office-holders to participate in the national political conventions or other political activity.

The section declares that, with the exception of the President a few other officials, persons in the executive branch of the Government must not use their official authority to influence an election and must not have part in "political management or political campaigns."

The standing vote of 187 to 103 went a long way to restoring the Hatch bill to the form in which it passed the Senate weeks ago. Subsequent to Senate passage, President Roosevelt and other administration men criticized it as badly drawn and the House Judiciary Committee altered it in such a way that its sponsors raised the cry that it had been "emasculated."

A number of Administration legislators fought doggedly for the House committee's version. They insisted that the Senate bill was so loose and so broad that it would prevent members of Congress, for example, from running for re-election.

To meet the latter objection, Representative Dempsey wrote into his section approved last night a clause specifically exempting members of Congress from the bill's provisions.

Just before the vote, Representative Parsons (Democrat), Illinois, was ruled out of order when he offered an amendment to prevent newspapers from accepting money for political advertisements or to

W. J. Patterson, Ex-Brakeman, Named to ICC

Brotherhoods Hail His Nomination to Post Amlie Lost

William J. Patterson, director of the Interstate Commerce Commission's bureau of safety, and a former railroad brakeman, switchman and conductor, was appointed yesterday by the President to be a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

e was appointed to the I. C. C. seat left vacant by the resignation of B. H. Meyer and to the post to which Mr. Roosevelt originally appointed Thomas R. Amlie, left-wing Wisconsin Progressive, whose confirmation was blocked.

Patterson's appointment appeared due for speedy confirmation as the nomination was hailed in the Senate and applauded in railroad brotherhood quarters.

Labor for nUion Man

Railroad labor had urged that a brotherhood man be named to the commission since the retirement of Frank McManamy left labor without any spokesman on the I. C. C.

Senator Johnson (Democrat), of Colorado, chairman of the Senate Interstate Commerce subcommittee which failed to recommend confirmation of Amlie, said he was "delighted" with the appointment.

"I know of no opposition," said Johnson. "I am pleased that the President has promoted a 'career' man and even more so because he is a brotherhood members. We had hoped the President would make such an appointment. I understand Patterson has a splendid record in his present post."

The reception was in marked contrast with the furorer tht followed the President's appointment of Amlie. Lengthy hearings were held by Johnson's subcommittee and no report was made to the

Andrews Drops Plan to Exempt Office Jobs

Says It Would Be 'Unethical' to Overlook Labor's Help, Opinions

Wage Hour Administrator Elmer F. Andrews said yesterday that, since organized labor had helped him fight his battles, he felt it would be "unethical" to insist on exemption of white-collar workers from the wage hour law against labor's wishes.

The announcement was a reversal of Andrew's previous position favoring an amendment to the wage hour act exempting persons earning more than $200 per month from the minimum hour provisions.

Andrews declared also that, in view of the demand in the House for broad exemptions fro mthe act for workers in industries allied to agriculture, "it seems clear that carefully considered amendment of the act in the interest of wage earners, employers and the public interest can hardly be hoped for at this time."

This statement apparently killed

King to Stay And Press Fight For Reorganization

Chairman King, of the Senate District Committee, yesterday said he would remain in Washington this summer and work with the Commissioners on a municipal reorganization bill.

Taking issue by implication with Representative Kennedy (Democrat), of Maryland, Senator King indicated he would be guided by the wishes of the Commissioners in proposing municipal reforms.

Kennedy had said that the Districts heads were not qualified to draft a reorganization plan affecting their own jobs.

'Just Quoting, Not Criticizing' First Lady, Dickinson Explains

By the Associated Press

Lansing, Mich., July 20.—Gov. Luren D. Dickinson said tonight he had no "thought of criticizing" Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt when he quoted her in a radio address last night.

In his broadcast the 80-year-old Republican Governor, who also is president of the Michigan Antisaloon League, repeated the First Lady's 7-year-old admonition to young women concerning the amount of liquor they drink.

In Washington, earlier today, Attorney General Murphy had called the Governor's remarks about Mrs. Roosevelt "indefensible and absolutely unjust."

Gov. Dickinson expressed astonishment at newspaper headlines saying "Dickinson Raps First Lady" and "Governor Criticizes Mrs. Roosevelt." He asked also how Murphy, former Michigan Democratic Governor knew he was referring to Mrs. Roosevelt.

"I mentioned her name nowhere in my address," the Governor said, "and told only two people outside of my family that the words I quoted were hers."

The two persons he told were newsmen who interviewed him.

"I don't think I had a thought of criticizing her," Gov. Dickinson added. "I just merely intended it as a quotation; that's all there was to it."

In his speech, the Governor said he saw women drinking at the recent National Conference of Governors without becoming intoxicated, and that they may have "learned the [illegible] advocated by a prominent lady of our Nation." "analyzed" Mrs. Roosevelt's statement on lecture platforms after its publication on December 9, 1932, but that he did this "locally" and

Bipartisan Attack On Revised Measure Clouds Hopes for Early Adjournment

By Robert C. Albright

A sharply modified Administration lending bill, changed in title from "Self-liquidating" to "Works Financing Act of 1939" and altered in scope yesterday failed to halt a spreading Senate drive to further curtail lending-spending powers.

Following testimony by Federal Lending Administrator Jesse Jones that the RFC already has enough loan power and resources to finance the first two years of the program, some Democratic Senators proposed to slash the new $2,800,000,000 authorization.

G. O. P. Girds for Fight

Senate Republicans, in conference earlier, organized for a fight to oppose both the theory and the extent of the program. Senate Minority Leader McNary said "there was a universal feeling that lending and spending features would push capital and industry further back in the field of fear."

Cold water was poured on an amendment by Senator Mead (Democrat), of New York, placing Government guarantees behind long-term loans to small business at hearings before the Senate Banking Committee.

In RFC Power Scope

Jones told the committee in effect that the RFC now has the power to do the same thing. Senate Majority Leader Barkley, who filed with the committee the Administration's revised bill, did not include the Mead amendment.

Under Barkley's amendments, the original "self-liquidating" requirement on projects, was changed to one of "recoverable expenditures" to permit projects, not capable in themselves of liquidating costs, to be financed by localities agreeing to repay the loans.

Thus tolls need not be levied on roads and bridges to pay for their cost, if a community finds some other means of returning the Federal outlay.

The Senate Banking Committee is expected to start voting on amendments today.

Following yesterday's hearings, Senator Adams (Democrat), of Colorado, a member of the committee, said he is convinced that the large increase in lending authorizations were unjustified, "and I will introduce an amendment to cut the amount." Adams said a further amendment will be offered, by himself or others, to specifically provide that no money be loaned to finance any project in competition with private enterprise.

To Offer Amendment

Senator Townsend (Republican), of Delaware, said he will offer another amendment foreshadowing a long Senate fight. Townsend, who narrowly failed to ban Treasury purchase of foreign silver in the President's money bill, said he will propose it as a rider on the lending bill.

Now before the banking committee is a bill by the Delaware Senator to stop foreign silver purchases, but it has been held up pending testimony by Secretary of State Hull. Leaders were expected to attempt to head off another silver fight on the lending bill by expediting separate action on the Townsend measure.

Federal Lending Administrator Jones appeared before the committee in closed session and told Senators the Reconstruction Finance Corporation already has borrowing power of approximately $1,400,000,000. The lending bill contemplates an outlay in loans of about $700,000,000 the first year. Without additional powers, he is understood to have said the R. F. C. could make that amount available for the first year and still have enough left over CAPITAL CAVIAR: Two of Roosevelt's recent important appointments—Emil Schram to head RFC and Rogge as Assistant Attorney General in charge of the Criminal Division—are cited by insiders to prove the President's confidence in loyal Americans of German extraction. . . . Rumors of bad blood between Leon Henderson and George Mathews of SEC are false; their Scandinavian temperaments harmonize well. . . . Agog are New Dealers at news that Matanuska colonists in Alaska have sent their first sausage, frankfurters, cottage cheese and bologna to market.

At a Washington cocktail party a diplomat was trying to explain the present "moral climate" in Germany, how the air tastes to a Hitler subject.

"You see," he said, seizing finally on an analogy, "the average German feels all the time the way an American feels when a cop is handing him a traffic summons."

No contrast in architecture in the Capital is more startling than that between the new pink marble Mellon Art Gallery, now racing to completion, and the rickety, seabrous National Guard Armory across the Avenue, with its vacant windows, its peeling paint and its flophouse facade.

When Mrs. Roosevelt and the Queen drove past it, she must have nudged the Queen to look south at the pink marble.

But his sidekick, scholarly Ben Cohen, doesn't drive a car, and Mr. Corcoran says no chauffeur would keep their working hours.

Although Senator Barkley prefers not to confirm or deny the story, it is widely believed that he polled the Senate on the neutrality bill before the night pow-wow at the White House, and found it about 55 to 32 against action this session.

This news apparently convinced the President that it was hopeless to insist on debate and a vote before adjournment.

In one press conference recently the President delicately nominated one New York and three Washington columnists to the Ananias Club. . . . He did it so skillfully that they can't even sue. . . . But what infuriated one of the Capital's most dignified pundits was that FDR lumped him with three of his frothier, less pontifical peers.

"—no corners in the oval room"

Incidentally, it is noteworthy that the last time a journalist asked the President a "third-term" question, Mr. Roosevelt neither offered him a dunce cap nor told him to go stand in the corner. . . . Maybe the rumor has reached his ears of a conspiracy among the bolder newsmen to do something drastic in the corner next time they're told to stand there.

Anyhow, there aren't any corners in the President's oval office.

It's common gossip among New Dealers that the Ickes article in Look magazine, in which he said FDR overshadowed the Cabinet Presidential aspirants for 1940, created some strain at Cabinet meetings. . . .

One brain-truster calls it a "row," and he intimates it was Cordell Hull's cold scorn that embarrassed Ickes to demand a retraction of Hull's picture superimposed on Ickes' prose. . . .

Though Homer Cummings, the former Attorney General, and Frank Hogan, president of the American Bar Association, are great friends, they're not above spoofing each other occasionally.

When Mr. Hogan bemoaned the attitude of the Supreme Court recently at San Francisco, Mr. Cummings sent him a telegram:

"Dear Frank: The world moves on, McReynolds, Butler and Hogan dissenting. Affectionate regards."

Police Thwart WPA Hangings In Effigy

N. Y. Demonstrations Against Reps. Taber And Woodrum Balked

By the Associated Press

Police prevented WPA workers and sympathizers in New York yesterday from hanging two Congressmen in effigy, a scheduled part of a Nation-wide protest demonstration, which drew an undetermined percentage of workers off WPA projects.

Some 2,000 demonstrators, as estimated by leaders of the 450 police who shepherded them in New York's Columbus Circle, had gathered at the call of the Workers Alliance. Police stopped carpenters at work on a gallows for two stuffed figures representing Representatives Woodrum (Democrat), of Virginia, and Taber (Republican), of New York, of the House committee which investigated WPA.

Hotel Picketed

Meanwhile, about 200 pickets marched in front of the Hotel New Yorker, where H. Ralph Burton, chief investigator for the committee, was staying. Placards saying "We came to give our names" referred to Burton's request to WPA officials for the identity of workers taking part in the demonstration.

WPA officials estimated no more than 4,000 New York workers responded to the strike call. Alliance leaders claimed more than 40,000 of the city's 147,000 WPA workers would leave their posts.

Incomplete reports indicated few workers elsewhere left their jobs to demonstrate, as asked by the Alliance, against new relief restrictions.

In Los Angeles, an alliance spokesman said his tally showed 7,500 walked off 35 projects. Other reports, however, used such figures as 40 or 50 in Fort Worth, Tex.; 17 at Columbus, Ohio, and 81 at Milwaukee, Wis.

Senator Maloney (Democrat), Connecticut, predicted at Washington there would be "severe suffering" after September 1 when existing WPA wage differentials are to be altered and a 30-day payless vacation is to begin for relief workers who have been on the rolls 18 months.

He urged that Senators appeal to WPA authorities not to cut wages of workers in the North and West.

Murphy's Statement

Attorney General Murphy said that strikes against the Government "ought not to be tolerated," and if State and local governments could not handle such a situation "the Federal Government ought to step in."

Federal intervention should be on request only, he emphasized in a press conference discussion, saying:

"It would be bad for the Federal Government to needlessly step in unless there were complete breakdown of local authority."

The Attorney General was questioned on the general subject of how far the Government should go to control local disorders arising out of strikes such as the WPA strikes.

"A matter of disorder ought to be the business of local officials anywhere," he said.

"Local officials should always do their best and if they can't handle situations State officials should cooperate. Then, if the State can't handle the problem, the Federal Government ought to step in on being asked to do so."

On Capitol Hill

After conferring for more than two hours with Postmaster General Farley yesterday, Senator Wheeler (Democrat), Montana, revealed they had discussed "local politics in Montana," and added:

FARLEY

"Farley is the best postmster general this country has ever had."

Wheeler declined to disclose what conclusion had been reached in the conference which was held in his Capitol office.

Upon leaving, Farley smilingly said:

"We talked about the Supreme Court fight."

Whether Wheeler and Farley discussed the Montana political situation in its bearing upon re-election of Wheeler in 1940, was not revealed.

President Roosevelt yesterday nominated Francis M. Shea, of New York, to be Assistant Attorney General in charge of the Justice Department's Claims Division. The White House said he would succeed Sam E. Whitaker, resigned.

Although expecting no action this session, Deparmtent of Interior officials and members of Congress, following a White House conference yesterday, decided to submit an oil conservation bill to Congress.

Those who discussed the need for a Federal law to prevent waste of the Nation's oil supply with President Roosevelt were Secretary Ickes, George Holland, director of the Oil Conservation Board, and Representatives Lea, of California, and Cole, of Maryland.

President Roosevelt nominated George F. Yantis, of Washington State, to be a member of the new National Resources Planning Board created under a Government reorganization plan.

WPA demonstrators in New York City yesterday attempted to hang and burn in Columbus Circle the effigies of Representatives Clifton Woodrum, of Virginia, and John Taber, of New York. Police "rescued" the figurines.

The Gallup Poll

Poll Shows British and French Named U. S. Favorite Foreign Nation

By Dr. George Gallup,

Director American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., July 20.—The United States is the favorite foreign country of both England and France, while England is the best liked by Americans, according to a survey conducted in the three nations, respectively, by the American Institute of Public Opinion, the British Institute of Public Opinion and a recently organized French Institute. The nation least liked by voters in three countries is Germany.

GEORGE GALLUP

The American, British and French surveys were all conducted at the same time and by the same methods of sampling. In France and England a representative cross-section of the population was asked: "What foreign country do you like best?" In the United States voters were asked: "What European country do you like best?"

The results were:

BRITISH VOTERS PREFER:
U. S. A.	33%
France	22
Russia	12
Scandinavia	3
Germany	3
Switzerland	2
Sweden	4
Holland	1
Belgium	1
Others	4
No opinion	19

FRENCH VOTERS PREFER:
U. S. A.	26%
England	23
Switzerland	15
Belgium	9
Russia	7
Italy	4.5
Sweden	2.5
Spain	1.5
Others	7

AMERICAN VOTERS PREFER:
England	43%
France	11
Finland	4
Switzerland	4
Ireland	3
Germany	3
Italy	2
Norway	2
Russia	1
No opinion	16

Two especially interesting facts stand out in these results. One is the relatively great popularity of Russia with the voters of Great Britain. Despite many years of strained relations between the British and the Soviets directly after the World War, and despite British abhorrence of communism, Russia is the third most popular country. This may stem from the desire for a military alliance to strengthen England's hand on the Continent.

The other significant fact is the continued popularity of Finland among the voters of the United States. The tiny republic has made a good showing in previous American Institute surveys on favorite foreign countries. The explanation is undoubtedly that Finland pays her American war debts.

A second question in the three surveys asked the voters of each country what nation they like least. In the United States the three least popular countries are Germany (58%), Italy (12%), Russia (8%). Among British voters the least liked are Germany (54%), Japan (11%) and Italy (9%), while in France an even higher percentage expressed a dislike for the Reich: Germany (70%), Italy (9.5%), Russia (5%).

In the French and American surveys additional questions brought out the fact that President Roosevelt is the foreign statesman best liked by the French people. He received more than twice as high a vote as Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of England.

Among American voters the favorite foreign statesman is Chamberlain, with Anthony Eden second and Premier Daladier of France third.

The results follow. No question on foreign statesmen was asked in the British survey.

Favorite Foreign Statesmen

American voters prefer:
Chamberlain	27%
Eden	13
Daladier	4
Mussolini	3
Hitler	2
Others	11
No opinion	40

French voters prefer:
Roosevelt	58%
Chamberlain	22
Stalin	4.5
Eden	3.5
Salazar (Portugal)	1.5
Others	7
No opinion	3.5

In answer to a final question regarding the foreign statesmen least liked, both American and French voters named Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin, in that order.

With the founding of the French Institute, whose reports will appear exclusively in France in Paris Soir, public opinion in the three democracies—England, France and the United States—will be measured and reported at regular intervals. The British Institute, whose reports are published in the London News Chronicle, was founded in 1936, and the American Institute, whose research is underwritten by 90 American newspapers, has been reporting American public opinion since 1935.

J. V. McClintic Named Aide To Van Duzer

New Administrative Assistant Served in Congress for 20 Years

James V. McClintic, former Representative from Oklahoma, yesterday was appointed administrative assistant to Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer.

The job, which was written into the 1940 supply bill by former Chairman Collins of the House sub-committee on District appropriations, pays $4,000.

Defeated in the primaries for the Seventy-fourth Congress, McClintic has been living here since that time, having served Oklahoma in Congress for 20 years. He makes his home at the Chastleton Hotel.

Although his main duties will be in traffic safety education, McClintic also will serve on the Board of Revocation and Restoration of Operators' Permits and on the Hackers' Board.

The post of traffic safety has been urged by leading civic and business persons here for many years.

Born in Texas 59 years ago, McClintic moved to Missouri at the age of 22 and later into Oklahoma Territory. He served in both the upper and lower Houses of that State. He resigned as member of the State Senate and was elected as the first Representative from the Seventh Congressional District. He studied law here at Georgetown University.

Richard H. Hill, Howard U. Secretary, Dies

Richard Hurst Hill, colored, 33, secretary of Howard University, died late Wednesday at Johns Hopkins Hospital, in Baltimore, it was learned here yesterday.

A native of Baltimore, he was graduated from Lincoln University, and received his theological degree from Harvard University. He served as special assistant to the president of Howard University in 1931, and later as instructor in the University's school of religion.

In 1934 he left the Howard faculty, and for a year served as pastor of a Baptist church in Charles Town, W. Va. He was appointed executive assistant to the president of Howard in 1935, and last year was elected secretary of the University. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Hilda A. Hill, and brothers and sisters. He lived at 501 Columbia road northwest.

Baptists Urge Nationalist Curb

Atlanta, July 20 (AP).—Creation of a strong international police force, eradication of private profiteering and curbs on nationalism were urged upon the Baptist World Alliance today as bars to international suicide by war.

The report, to be submitted to sixth annual world alliance convening Saturday, prepared by a committee headed by Dr. N. J. Nordstrom, of Stockholm, Sweden, recommended an international court of justice stabilized and supported by some kind of power and authority, such as an international police force.

Nazis Plan Ocean Air Service in '40

New York, July 20 (AP).—Germany is planning to start before next summer a North Atlantic air transport service with a six-motored plane weighing from 80,000 to 90,000 pounds.

Subject to the issuance of a landing permit by the American Government, the plane, accommodating probably from 30 to 40 passengers, will be used on the first nonstop service between Lisbon, Portugal, and New York, a distance of 3,300 miles.

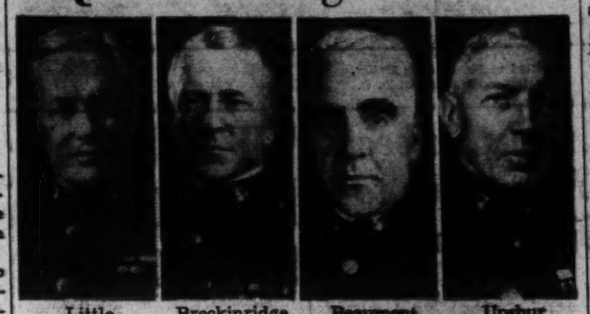
Little Replaces Breckinridge At Quantico in Big Turnover



Little, Breckinridge, Beaumont, Upshur

Williams, McDougal, Lyman, Vogel

Present Commander Will Take Charge Of Marine Base at Parris Island, S. C.; Gen. Beaumont to Head Reserve Here

Acting Secretary Edison yesterday announced a series of transfers of Marine Corps generals, effecting a turnover of virtually the entire Marine high command.

Described as routine and in accordance with the policy to rotate officers in important commands, the shift brings Maj. Gen. Louis McCarty Little, now commander of the fleet marine force, to command the Marine base at Quantico, Va. Maj. Gen. James Carson Breckinridge, now in charge of the post, will take command at Parris Island, S. C.

A native of Washington, Brig. Gen. John Golt Beaumont, comes here from San Diego to become director of the Marine Corps Reserve. Now commander of the Second Brigade of the Fleet Marine Force, he will relieve Brig. Gen. William P. Upshur, who goes to Quantico to head the First Brigade.

Vogel to Relieve Beaumont

Brig. Gen. Richard P. Williams, now first brigade commander, was named to head the fleet marine force. Brig. Gen. Douglas C. McDougal, selected this week for advancement to major general, will become commander of the Department of the Pacific, San Francisco. Now in command at Parris Island, he will relieve Maj. Gen. Charles H. Lyman, who will retire.

Brig. Gen. Clayton B. Vogel, now on duty at headquarters here, will relieve Gen. Beaumont, in command of the Second Brigade at San Diego.

The new commander at Quantico has had extensive expeditionary duty. Appointed to the corps in 1899, he was sent to the Philippines in the insurrection. After serving in China during the Boxer uprising, he returned to the States, but was soon off again for duty in Panama and later Cuba. During the World War he was fist marine officer of the Asiatic Fleet, and then with the naval forces in Europe. Since the war Gen. Little has spent three years in China on two separate tours of duty.

Gen. Breckinridge, a native of Memphis, entered the Marines in the Spanish-American War. In his early career, he served in the Philippines, Panama, Nicaragua, Cuba and Santo Domingo. He participated in the capture of Vera Cruz in 1914, and during the World War was a naval attache in Russia and the Scandinavian countries. He commanded the Marine Barracks here from 1923 to 1925.

During his 30 years in the Marine Corps, Gen. Beaumont has been much active service in Latin-American states. He commanded the Marine Barracks at the navy yard here from 1931 to 1933, later commanding the Fourth Marines at Shanghai for three years.

Gen. Williams entered the Marine Corps in 1899, from West Point. He served overseas during the World War, participating in the Meuse-Argonne offensive. His early service included expeditionary duty in the Philippines, China, Panama and Cuba. Since the war he was on duty in Santo Domingo and Haiti.

Gen. Upshur is a native of Richmond and a graduate off Virginia Military Institute. He holds the Congressional Medal of Honor for gallantry during the capture of Fort Dipitie, Haiti, in 1915. During the World War he served with the A. E. F. and has ben on expeditionary duty in Cuba, Santo Domingo, China and the Philippines.

The new Pacific Department commander has headed the armies of both Haiti and Santo Domingo, and was overseas during the World War. Gen. McDougal's long career includes service in the Navy and Aevenue Cutter Service.

Gen Lyman served with the District of Columbia Infantry Volunteers in the Spanish-American War. His early service in the Marines includes expeditfonary duty in the Philippines, China, Panama, Cuba, Alaska and in recent years Santo Domingo and China. During the World War, he was with the Atlantic fleet and later on duty here. He was the first commander of the Fleet Marine Force.

A former adjutant and inspector of the Marine Corps, is Gen. Vogel. In 35 years he has seen duty in Haiti and Nicaragua. A graduate of Georgetown Law School, he makes his home here.

Building Bans Guard Route In Montgomery

16th St. Extension in County Provided for By Planning Board

Weight of the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission has been thrown behind the movement to protect the right of way for the proposed extension of Sixteenth street into Montgomery County, Md.

Chief Engineer Irving C. Root has been instructed to hold up any application for building permits to construct houses on two proposed extension routes of the street.

The Park and Planning Commission adopted a resolution declaring it is the opinion of the commission "wise and proper development of the arterial highway system of Montgomery County north of Eastern avenue at the apex of the District and toward Baltimore ultimately will require both the straight extension of Sixteenth street to Georgia avenue, between Woodside parkway and Highland drive, and the further extension of Sixteenth street by way of Eastern avenue to the apex of the District and thence by what is known as the Columbia boulevard route to North Woodside."

Routes on Map

Both of these routes were shown on the preliminary map prepared by the aPrk and Planning Commission's engineer force last March, it was explained.

The resolution also set forth:

"It is the further opinion of this commission that the acquisiton of any portions of the right-of-way of either route where improvements are now contemplated should be made by the Board of County Commissioners or the State Roads Commission in the immediate future, either by purchase or condemnation."

Washington I. Cleveland, district manager of the Washington club of the American Automobile Association, announced Ezra B. Whitman, chairman of the Maryland State Roads Commission, had informed him the Roads Commission had decided the straight northern route was the more feasible.

Citizens Appear

..A delegation of 96 citizens ap-

A delegation of 96 citizens appeared Tuesday before the Montgomery County Commissioners to urge the right-of-way of the proposed extension be safeguarded against threatened encroachment by building. Businessmen of the Georgia avenue section began opposition to the change, although the Silver Spring Business Men's Association, adopted a resolution favoring the extension of Sixteenth street would seriously affect their trade.

Warrants Face Hedge Offenders In Arlington

Donald Locke, Arlington, Va., zoning administrator, said yesterday that unless home owners plant hedges and keep them cut in accordance with the law by August 1 warrants will be served on them to appear in the county court.

The law provides, he said, that hedges shall not be planted within 25 feet of street intersections and may not be more than 3½ feet in height. He said high hedges in many sections of the county constituted traffic hazards.

WPA Fund to Aid Pine Rust Drive

By the Associated Press

Charlottesville, Va., July 20.—An allotment of $20,370 has been made by the WPA to battle the dreaded white pine blister rust in Virginia, according to State Leader J. G. Luce, of his city, member of the bureau of entomology and plant quarantine of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Approximately 30 men will be employed on the project, which will operate in this county, Augusta, Henrico, Rockingham, Shenandoah, and possibly several other counties. Cooperating with the Federal bureau will be the Virginia Department of Agriculture, the Bureau of Plant Industry, and the Virginia Forest Service.

Niece of Duchess Is Jailed After Car Hurts 2 Boys, Flees

Audrey Gray, 21, Held in Connecticut; She Admits Hitting Youths on Bicycle, Police Say; One Loses Arm, Second May Die

By International News Service.

Putnam, Conn., July 20.—Audrey Gray, 21-year-old niece of the Dowager Duchess of Marlborough, was in a jail cell here today, held as a hit-and-run driver.

As she was being questioned word came that one of two boy victims of her racing roadster had suffered amputation of his left arm and the other, his younger brother, was near death from a skull fracture.

The boys are Wilfred Martineau, jr., 14, and Gerard, 10.

The 1938 debutante of Locust Valley, Long Island, is said by police to have admitted knowing striking the boys, riding on a bicycle, who swerved into the path of her car, but thought they had not been injured. She was arrested at Southbridge, Mass., half an hour after the accident, which occurred at noon. She waived extradition to Connecticut.

Police said the girl's car had a broken right front headlight, a dented door, its glass broken and the handle bloody, and a dented rear fender.

Miss Gray is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Gray. In February she came into possession of a $60,000 inheritance from her grandmother.

Mother, Gravely Ill, Kept Ignorant of Girl's Drowning

Leonardtown, Md., July 20.—Thirteen-year-old Catherine Gertrude Russell, drowned in a powerful undertow at St. Clement's Bay yesterday, was buried in the St. Aloysius Catholic cemetery here today. Her mother, seriously ill following an operation, lies in the hospital, unaware of the girl's death, or of the heroic rescue efforts made by her brother and father.

Catherine stepped into a 16-foot hole while wading off shore, and was swept from sight. Her brother Leonard, 12, and father, Herbert Russell, 35, raced to her rescue. The boy, also caught in the heavy undertow, was pulled to the surface by his father.

Leonard was unconscious and his father near exhaustion when the girl's uncle, Alfred Russell, 30, of Compton, Md., reached their side, and pulled them to shore. He revived the boy by artificial respiration, then returned and helped recover Catherine's body.

4-H 'All-Stars' To Confer Today At Va. Tech

Blacksburg, Va., July 20 (AP).—Members of the 4-H Club all-stars, honor organization, are expected at Virginia Tech tomorrow for their week-end conference which is a preliminary to the annual 4-H boys' and girls' State short-course to be held on the campus Monday through Friday, July 28.

Plans for the State short-course will be discussed with the all-stars by Miss Hallie L. Hughes and G. A. Ecan of the extension division staff here at the meeting Saturday morning. Miss Helen Ricks, District home demonstration agent, is to speak on the objectives of the organization.

Courses in various agricultural subjects will be conducted at the short course. Two conferences—one for boys and girls between 14 and 16, and the other for those 17 years and older—have been arranged.

Columbia Pike Widening Project Urged

Arlington Chamber Official Stresses Need For Congestion Relief

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST, Clarendon, Va. Tel. OXford 0592.

Widening of Columbia pike, from Glebe road to the Washington-Richmond highway, was advocated yesterday by Carol F. Winchester, secretary of the Arlington Chamber of Commerce.

Rapid increase in the county's population, bringing the total beyond 50,000 today, necessitates careful study by State and local authorities, Winchester believes, looking toward widening of several major highways traversing Arlington, particularly those leading into Washington.

Allocations already have been made by the State for broadening Lee Highway, from Rosslyn to Cherrydale, he pointed out, although completion of Lee boulevard, from Falls Church to the Arlington Memorial Bridge, is diverting some traffic from the older route.

If the county continues to develop—and construction permits show no decline—State and Federal officials, in the opinion of Arlington citizens who have studied the problem, soon must consider construction of another bridge connecting with Washington.

The old Chain Bridge has been replaced by a wide modern structure, but even with the Highway, Key and Memorial bridges, a campaign is likely to develop for construction of another span to handle the increased traffic.

Another problem the State must face soon, if not today, is that of high-speed traffic. With continued construction of homes along Lee boulevard, many believe speeds of 55 miles an hour a serious danger. This is true especially from the traffic light at Glebe road to Memorial Bridge, where residential construction is very active.

If the present speed limit of 55 miles an hour is to be continued over State highways there is expected to be increasing support for the appeal of the Arlington County Safety Council, county officials and the Chamber of Commerce for assignment of more than one State trooper to patrol the four State highways leading into the District of Columbia.

Frederick Water System at Normal After Pipe 'Geyser'

Frederick, Md., July 20 (AP).—Housewives and industrial plants enjoyed a normal water supply again today after workmen had repaired a broken pipe that spouted like a geyser in the street, reduced pressure at the Linganore pumping station and caused a temporary shortage.

Repairs to the 18-inch pipe that burst late Tuesday were completed last night, the pumping station main was refilled and today the city's water service was back to normal.

Some industrial plants ceased operations and housewives were seriously inconvenienced after the break occurred.

Chapel Point Crab Wears Spectacles To See the Better

A crab that came up out of the Potomac wearing a pair of spectacles had residents of Chapel Point, Md., thinking they might have been seeing things yesterday.

The crab was captured by young Freddie Miller, son of George Miller, of 1285 Talbert street southeast, summer resident of Chapel Point.

In one claw the crab clutched the baited line, in the other the spectacles.

Only one who could be entirely sure of what was going on was Sam Cook, a carpenter employed in repairing Miller's dock. He had lost the glasses in eight feet of water the day before.

Manassas Rites Today to Honor Gen. Bee

Memorial Association To Unveil Monument To Southern Hero

On the Manassas battlefield near the Henry House at 2 p. m. today, the Mary Taliaferro Thompson Southern Memorial Association will present and unveil a monument to the memory of Brig. Gen. Barnard E. Bee, of South Carolina.

The exercises will open with the invocation by Dr. Warren Stuart. Mrs. Norma Hardy Britton, president of the Southern Memorial Association, will be introduced by State Senator John W. Rust, president of the Manassas Battlefield Association.

The principal speaker will be Col. J. Rion McKissick, president of the University of South Carolina.

The monument to the memory of Gen. Bee, who gave the name of "Stonewall" to Gen. Thomas J. Jackson just before Bee received his fatal injury on the battlefield, will be presented by Mrs. Norma Hardy Britton and unveiled by Miss Anne Rives Evans, president of the Charles M. Steadman Chapter, Children of the Confederacy.

The monument will be accepted on behalf of the Manassas Battlefield Association by President Rust.

Vienna.—The Vienna Bank has informed the Vienna Town Council that its attorney, State Snator John Rust, has held that the town cannot legally borrow money for road construction, giving as security the land it inherited from the Charles Hines estate.

Resident State Engineer W. W. Sanders, who surveyed the town streets at the request of the council last wek estimated it would cost aproximately $8,000 to hard-surface the mileage selected by the council as most in need of repairs, according to Town Clerk F. A. Wilcox.

The bank's decision leaves the council no alternative for raising necessary funds save a bond issue, and there is slight possibility that a bond issue for roads would now carry in the corporation. A public meeting, May 22, turned thumbs down on the proposal. Bond issues for sewers and water were voted down previously. Now many of those who would support a bond issue for roads feel town sewer and water lines must soon be laid, especially in the congested districts, and would oppose spending money for roads which might have to be torn up again for pipe lines.

Wilcox said a meeting of council will be held within a few days to further discuss the matter.

Excess Profits Laid to Utility In Maryland

Blandford Requests Inquiry by Public Service Commission

Joseph H. Blandford, former Prince Georges County commissioner, yesterday charged the Maryland Light & Power Co. "is earning greatly in excess of a fair return" and asked for an investigation of its electric rates by the Public Service Commission.

Blandford, a representative of the Southern Prince Georges County Citizens Association and the Brandywine Grange ,said a thorough study by both these groups had revealed that the utility's return was 18 per cent of the cost of its property and 24 per cent of the capitalization.

The Maryland Light & Power Co., Blandford said, serves an area bounded on the north by Piscataway Creek and including part of Prince Georges County, about half of Charles, all of St. Marys and part of Calvert.

Protest Previously Lodged

In this area, he said, the cost of electricity is 60 per cent higher than in the territory north of Piscataway Creek, which is served by the Potomac Electric Power Co.

Several months ago, a delegation from southern Maryland went before the Public Service Commission at Baltimore protesting against the electric rates. At that time, Blandford said, the commission explained the higher rates south of Piscataway Creek were due to the fact that the Maryland Light and Power Co. serves a rural area, where the cost of operation is relatively high.

Following this hearing, Blandford said, several lawyers and accountants who belong to the Grange and Citizens Associations conducted their investigation.

Wants Records Checked

"I am convinced," Blandford declared, "that our figures are correct, and I feel sure that the Public Service Commission will not refuse our petition for a check of the records of the utility."

Hugh C. Bickford, president of the Southern Prince Georges County Citizens Association, said he had been informed that the rates charged by the Maryland Light & Power Co. were the highest east of the Mississippi River.

Body in River Believed That Of D.C. Veteran

Photograph Resembles Missing Friend, Says Soldiers' Home Man

A possible clew to the identity of the elderly man in a dark gray suit whose body was found in the Potomac River, near Marshall Hall, last week, turned up yesterday 3 hours after the body was buried at Waldorf, Md.

John T. Kemp, of the United States Soldiers' Home here, went to the undertaker's parlor at Waldorf to see the body. He had seen the photo of the unidentified man printed in The Washington Post yesterday and thought he saw a resemblance between him and a war veteran whom he said had been missing from his home here for about 10 days.

But when he arrived at Waldorf at 10 a. m., the body had been buried 3 hours. Kemp, who is quartermaster for the John Jacob Astor Camp, Spanish War Veterans, told the undertaker also that he had seen the high-topped black shoes worn by the river victim and they seemed to be of the kind worn by the missing man.

Knew Missing Man Well

Kemp also told the undertaker that the man he had in mind as being the victim of what Sheriff Robert V. Cooksey, of Charles County, declares to have been murder, had nursed him during an illness recently and he had his appearance strongly in mind when he saw the picture in The Post.

Sheriff Cooksey said last night that he would bring the shoes to Washington today to see if a cobbler can identify them as ever having passed through his shop.

Kemp said the man he had in mind was very frequently absent and was known as a small trader of such objects as pocket knives and cheap watches. A cheap watch, made by the Westclox Co., was found in the clothing of the man in the river, along with two pocket knives.

May Exhume Body

The undertakers buried the body, which had been at their establishment since the night of July 12, at 7 a. m. yesterday in the Waldorf Cemetery. Sheriff Cooksey said if necessary the body will be exhumed.

A number of persons have seen the body, but none could identify it. The Federal Bureau of Investigation, given the records of the case, could not identify the man.

Kemp last night said he was positive that the type of shoe worn by the victim was of the sort issued on the reservation, but that before he could be positive in identification he would have to see the body. The man he had in mind as the possible victim had been in the Army since the Spanish-American War, he stated.

The sheriff bases his theory of murder on the scars that were found on the head of the victim and on the autopsy that disclosed no water in the victim's lungs, indicating that he had come to his death before the body was thrown in the river.

Sea-Going Trains Across Mexican Isthmus Urged

Use of sea-going trains to cut 1,100 miles from the salt water route between New York and San Francisco was urged here yesterday by Ulises Iriogoyen, special delegate from the Mexican treasury department.

Irigoyen is in Washington to discuss with State Department and Maritime Commission officials his government's plans for the Isthmus of Tehuantepec, where a 160-mile railroad connects the Atlantic and Pacific, as a custom-free zone to speed intercoastal commerce.

The Mexican agent has conferred during the last five weeks with American shipping executives on construction of vessels to carry loaded freight cars to Puerto Mexico and Salina Cruz, which would be designated as free ports. The trains would move swiftly across the isthmus rail route, he explained, and be loaded onto similar ships at the other side.

Irigoyen declared the railroad and both harbors are now prepared to handle an annual load of 1,000,000 tons of freight.

Pay Wife $20,370, D. C. Man Ordered

Pittsburgh, July 20 (AP).—Judge G. Malcolm McDonald today awarded $20,370 to Mrs. Eleanor Sander, of suburban Wilkinsburg, for arrears on a support order against her husband, Oscar T. Sander, 55, of Washington, D. C., retired Pittsburgh grocer.

The judgment was the largest of its kind in Allegheny County's history. Mrs. Sander was the former Eleanor Gibson, daughter of William Gibson, millionaire steel executive.

have to be opened to keep children off the street.

When Barrett was made recreation director he came into supervisory control of what the Park and Planning Commission considers potentially the best city recreational system in the world.

He will explain its long-range workings Monday at a meeting with Commissioner David McCoach and Mel C. Sharpe, member of the Board of Education, who comprise the recreation subcommittee apointed to assist in unification of the city's play facilities under Barrett.

The system is physically sufficient to care for Washington's play needs even today, if money were available for adequate supervision, Barrett said yesterday.

100 in Operation Now

"Of course, we have more than 100 playgrounds in operation right now. I want to put all the additional workers we get onto the most needful of them," he declared.

Over a period of ten years, the Park and Planning Commission has spent $8,500,000 acquiring land for a park and recreational system. Twenty-six major recreational centers, six secondary centers, and 128 minor units or playgrounds are provided for in the plans. Of these 160 units, a total of 114 units are now in public ownership or being acquired and are available for development and use.

The entire plan has been built around the idea that supervision of the large system would be unified. Until Barrett's appointment, however, supervisory control had been split between the District Playground Department and the Community Center Deparment of the Board of Education. Friction over budgets and authority often naturally resulted, officials pointed out yesterday. The insufficiency of funds to run the areas to capacity is blamed largely upon this situation.

"We have developed the system with school locations in mind. Half of our major centers adjoin senior or junior high schools and 71 of the 134 secondary units adjoin elementary or other schools," John Nolen, jr., director of planning for the commission, declared.

Grounds Broken Into

The Webb School, the grounds of which were broken into Wednesday night by unknown persons leaving a note saying their closing was a denial of liberty, is two blocks from the Rosedale Playground, which is open the year round, but which has no supervisor for small children.

Mrs. Florence H. Rogers, supervising principal of schools in the Webb district, said last night that until leaders were secured for the larger play areas she hoped the playgrounds would be opened.

"We still hope to get Webb opened for the small children, even if for just during the month of August. We have tried volunteer workers, but they just don't do."

Under present plans, a total of 50 additional WPA workers will be assigned to recreational work. Some of them, it is expected, will be added to the staffs at Franklin, Gallinger Parks, Burroughs, Rosedale and Garfield playgrounds and Randall and Banneker recreation centers.

Barrett said police had called his office to learn whether he had sent representatives through the city to solicit funds to help open play grounds. He warned that no fund-raising campaign was being conducted by his office nor by any other responsible organization of which he knew.

Crash in Fog Injures Utah Woman, D. C. Son

Mrs. Alice B. Kimball, 60, of Salt Lake City, Utah, was seriously injured, and her son, Frank C. Kimball, 28, of 2525 Minnesota avenue southeast, suffered cuts when their car crashed into a parked machine in dense fog near Hagerstown, Md., yesterday.

Kimball's wife, Mrs. Lela D. Kimball, 27, driver of the car; their son, Frank, jr., 4, and Helen Barton, 18, of Salt Lake City, escaped injury.

Kimball, a clerk in the Federal Housing Administration, and his mother, were admitted to Washington County Hospital in Hagerstown. The family was en route from Salt Lake City to Washington.

British Plan To Buy Peace Is Reported

London May Offer Hitler Big Loan for Reich Disarmament

By the United Press.

London, July 20.—The British government tonight was reported to be preparing a "positive peace plan" for submission to Fuehrer Hitler in late summer if the "negative policy" of defensive alliances fails to assure the tranquility of Europe.

According to well-informed diplomatic circles the plan, when finally evolved, may comprise the following points:

Germany would be asked to sacrifice some of her armaments. Britain and her allies would require guarantees that such unilateral disarmament actually is carried out.

Loan to Nazis Envisioned

Britain in return would obtain for Germany a huge loan to enable Hitler to transform German industry from a war to a peace basis.

Further concessions to Germany, such as the granting of colonies, would be considered once the reduction of German armaments actually had begun.

Britain would use every instrument of propaganda at her disposal to let the German people know about this offer, so that, if war comes, Germans would know that their government is responsible."

The sources of this information said a hint of this supposed plan already had been conveyed to Berlin and also mentioned to Dr. Helmuth Wohlthat, Nazi economic expert now in London, but that it would not be put forward officially until late August or early September.

Success Doubtful

It is known that at the time of the crisis last September Chamberlain hoped the political appeasement brought about by Germany's annexation of the Sudetenland would be followed by disarmament and economic appeasement. This also was believed to have been the idea of Sir Horace Wilson, the prime minister's closest adviser, who, despite his recent promotion to head the civil service department, has remained in Chamberlain's offices at No. 10 Downing street.

Diplomatic quarters, however, doubt that the scheme would succeed and believe that Hitler never would consent to disarmament, especially the unilateral disarmament of Germany. Nevertheless, some admit that the plan may have propaganda value in showing the German people and other nations how far Britain is willing to go to avert war.

Poles Would Fight Alone, British Hear

ened police force were sent to Polish border points.

The slain Pole, whose name was given here as Vitold Budziewicz, was shot by Max Stein, a Danzig customs inspector.

The Danzig and Polish versions of what happened still were far apart tonight.

The Danzig story was that the Pole had aimed his rifle at the customs officer from a distance of 50 feet and that the latter, on Danzig soil, fired "in indisputable self-defense."

"If Stein had not shot, he would have been a dead man now," one Danzig officer said.

Slaying Defended

The Nazi newspaper Vorposten stoutly defended Stein's conduct and said the incident "is renewed evidence of the danger brought about by the artificially stimulated psychosis of nervousness in Poland. . . .

"But it is questionable if one may still speak of nervousness—it is more rightly that we are confronted with deliberate Polish provocation."

The semiofficial Polish explanation o fthe shooting said the Pole, who belonged to special border troops administered by the finance ministry, was killed by a rifle bullet on Polish territory about 300 feet from Danzig soil.

Wife Saw Shooting

This statement said the shooting was witnessed by the soldier's wife, the wife of another soldier and by a 15-year-old boy near the Polish community of Trzpionki.

The Polish witnesses said that from his home near his post Budziewicz saw two Danzig storm troopers and a Danzig customs officer cross the border. He mounted his bicycle to ask the Danzigers for authorization to cross the frontier.

The Polish statement said he dismounted about 30 feet from the men, but when he began to shout questions the Danzig cusoms officer, without uttering a word, raised his rifle and fired once. Budziewicz was shot in the abdomen.

Then the three fled across the field to the border and on toward the Danzig village of oPstelau, where, the statement said, "forces of Danzig elite guards are building fortifications and tank traps."

Poles Indignant

Polish indignation was at a high pitch, particularly in Gdynia, but foreign observers in Warsaw expected the Polish government to do its utmost to keep the incident from developing to dangerous proportions. The Warsaw press, as an example, did not carry first reports of the affair and officials withheld comment.

In the building of the Polish mission here, Commissioner Marian Chodacki was visited several times by Danzig Senate officials. (A Warsaw dispatch said the Danzig Senate was prompt in expressing regrets over the incident.)

Some Danzig Nazi leaders were observing informally that "Max Greuber has been avenged."

Creubner, a Danzig citizen known for his Nazi convictions, was shot and killed at Kalthof, on the frontier in Free City territory, last May 21. The chauffeur of Polish Undercommissioner Tadeuz Perkowski was accused of doing the shooting.

Nazis said the record for the two months now showed one dead on each side, but Polish officials asserted the incidents were in no way comparable.

Credit Accord Hinted

London, July 20 (INS).—Great Britain today reached a virtually complete agreement with Poland to advance a $100,000,000 arms export credit to the eastern European country. Only minor details remain to be ironed out before the understanding is concluded.

While both economic and military negotiations in Warsaw were rapidly progressing toward successful culmination, the talks in both Moscow and Tokyo neared the critical stage.

Navy Urges Former Sailors To Join Special Reserves

Trained Manpower Sought to Make Up Warship Crews in Case of Emergency; Roosevelt Pushes U. S. Defense Program

The Navy yesterday asked former sailors to enter a "minute man" reserve force, available to fill out warship crews in an emergency.

Rcruiting was started in a new class of the reserve, composed of men who have completed an enlistment in the active Navy, or who have been out of the service less than four years. Several thousand men are expected to enroll in the force, which is similar to the Army's new enlitsed reserve.

Under plans for the new "Class F-2" of the Naval Reserve, men will be paid $20 a year for keeping themselves physically fit, and agreeing to serve in an emergency. They will not have to drill.

Air Field Fund Asked

Meanwhile, President Roosevelt asked Congress to appropriate $16,931,000 more for national defense needs. He asked for $8,431,000 in direct appropriations and $8,500,000 in contract authorization for construction at nine Army air fields, filling out an $85,000,000 fund for building a chain of new air bases. War Department officials had hoped to obtain the funds from the WPA, if a larger Federal allotment had been provided.

Other defense developments were:

Congress passed and sent to the White House, a $5,000,000 authorization for expanding 14 Army posts, providing additional areas for training. Nearly 1,000,000 acres will be bought, including 10,000 acres for Fort George G. Meade, Md.

Repair Ship Ordered

The Navy awarded a $13,997,000 contract for construction of the 8,350-ton repair ship Vulcan to the New Yok Shipbuilding Corporation.

President Roosevelt signed a measure authorizing construction of a $1,500,000 highway, connecting vital Panama Canal defense points.

The Chief Executive asked Congress to permit the diversion of $6,000,000 of shipbuilding funds for the purchase of armor-plate construction facilities. He warned the shipbuilding program will be seriously delayed if the Government does not provide such facilities for private manufacturers.

C. of C. Attacked For Urging Curb On Immigration

New York, July 19.—The American Committee for Democracy and Intellectual Freedom today asked the State Chamber of Commerce to repudiate a report on "Conquest by Immigration" issued by the chamber's committee on immigration and naturalization.

The report, prepared by Dr. Harry H. Laughlin, of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, urged that the United States "reaffirm the national immigration standards for racial and family stock qualities" by severely curbing immigration.

The Comfimittee for Democracy and Intellectual Freedom charged Dr. Laughlin and the Chamber of Commerce with "unethical conduct in their attempt to lend scientific support to the very same racial myths which are causing so much hatred and brutality in the world today."

V. F. W. Chieftain Hits U. S. 'Saviors'

Detroit, July 19 (AP).—Eugene I. Van Antwerp, commander in chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, in a radio address tonight warned the public of "self-appointed red, white and blue Stalins, Hitlers and Mussolinis" in the United States.

Referring to "certain super-patriots and opportunist demagogs who have suddenly discovered Americanism," Van Antwerp described leaders of "various groups" as "egomaniacs as well as plain racketeers," and said their chief objectives were "collecting dues, donations or subsidies and the sale of uniforms."

Reich Reported Signing Pact to Aid Rumania Farming

London, July 20 (INS).—Germany and Rumania today signed a protocol "providing for vast schemes to improve Rumanian agriculture," Reuter's new agency reported late tonight from Bucharest.

The protocol was appended to the German-Rumanian trade pact concluded last April. Terms of the protocol, Reuter's said, will be made public Sunday.

Danzig Issue Held Blind to ConfuseBritain

Keturhing Educator Finds Free City Now Controlled by Reich

Special Dispatch to The Post

New York, July 20.—Danzig actually is "100,000 per cent German now," and the Reich issue concerning its acquisition has been but a blind to confuse England and other war-fearing powers, because the Reich will not strike this summer, but possibly in September she will seize all of Poland, it was reported today by Gregor Zeimer, retiring headmaster of the American School in Berlin, who arrived on the United States liner Manhattan.

Associate Justice Felix Frankfurter, of the United States Supreme Court, and other notable arrivals on the ship, declined to discuss the imminence of war, referring reporters to Mr. Zeimer.

"I wanted to come back home where a knock on the door at 6 a. m. means the milkman," said Ziemer bitterly. "In Germany it is a favorite time for the Gestapo to barge in. If you hear a knock at 6 a. m. in Berlin, many people kiss their families goodbye."

Founded School

Ziemer, in his early thirties, recalled how through the "honorary" auspices of the American Chamber of Commerce in that city eleven years ago he had helped found the American School of Berlin for students between the kindergarten and college ages. For when, because there were a few German Jewish scholars in his classes, he was ordered to drop them "or else."

Unperturbed by the polite "raids" of the Gestapo, he said that he had induced officials of the American Embassy in Berlin to intercede with the Reich culture ministry, with the result that more than 20 of his 90 students were not molested, the Jewish or so-called non-Ayan score, being permitted to continue their course under "special license issued by the ministry of culture."

Many Sent to Camps

But, he continued sadly, for more than two years a father of one of his girl "non-Ayran" pupils has been in a concentration camp, with no knowledge of why he was held there.. And the fathers of 20 other students were sent to concentration camps last fall, he said.

Justice Frankfurter, who returned from Oxford University, where he recently received the degree of doctor of civil law, declined to add any comment otthe remarks of Mr. Ziemer, with whom he discussed Reich problems frequently during the homeward passage.

When asked if rPesident Roosevelt was within his legal rights in saying in effect that WPA workers had no right to strike, as had been reported in the papers, he threw up his hands in mock horror, saying, "I havelock jaw on that, and on all other questions."

Senate Is Asked To Reconsider Bill Slipped Through

By the Associated Press

Administration leaders asked the Senate yesterday to reconsider its speedy approval Tuesday of legislation designed to restrict and control the powers of scores of Federal agencies and bureaus that exercise judicial and legislative powers.

Senator Minton (Democrat), of Indiana, the Democratic whip, protested the bill was passed by unanimous consent when he was out of the chamber and with few Senators "knowing what was in it."

Democratic Leader Barkley supported Minton. The author of the measure, Senator Logan (Democrat), of Kentucky, finally agreed to reconsideration, provided the Senate agreed to early action.

Dentists Go on Record Against Indigent Care

Milwaukee, July 19 (AP).—The American Dental Association's house of delegates approved today a promotion of dental health programs and holding that idigent care was a local problem and "not a responsibility of the dental profession."

JapanEmbargo BelievedBound For Siderack

Senate Committeemen Think Hull Would Find It Breach of Treaty

By International News Service

Sidetracking of the Pittman bill to authorize President Roosevelt to proclaim an embargo upon exports of war supplies to Japan, was foreshadowed by a survey of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee yesterday.

Though Secretary of State Cordell Hull had not yet submitted comments on the measure, some committeemen said they believed he would hold that the measure, if enacted, ould violate America's 1911 treaty of amity with Japan. Under that pact the United States cannot put any barriers on trade with Japan that are not simultaneously imposed upon all other nations.

Isolationist members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee had served notice they would fight the bill, with claims "it would mean war with Japan."

Prof. Blakeslee Questioned

While Prof. George Blakeslee, of Clark University, Worcester, Mass., was testifying before the committee on a companion to the Pittman bill, Representative Fish (Republican(, of New York, asked:

"Do you think Japan would take this lying down? "Don't you think it might mean war?"

"It might," Prof. Blakeslee replied.

"You are willing to take a chance with the lives of American youths?" Fish resumed.

"If you want to put it that way," replied Blakeslee.

Fish and other enemies of the bill later said President Roosevelt should "recognize that Japan and China are at war," and invoke the neutrality act under which an embargo on arms for both nations would be imposed.

Dictatorship Feared

Hanover, N. H., July 20 (AP).—Branding the Bloom neutrality bill as a step toward dictatorship, William R. Castle, former Undersecretary of State, declared today that what he feared in all forms of neutrality legislation was "the tendency to put more and more powers in the hands of the President."

Speaking before the conference on politics and the public conscience at Dartmouth College, the former American Ambassador to Japan said:

"The President . . . has immense powers under the Constitution, especially in time of war . . . I do not want to add to those powers other powers which are those of a dictator. If the so-called Bloom bill should be enacted into law, it would give the President the authority to get us into war without reference to Congress."

Mahon to Get D. C. Finance Post, Is Report

Taylor to Make Him Sub-committee Head Over Casey, Is Word

By James D. Secrest.

The job of chairman of the House sub-committee on District appropriations may go to Representative Mahon (Democrat), of Texas, it was learned yesterday as the resignation of Representative Collins was accepted.

Chairman Taylor, of the House Appropriations Committee, was reported reliably last night to have decided to select Mahon over the head of Representative Casey (Democrat), of Massachusetts.

Casey is the ranking Democrat on the sub-committee and by seniority rule is entitled to the chairmanship. The seniority rule is not binding, however, in the appointment of sub-committee chairmen.

Casey Called a "Spender"

While no official comment was forthcoming, it was understood that older members of the House Appropriations Committee felt that Casey is "a spender" and therefore not to be trusted with the job of writing an appropriations bill, even for the District.

Casey, who hails from Clinton, Mass., also has ruffled the feelings of some of the senior members of the committee by failing to take the committee assignment very seriously.

Last night he said he had not been consulted about the chairmanship at all, but that he would not put up a scrap if the chairmanship went to Mahon.

Mahon Seems Willing

Mahon, a lanky Texas lawyer, also said he had not been approached formally on the matter, but indicated a willingness to accept it if requested to do so by Chairman Taylor.

Both Casey and Mahon are freshmen on the sub-committee.

Collins has been assigned to a place on the Agriculture sub-committee and he appeared happy yesterday to relinquish the job which he has described as "worse than the itch."

Patterson Named To ICC Board

Senate. Words was carried to the White House that he could not be confirmed. Finally Amlie withdrew. Railroad labor organizations were in the forefront of the Amlie opposition. The Wisconsin Progressive later was made a special assistant to the Attorney General on land cases.

Subsequent to the Amlie appointment, the President named J. Haden Alldredge, of Alabama, to another vacancy on the commission caused by the retirement of McManamy, formerly associated with railroad labor. The brotherhoods did not oppose Alldredge, who was confirmed, but they expressed disappointment, and pressure increased on the President to name a representative of railroad labor.

In the three months since Amlie's appointment was withdrawn, speculation had centered on other Western candidates, and at one time reports circulated that former Gov. Elmer Benson, of Minnesota, might be named to the post.

Long With Railroads

Like Amlie, Patterson was born in Wisconsin, but his nomination was accredited to North Dakota, where he made his home before coming here as safety appliance inspector for the I. C. C. in 1914. He was made assistant director of the Bureau of Safety in 1918 and moved into his present post as director of the bureau in 1934. He is 59 years old. His appointment as I. C. C. commissioner will expire December 31, 1945.

Patterson had a long record as a railroad man before coming here 25 years ago. Starting as a call boy for the Wisconsin Central Railway at Stevens Point, he progressed to brakeman, fireman, switchman and conductor for various roads. He was a conductor for the Northern Pacific Railroad when he was named safety appliance inspector.

With his wife, the former Margaret M. Hinderman, of Mankato, Minn., and a daughter and son, he has been a resident of Washington since.

Weddell to Ask Franco to Free 21 U. S. Prisoners

Burgos, Spain, July 20 (U.P.).—Harold Dahl, American aviator who has been a captive of the Spanish nationalists for two years, is one of the 21 American prisoners whose release will be requested within the next few days by the United States Embassy, it was understood tonight.

Ambassador Alexander W. Weddell was said to have decided to press for release of those captured while fighting for the Spanish loyalists.

Dahl, a native of Champaign, Ill., was shot down while flying for the loyalists on the Madrid front July 12, 1937. His beautiful wife, a singer, wrote Generalissimo Franco and prevented Dahl's execution. He is held in Salamanca.

Modified Lending Bill Faces Revolt

to finance the second year of the program. Jones recommended no cut in the bill's lending authorizations, however, and said certain legislative authorizations now included in the bill would be needed to enable the R. F. C. to finance some types of projects.

Jones' testimony that the R. F. C. now has authority to make loans to small business, and that its recoveries therefrom are far below other R. C. F. repayments was seized on by opponents of the Mead plan to insure loans to small business.

The Federal Lending chief interposed no direct objection to the Mead amendment, which has drawn White House support. Asked at one point if he opposed the amendment, he was reported to have replied, "Haven't I said enough."

Adjournment Plans Clouded

Mead meantime introduced a second amendment to liberalize the power of the Federal reserve banks to extend insured long-term credit to small business concerns. He said it had the approval of Chairman Eccles, of the Federal Reserve Board. He estimated a total of $278,000,000 would be available from Treasury gold profit allocations to the Federal reserve system and amounts due the Treasury from the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

Prospects of adjournment July 29 grew dimmer as Republicans and some Democratic Senators clamored for further changes in the program. Senate Majority Leader Barkley said he hoped to bring the bill before the Senate next Monday and Chairman Wagner said he will make every effort to report the bill before the week-end.

Changes Outlines

Last-minute Administration modifications proposed yesterday by Barkley provided not only a basic change in the original "self-liquidating" character of projects, but eliminated permanent revolving fund features and deleted authority to create new State corporations to assist in the program.

Another change may have the effect of cutting $140,000,000 under the budget in previously appropriated funds by alloting the entire cost to the general lending program. For example, $40,000,000 already appropriated for the Rural Electrification Administration, could be impounded by the Treasury, it was said, in lieu of adding it to the $500,000,000 made available by the lending bill to the REA. Another $100,000,000 already appropriated for the Bankhead Farm tenant act could be impounded by the Treasury, and NOT added to the $600,000,000 farm tenant lending outlay in the bill.

Leasing Restricted

Railroad equipment building and leasing provisions were restricted by Barkley so the equipment could only be constructed and supplied on specific contracts with the railroads. Chairman Wheeler, of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, who had vigorously objected to the original rail equipment proposal, said he still opposed the underlying theory.

Senate Republicans, who met in conference yesterday to discuss the bill, voiced general opposition despite Administration concessions. Senator McNary said afterward that although "pleased at modifications made because of minority criticism," there were strong objections to the bill even as modified.

U. S. Control Feared

The minority leader said Republican conferees feared the bill's enactment would "substitute Government control over business now conducted by private enterprise."

"The conference felt that Federal agencies now exist to take care of items contained in the bill and that there is no need for further authorizations," McNary said. "Republicans will offer amendments to remove some of the powers given in the bill, to decrease the amounts, and to otherwise improve the bill."

Navy Tug Sent To Fish Out Plane

Norfolk, Va., July 20 (AP).—The Navy tug Owl was ordered to proceed to the Potomac River tonight to take in tow a Navy plane that landed in the river late today.

The plane was attached to Patrol Squadron 15, now based at Annapolis, and was up with several others in daily routine flight. Details were lacking, but it was stated no one was hurt.

U. S. Announces Wages Under Drug Contracts

Secretary of Labor Perkins yesterday announced determination of minimum wages of workers engaged by drug companies that have contracts with the Federal Government in excess of $10,000 as provided for under the Walsh-Healy act.

The Secretary ruled that these employes, engaged in the manufacture, processing, or packing of drugs, excluding industrial chemicals, must be paid 37½ cents an hour or $15 a week of 40 hours, effective August 3.

British Race Writer Held for Spy Trial

London, July 20 (AP).—Donald Adams, 56-year-old racing journalist, was ordered held for trial on a charge of spying for Germany at the conclusion of a preliminary hearing today.

When he was brought before a police magistrate June 30, Adams said he was innocent of "giving away anything that is not in the public press."

permit them or periodicals from expressing an opinion regarding political candidates.

Nettled by G. O. P. Solidarity

Nettled by the Republican solidarity on the measure, two Democrats offered facetious amendments which rolled up a surprising vote.

Representative Duncan (Democrat,) Missouri, first proposed to prohibit a candidate for Congress making an "audible public speech" or spending any money for buttons, circulars, and placards. He was defeated, 72 to 188.

Then Representative Sacks (Democrat), Pennsylvania, proposed to make it unlawful for a political party to make public a platform "which promises the voters anything." He, too, was defeated, on a standing vote of 28 to 141.

Representative Hobbs (Democrat), Alabama, spoke against the Dempsey clause barring officials from political campaigns or "management." He said the House should strike at coercion and corruption but not "at the root of our fundamental liberties."

Representative Dirksen (Republican), Illinois, replied that if Hobbs' advice were heeded the Hatch bill would be "disemboweled."

Earlier, at the urging of Representative Mott (Republican), Oregon, the House voted to delete fro mthe bill, as presented by the Judiciary Committee, a section saying that administrative employes of the Government have the right to "participate in the activities of a political party."

This, too, was a victory for the bipartisan bloc bent on passing the bill in substantially the form it came from the Senate.

Fight for Original Bill

After it arrived from the Senate, the House Judiciary Committee inserted the clause which was deleted tonight. The committee made other amendments.

The bipartisan bloc's aim tonight was to restore the measure to its original form.

To the charge that the original bill was badly drawn Representative Dempsey replied that after the bill passed the Senate, the House Judiciary Committee amended it so that "a Federal attorney may go out and make speeches in a political campaign, holding a flag in one hand and a bunch of indictments in the other.

"Do we want people coerced in this manner?" he demanded. "Do we want supervisory employes of the WPA putting additional trucks on the job in name only in order to get money to pay for political contributions they have had to make?"

Hobbs Argues for Bill

Representative Hobbs argued for adoption of the bill as it came from the committee, asserting it was so drafted that it would outlaw "every pernicious political activity that has been damned on this floor or occurred in any State."

He said the committee bill was "all that is necessary" to end "pernicious influences," and challenged any member "to give any good reason under God's sun" for adoption of the form of bill Dempsey advocated.

Proponents of the plan have asserted that one of their intentions was to prevent any Administration in power from dominating national conventions through the selection of office-holders as delegates and other devices.

Orders to Burn Manila Revealed

Special Dispatch to The Post

Manila, P. I. (Friday), July 21.—Evidence that Benigno Ramos, leader of the Sakdal party, had written to his followers instructing them to burn Manila and seize the Governor General and other Americans as hostages, was introduced into the opening session yesterday of Ramos' trial for rebellion at the time of the Sakdalista uprising in 1935. The latter introduced into court was written from Japan, where Ramos fled to escape arrest.

The Sakdal party leader announced recently that he would become a candidate for the Philippine presidency in 194 if no other candidate appeared to oppose Manuel Quezon.

all hope for changes in the wage hour act at this session of Congress.

In view of the position taken by Representative Barden (Democrat), of North Carolina, "and the interests he represents," Andrews declared, "it appears that impassable differences exist."

Barden is the leader of the House group demanding exemptions for workers in agricultural industries. Vigorously opposing the amendments, President Roosevelt said they would result in unconscionably low wages for about 2,000,000 lowest paid workers.

Informed of Andrews' statement, Barden declared that "if Mr. Andrews would pay more attention to his job and less to trying to run Congress he might turn out a few more practicable and sensible interpretations of the law than he has been doing.

Invited to Appear Today

"If he is under the impression that the act is in need of changes to make it workable, why hasn't he appeared before the subcommittee of the House Labor Committee appointed to work out satisfactory changes. Why doesn't he cease being an obstructionist."

Andrews said he had been invited to appear before the subcommittee today. Barden conferred with the group yesterday.

Andrews remarked that he had read Barden's statement "in which he makes it clear that he will stand firm as a matter of principle and insist on his amendments which are merely a renewal of the 'dime-an-hour' bloc proposal for wholesale exclusion of needy workers from the act."

Labor's Wishes

Asked at a press conference whether he still favored the amendment excluding workers earning more than $200 per month, he replied:

"No sir, I was for it on the assumption that it would make administration of the act easier. But organized labor is against it, and since they have done such a swell job for me in helping me fight my battles I think it would be unethical for me to press for that amendment if they object to it."

His reference to organized labor, he said, was to the American Newspaper Guild, which is affiliated with the Congress of Industrial Organizations. The guild has fought the Barden amendments.

The House Rules Committee will meet this afternoon for a showdown battle on the question whether to report out a rule which would permit the Barden amendments to be considered on the House floor as a substitute for the Norton amendments. The Administration has agreed to the latter changes.

Landlady-Elect Of Father Divine Gets Tar Treath

Newport, R. I., July 20 (INS).—Atherat to "tar and feather" Mrs. Angela Kaufman unless she foregoes plans to turn her mansion—The Castle—over to "Father" Divine, New York colored cul leader, was disclosed late today by Mrs. Kaufman, who said it was received in an annonymous letter.

The letter ordeerd her to leave Newport, as she was no "addition" to the colony, and said there "were more than a thousand" ready to assist in tarring and feathering of the society woman.

Mrs. Kaufman, however, felt she had nothing to fear "from persons of the type of the writer."

without critical intent, although he "went into the question of just how young people are going to know when to stop" drinking.

"I even said she couldn't be blamed," Dickinson elaborated, "when her husband had gone into a Presidential campaign and called a special session of Congress with repeal the objective in both cases."

With a slight movement of his shoulders he expressed his unconcern over Murphy's statement that he was "being used" by politicians and bigots.

"No politician has influenced me on this," Dickinson said.

A recall movement against the Governor started by John B. Corliss, jr., of Detroit, collapsed today. Corliss wrote the Governor he would withdraw the recall petitions.

In his letter, Corliss praised what he called "your honest execution of the official duties and your competent administration of State affairs," and told the Governor his "only offense" was "your preachments upon domestic sins, your moralizing opinions, and your parental usurpation of the right to direct the people in the way of righteousness according to your own belief." This, he added, "is the office of a saint, not a governor."

Murphy to Defense

Frank Murphy, red-headed, abstaining United States Attorney General, rushed yesterday to the defense of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, whose remarks on the temperate use of liquor by young women were criticized in a radio address by Luren D. Dickinson, 80-year-old Governor of Michigan.

In soft-spoken tones, the Attorney General, who described himself as a "total abstainer," told his press conference that the radio statement of Dickinson, former lecturer and Sunday school teacher, was "indefensible and absolutely unjust."

In almost the same breath, however, Murphy spoke of Dickinson as a "man of integrity in deadly earnest," and one whose views, in general, "ought to be respected."

Murphy's Comment

Commenting on Dickinson's address, Murphy said, "only a combination of reactionary politicians and bigots could spawn a thing of that kind and use him to do it."

After declaring that "Gov. Dickinson ought not to be misunderstood," the Attorney General made the following comment:

"Mrs. Roosevelt doesn't need to have anyone speak for her. She's the most interesting and useful of all the First Ladies in history. I believe her social responsibility and matchless industry and capacity for action and her sense of tolerance are an inspiration to all the young people of this country."

"Mrs. Roosevelt," he continued, "would never permit what's happened in Michigan the last two months."

He went on to declare that a "reactionary Legislature" had misled Gov. Dickinson in "destroying the merit system and setting up of political control over the people's health program."

"The other day's doing was the worst of all," he continued. ". . . taking away the complete support of the crippled children's program, so that the hospitals are turning crippled children out into the streets."

Star-Spangled Banner Memorial Is Sought

Senator Radcliffe (Democrat), of Maryland, yesterday introduced a bill to create a 21-member committee to direct Federal recognition of the 125th anniversary of the writing of the "Star-Spangled Banner."

The resolution would authorize expenditure of $5,000 as the Federal share of the costs of a celebration at Fort McHenry, Baltimore, September 14.

committee," she asserted, "Your committee will be fair and just and if it is just and necessary to amend the law, it'll do just that. . . . We are just as anxious as any of you to do the right thing and we feel that we are doing it."

Ramspeck, who declared he was not opposed to an investigation of the board, asserted the forthcoming one "would make worthless the work of the committee." He added he had differed with the board on questions of jurisdiction and other issues, but said, "Why throw away the efforts of the committee, which has been working for ten weeks?"

Representative Leland M. Ford (Republican), of California, replied, "Business can't wait," and that "business is important enough to have amendments before this House now."

Representative McDowell (Republican), of Pennsylvania, supporting the resolution, declared "ruthless politicians" had agitated unjustified strikes in his district.

Representative Cox (Democrat), of Georgia, told the House it would "be here until Gabriel blows his horn" if it waited for the Norton group to bring out amendments.

The House action came in the midst of hearings by House and Senate Labor Committes on proposed amendments.

Labor Spokesman Heard

On the Senate side, William J. McClafferty, chairman of Labor's Non-Partisan League of Delaware, told the committee Delaware employers and "some of our local goevrnment officials are still defying most essential provisions of the act."

He said organized labor, both A. F. off L. and C. I. O., were opposed to any amendments now.

At the same time, Senator Holt (Democrat), West Virginia, demanded the Non-Partisan League, headed by John L. Lewis, tell the committee how it was financed. He sought his information from E. L. Oliver, executive vice president of the league, who was opposing the amendments. Oliver replied that he was not familiar with the budgets or finances of tthe league, but said he had helped to pay the expenses of some of the league witnesses who appeared before the committee. Oliver said further that expenses of the league were about $50,000 annually, but higher during election years.

Duce to Distribute Sicily to Farmers

Rome, July 20 (AP).—Premier Mussolini today announced a 10-year plan to break up large landed estates in Sicily and to substitute small farms cultivated by the families living upon them.

The plan contemplates construction of 20,000 individual farms in an area of about 1,250,000 acres at a private and public cost of 4,000,000,000 lire ($208,000,000). The large landowners are expected to co-operate voluntarily and receive compensation for their land.

Tax Harpoons Whale Trade, Leaders Say

Urge Repeal of Levy On Oil Secured by Foreign Killer Ships

"There she blows," that electrifying cry of the whaling ship's lookout, was sounded yesterday in the genteel surroundings of a Hotel Mayflower banquet room as leaders of the American whaling industry mustered strength to avert "certain doom."

And certain doom it will be for the industry, warned H. J. Isbrandtsen, president, and other representatives of the Western Operating Corporation, if Congress refuses to lift the 3-cent excise tax on each pound of whale oil brought in by American vessels employing foreign "killer ships."

1,400 Whales Killed

The Western Operating Corporation, owner of the whaler Ulysses, is the only American company functioning in the Antarctic, which is now the world's richest whaling grounds. Last winter, the Ulysses' second season in the Antarctic, more than 1,400 whales were taken by her eight "killer ships" and rendered into fats and oils on the refinery vessel.

Isbrandtsen, himself a former whaler who left home as a boy in Denmark to go to sea, said 380,000 tons of whale oil come out of the Antarctic annually and "killer boats" sometimes travel 250 miles from the mother ship in quest of the world's largest game.

He told how his company was fined $10,000 for harpooning a whale because it was 1 inch under the 70-foot minimum.

A bronzed, soft-spoken man who long since exchanged his Danish citizenship for American, Isbrandtsen revealed that good gunners earn as much as $16,000 a year, none less than $6,000.

All Gunners Norwegian

"All 260 of them, whether they work for the Germans, Japanese, British, Americans, Scandinavians or under any other flag, are Norwegians," he asserted.

And that is the cause of the present controversy. On the alst day of hearings before the Senate Finance Committee on the revenue act of 1938, a rider was proposed saddling a 3-cent-per-pound excise tax on whale oil brought in by an American ship using foreign "killer boats."

Since whale oil brings only 4½ to 5 cents a pound, perpetuation of a 3-cent tax will kill the industry, according to Isbrandtsen, who hopes Congress will enact a bill which would lift the tax for a 5-year period.

Others who spoke for repeal of the 3-cent excise tax were George deForest Lord, counsel for the Western Operating Corporation; Wayne L. Douglas, director of the American Whaling Information Service, and John B. Gordon, secretary of the Bureau of awR Materials, American Vegetable Oils and Fats Industry.

Four Youths Held On Robbery Count

Charged with assault with intent to rob in connection with the shooting of a storekeeper several weeks ago, four colored youths yesterday were held for the grand jury under bonds totaling $100,000.

Commissioner Needham C. Turnage held each in $25,000 bail on arraignment before him on charges of shooting Nathan Broidie, of 410 Eleventh street southwest, during an alleged holdup attempt.

The suspects were arrested by robbery squad detectives during the past two weeks. They were questioned in connection with a series of recent safe burglaries.

Urges U. S. Give Niemoeller Haven

A plea for America to offer a haven to the Rev. Martin Niemoeller, imprisoned German pastor, and his family, should they desire it, was voiced on the floor of the Senate yesterday afternoon by Senator Davis (Republican), of Pennsylvania, who contended they could enter as nonquota immigrants, under an amended section of the 1924 Immigration Act.

"Martin Niemoeller is under the laws of his country," said the legislator, stressing that "I do not seek to interfere with those laws, for they are completely subject to the will of a foreign power. I would not by any slightest inference wished to be placed in the position of meddling with the internal policy of a country not my own.

"However, I believe I speak for millions of my fellow countrymen when I say that should Martin Niemoeller and his family come knocking at the doors of America, they will find a hearty welcome because of the admiration we hold for the Niemoeller spirit of liberty.

"The free, independent spirit in man is a source of pride in the heart of every true American. We admire the man of courage and heroic stature. Such a man is Pastor Martin Niemoeller, now held, we are told, in a concentration camp at Sachenhausen, Germany."

Senate Confirms Davis Reappointment

Colom Conclave Delegate

Jose L. Colom, chief of the Pan-American Union Division of Agricultural Co-operation, has been appointed delegate to the Seventh World's Poultry Congress and Exposition, to be held in Cleveland July 28 to August 8, it was announced yesterday by Dr. L. S. Rowe, director general of the union.

Doomed to Die, Quips at Party

New York, July 20 (AP).—Claude Bradley, doomed to die in a few weeks, chuckled tonight in memory of the jests and high jinks last night at a gay party 200 of his friends gave him at the Montauk Club.

Brad had the best time of anyone there. He played the piano, offered toasts, and made a speech in which he plucked a rose from a table bowl and said:

"Fellows, the doctors say I'll soon be wearing a lot of these on my chest. I'll be out in Flatbush Cemetery. Well, what the hell, thousands die every minute. When you gotta go, you gotta go."

Brad is 53 and a successful cement salesman, though his legs are paralyzed and he gets orders by telephone. Since May he has known he must die soon of cancer.

August Oil Demand

The Bureau of Mines yesterday estimated August domestic market demand for crude oil at 3,521,900 barrels daily or a total of 109,180,000 barrels. This is 8,700 barrels a day more than the July estimate and 19,200 barrels, or about one-half per cent, more than the actual demand in August, 1938.

Oxygen Too Much For Thetes Crew

London, July 20 (AP).—A famous British scientist, J. B. S. Haldane, who tested the effects of foul air in a sealed chamber and concluded it was unpleasant but not torture, today suggested a new theory why 99 men failed to escape from the submarine Thetis.

At a special inquiry into the disaster, Haldane said the sudden transfer from the foul air in the submarine to the escape chamber, while breathing the oxygen of the Davis' escape apparatus, might have been too much for the men.

Smith Purdum Will Speak at Rockvile Rites

Smith W. Purdum, Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, will deliver the main address tomorrow at the dedication exercises for the new Rockville (Md.) Postoffice Building.

Judge Stedman Prescott, of the County Circuit Court, whose resolution in the Rockville Chamber of Commerce set in motion the drive for the new building, will be master of ceremonies. Capt. Ward W. Caddington, commanding the Service Company, First Infantry, Maryland National Guard, will be grand marshal of the parade, which will precede the exercises. Crescent J. Bride will be his aide.

The official flag-raising ceremonies will be conducted by James Blaine Fitzgerald, vice commander of the Southern Maryland District, American Legion.

Roger Shaw, general chairman, and other members of the general committee, met last night with Dr. George L. Edmonds, postmaster, to complete plans.

13 Farce Poison Death Charges, Deny Counts

Philadelphia, July 20 (AP).—Thirteen men and women charged with complicity in seven deaths attributed to the East's wholesale poisoning syndicate pleaded innocent at a mass arraignment today.

Judge Raymond MacNeille fixed Monday for start of trials.

Robinson Will Head Dentists Next Year

Milwaukee, July 20 (AP).—The house of delegates of the American Dental Association this afternoon chose Dr. Wilfred H. Robinson, of Oakland, Calif., president.

He will take office at the close of the 1940 convention, which the delegates awarded to Cleveland.

McNutt Prepares To Assume Post

Indianapolis, July 20 (AP).—Paul V. McNutt made several calls on political associates here today before leaving for Washington to resume his duties as head of the new Federal Security Administration.

Asked about the 1940 Democratic Presidential nomination, he said: "I'm thinking more about the Federal Security Agency right now than I am of anything else."

He indicated Clarence A. Jackson, Indiana unemployment compensation director, would join him in Washington soon to help set up the Federal security program.

WPA's Cultural Projects in D. C. Get 30-Day Stay

The ax which was to fall July 31 on the local WPA projects of art, music, writing and historical research, was stopped in mid-air yesterday by a reinterpretation of Federal orders.

Ross Haworth, assistant administrator of the District WPA said approximately 260 persons employed on the projects wont have to worry about their jobs until the end of August.

In the meantime, reports on the status of the projects are being worked out to furnish information to any sponsors who may be willing to contribute 25 per cent of the operating costs so they might continue past August. Sponsors must be tax-supported institutions.

Cuts in the administrative staff continued yesterday. About 15 persons were given dismissal orders. Fifteen more are expected to go today.

John Roosevelts To Visit England

Boston, July 20 (INS).—John Roosevelt, youngest son of the President, and his wife, formerly Anne Lindsay Clark, will sail for Europe next week from New York, it was learned today.

They plan to spend most of their time in England, but may make a flying visit to Paris. Young Roosevelt has obtained a six weeks leave of absence from his position with a Boston department store.

Half-Grown Bear Runs Baggage Car

Madison, Wis., July 20 (AP).—A half-grown yearling bear took over the baggage car on a Northwestern train near La Crosse today and had things well in hand until the train reached Madison.

Antarctic Service To Shape Plans of Byrd Expedition

A new agency, the United States Antarctic Service, was established yesterday by President Roosevelt's interdepartmental committee named to co-ordinate preparations for an expedition to the Antarctic to establish America's territorial claims there. These clams are based largely on explorations of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd and Lincoln Ellsworth.

The Antarctic Service will be administered by the Department of the Interior through its divison of Territories and Island Possessions. Its executive committee in charge of arrangements includes Ernest Gruening, director of the territories and islands division; Hugh Cumming, of the State Department; Capt. Charles C. Hartigan, of the Navy, and Rear Admiral Russell R. Waesche, commandant of the Coast Guard. Admiral Byrd, who will head the new expedition, is ex-officio member of the service.

Mrs. Rose Thorpe, 'Curfew' Author, Dies in San Diego

San Diego, Calif., July 20 (INS).—Mrs. Rose Hartwick Thorpe, who wrote "The Curfew Must Not Ring Tonight," nearly 75 years ago and became even more famous as a poet-editress, died at her home here last night. She was 89 Tuesday.

"Curfew," which has been handed down from one fascinated generation to another, was written on a slate, while Mrs. Thorpe was supposedly doing her home work at her farm home at Litchfield, Mich. She was about 15.

She was about to erase the poem when her mother, who read it over her shoulder, stopped her. Later it was sent to a Detroit newspaper which paid her for it with a $1.50 yearly subscription.

U. S. Inspection of Mines Approved by Senate

Federal inspection of all coal mines to improve safety practices was approved yesterday by the Senate Committee on Mines and Mining.

The measure, by Senator Neely (Democrat), West Virginia, and Representative Keller (Democrat), Illinois, has been indorsed by the United Mine Workers of America, and opposed as "unnecessary duplication of State mine bureau activities" by many coal operators.

Grange Favors Ban On 'Pernicious Politics'

The National Grange yesterday approved the Hatch bill to outlaw "pernicious political activities." It said the measure "proposes a reform that is long overdue."

The bill is scheduled for heated debate in the House today.

Emergency Measures

The recent series of outrages attributed to Irish terrorists has led the British government to demand far-reaching powers from Parliament to combat this seemingly increasing menace.

The bill would, in certain cases, permit the authorities to set aside long-cherished principles of civil liberty and to act in a manner reminiscent of totalitarian states. British subjects entering Great Britain from abroad could, under the proposed law, be arrested and deported without benefit of habeas corpus or trial by judge and jury.

It must be assumed that this unbridled authority would be exercised only if absolutely essential to protect the British people against recurrence of such criminal bombings as have recently endangered hundreds of lives in London and other cities. But there is no telling just how far drastic measures, once authorized, will be invoked or against whom.

The fact is that Great Britain today feels herself in a state of emergency exceeded only in wartime. One by one established rules of procedure are being set aside, particularly with regard to actions which, if allowed to continue, would imperil the safety of the nation.

If the tiny minority of Irish fanatics plans to act on the old assumption that "England's peril is Ireland's opportunity" the British government feels it important to be fully prepared to meet that threat.

It Will Not Down

It is proposed that the essentials of the Mead bill, providing for Government insurance of loans to business enterprises, should be attached as a rider to the Administration's latest spending-lending program. The President may derive some political advantage from his advocacy of this proposal. Otherwise there is no valid argument in its favor.

No less an authority than Jesse H. Jones, former RFC chairman and newly appointed Federal loan administrator, stated recently that there is already sufficient credit accommodation for small business concerns. The Government and the banks, acting in co-operation, have, he believes, done all that is necessary to loosen up credit. Mr. Jones has since given a somewhat grudging indorsement to the Mead plan, saying that it might make people realize that they could borrow money for business purposes, although he sees no special need for the legislation.

While the Mead bill may prove nonessential, and hence relatively innocuous so far as its direct effects are concerned, it tends to encourage a departure from sound banking principles. For that reason it has been strongly denounced by conservative banking groups. There is abundant evidence that the banks today are eager to make loans to business concerns—large or small—if they are good credit risks. If insurance against loss is considered necessary, the chances are that the loan is one of the "breadline" type that Mr. Jones would not wish to acquire for the RFC.

As the Chamber of Commerce of New York State pointed out in protesting against enactment of the Mead bill, the kind of money needed "is not commercial bank loans, but venture capital which is lying idle because investors can see little possibility of employing it profitably."

Cutting Building Costs

A new method of concrete application, the vacuum concrete process, is said to have contributed materially to the early completion of the first unit of the Red Hook low-rent dwellings in Brooklyn, recently opened for occupancy.

Building construction has always been more or less at the mercy of the weather, work being generally suspended or at least interrupted during periods of extreme cold, rain, or snow. On the Red Hook project, however, construction operations were maintained almost continuously during one of New York's more severe winters.

By the vacuum concrete method, materials heated to 70 degrees before mixing may be poured at below freezing temperatures. A three-to-five minute treatment dries and consolidates the freshly placed concrete so rapidly that a person walking on it immediately thereafter makes no discernible imprint. In addition to the speed and economy of the process, the resulting substance is said to have tested 50 per cent stronger than ordinary concrete.

At a time when construction estimates so frequently fall short of final costs, the Red Hook development seems likely to be completed at a saving of $3,000,000—despite the fact that prevailing wage levels have been maintained throughout. Toward this saving the vacuum process has contributed in no small measure, in the form of decreased concrete construction costs.

The United States Housing Authority and the New York Housing Authority are to be congratulated on an achievement with very direct bearing on improved employment in a vital basic industry.

Degenerate Insurance

Theoretically, crop insurance should be an ideal method of spreading the unpredictable losses due to drought, flood, pests and other agricultural vicissitudes. In practice, the difficulties of working out an actuarially sound system of all-risk crop insurance are staggering. Private companies have tried to do so in the past and failed in the attempt. However, after prolonged discussion and study of the subject by Department of Agriculture experts, the Government last year launched an experimental insurance plan applicable only to wheat.

With the experience gained in this field to serve as a guide, Secretary Wallace hoped that the system might gradually be extended to cover other crops. The Senate, instead of waiting to discover the outcome of the initial essay with wheat has now voted to extend the insurance plan to cotton.

Senator Schwellenbach, an authority on the subject, believes that five years' experience with the present restricted program should precede extension of the experiment. Obviously, the wheat insurance plan is still in the formative stage. Only about 10 per cent of growers took out insurance on this year's crop and the Government does not yet know whether it will lose or gain from its operations.

The premiums paid by insured farmers have to be adjusted with reference to the degree of risk. That depends upon many factors. And the resultant wide variations in rates—while necessary if the system is based on sound insurance principles—are likely to create dissatisfaction. Moreover, farmers in areas where crop failures are rare are apt to be indifferent to insurance plans. Hence there is a tendency for the good risks to be eliminated from the system and for the poor risks to predominate.

Debate in the Senate over the cotton-insurance plan revealed the strength of the political influences at work to scatter the benefits of crop insurance without taking time to study the nature and extent of the risks involved. This careless and impatient attitude suggests that a good many Senators are not thinking of crop insurance as a type of paid-for protection, but merely as a variant of the agricultural benefits and bounties bestowed by a prodigal Government.

Senator Danaher, of Connecticut, thinks the tobacco crop of his State should be protected. Senator Pepper, of Florida, wants the citrus fruits and vegetables of his part of the country covered into the system. And no doubt most of the other Senators could name some special crop to logroll into the list. In the long run, therefore, it is highly probable that the Government's crop insurance system will lose its insurance character and become another thinly disguised agricultural subsidy, paid largely to farmers in regions where crop failures are frequent.

Summer Guests

Most visitors reach the Nation's Capital sooner or later, and so it is with the Japanese beetle. Originally found in this country in 1916, the beetle was previously known only in Japan. It is believed to have been imported along with Japanese plants. Regardless of how its introduction came about, the invader is now very much at home and appears to be ours for keeps. It is ravaging many of our fruits, crops, shrubs, vines, trees and does not even scorn weeds.

At first centered largely around New Jersey, the beetle is spreading rapidly throughout the East, and though it has been in Washington over 12 years, has increased noticeably in the last two or three, especially in the southern and eastern parts of the city. The beetle spreads from concentrated areas, but also hitch-hikes by air, sea and land. A majority of the pests come out of the ground about the middle of June. Their life cycle is completed early in August.

Spread of the invader apparently can not be stopped, but it can be retarded; and that is one of the lines along which the Department of Agriculture is working. Quarantine stations have been set up to keep the secondary spots from spreading. In the meantime Government laboratories are constantly striving for better methods of control.

Among those already successfully used are different sprays, depending on the type of plant infested; traps, which have been found of only dubious value; and the importation from Japan of some of the beetle's natural enemies. When some flowers are attacked, especially roses, nothing can be done without injuring the flower. The only alternatives, therefore, are screening especially cherished blossoms and picking other buds off as soon as they appear. Luckily for Washington, the best rose season and the beetle season do not coincide.

The beetle has run its course in other parts of the country where it has been thickest. In general it tends to diminish and become less destructive after a period of adjustment to its new environment. Those now contemplating the insect's ravages may console themselves by reflecting that time has a chastening influence on the excesses of lower, as well as of higher, organisms.

No Good Samaritan

Since its creation at the Evian conference a year ago, the Inter-Governmental Committee on Refugees has produced very little to show for its labors.

The committee's efforts to work out a speedy and constructive solution of the German refugee problem have been blocked at every turn. While forcing the victims of its racial and religious persecutions to emigrate, the Third Reich has seen to it that they are deprived of practically all their possessions before being thrown on the tender mercies of the outside world. And every plea to the Nazi regime to mitigate the rigors of this inhuman system has fallen on stony ground.

As a result, a large portion of those who have emigrated from Germany during the past year, have been penniless. Out of 150,000 refugees who have found a temporary or permanent haven in other European countries, no fewer than 60,000 are still being supported wholly or in part by private organizations.

On the other hand, relatively few of the 31 nations represented on the Inter-Governmental Committee have made any exceptional effort to give shelter to the refugees. At Evian, the spokesmen of these nations made many speeches emphasizing the sympathy of their governments for the victims of racial persecution. But when it came to implementing these humanitarian sentiments, the governments have more often than not followed the example of the priest and the Levite, who "passed by on the other side."

But the absence of any government willing to play the role of Good Samaritan does not mean that the refugee problem is automatically solving itself. On the contrary, the lot of these unfortunates tends to grow progressively worse. It is encouraging news, therefore, that President Roosevelt has agreed to meet with the chairmen and the vice chairmen of the Inter-Governmental Committee in Washington next September in a new effort to speed up procedure for permanent refugee settlement.

The plight of these victims of persecution continues to be a grave challenge to civilization. No matter what valid economic, financial and political excuses the democratic nations may have, they cannot adopt a policy of inaction in this issue without standing condemned before the bar of history. The problem is clearly not of their making. But that does not make the responsibility any the less.

Small Faith In NLRB

The Senate amendments to the Walsh-Healey act, making it applicable to contracts as low as $4,000 and bringing subcontractors under its jurisdiction, seem eminently reasonable. The present law, applying only to contracts in excess of $10,000, is estimated to affect only 3 per cent of all Government contracts, or about 15 per cent of the money spent by the Government for supplies. Such a restricted coverage means that the law is both discriminatory and relatively ineffective.

Controversy flared, however, over the proposal to make contractors who had violated the Wagner act ineligible for three years to bid on Government contracts. This amendment, inserted at the urging of organized labor, was criticized sharply by Senator Taft during the debate. In the first place, he objected in principle to efforts to enforce the provisions of one act by penalizing a violator under another act. In the second place, he pointed out that the uncertainties of interpretation of the national labor relations act make it difficult in many cases for an employer to know whether or not he is conforming to the law.

Last year a bill which failed of enactment in the House went so far as to provide that when a person violated an order of the NLRB he should at once be disqualified from bidding on Government contracts. The Senate bill, however, contains a safeguarding provision that prospective bidders shall be ineligible only when found guilty by a court decree. Chairman Madden of the NLRB, testifying a year ago before the House Judiciary Committee, maintained that if the question of unfair labor practices had to be litigated through the courts, the delays would be so great as virtually to defeat the purpose of the law.

However, the Senate was evidently impressed with the danger of doing injustice to employers by imposing penalties for alleged violations of the Wagner act without awaiting the outcome of a court test. And when the House voted yesterday to investigate the fairness and impartiality of the NLRB it said in effect that Congress is much more likely to curtail than to extend the authority of the board.

Democratic Prediction

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Years ago the Democrats in Congress assembled checkmated Cleveland's efforts to better conditions and wandered in the wilderness for 16 years, and next they killed Woodrow Wilson's efforts toward a League of Nations.

Now they have "shut up shop" and are going home without supporting the President's efforts to ward off danger to the United States in these unsettled times. It recalls Gen. Grant's encouraging remark to his party years ago, when, just before election time, things seemed to brighten a little for the Democrats and the Republicans were on the anxious bench: "You can always depend on the Democrats to do something foolish." Does this prediction still hold good?

REAL VIRGINIA DEMOCRAT.
Washington, July 18.

A Refuge?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In today's paper is an account of 350 German and Czech refugees sailing on S. S. Orbita from La Rochelle, France, for "some South American port" temporarily, only later to enter the United States permanently. Same old story! Why doesn't Congress enact a law admitting only refugees direct from Germany? All outside Germany already have a refuge.

J. K. ELLIS.
Washington, July 17.

For And Against Alien Bills

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: With reference to the letter in The Post of July 19 attacking the needed further restriction of immigration and the needed further curbing of aliens, who are mere guests in our house, that would literally pull it down on our very heads by their radical and even subversive activities, I would like space to point out that the Men's Trade Union League squarely disagrees with the so-called Women's Trade Union League.

Before aliens "change our form of government," let them become citizens, as the Dempsey bill requires, and assume full responsibilities for our form of government.

And as to registering aliens. Every other country does it. Every hotel has to register every guest. Every auto is registered and licensed. Every married couple is registered. So is every voter. The President had himself and every White House employe fingerprinted. Why not?

The Hobbs bill that passed the House May 5 with only a few votes against it and that has been favorably reported by the Senate Judiciary Committee, would merely take out of circulation here four groups of aliens who have been found deportable, but whom Stalin and other foreign dictators and governments won't allow us to deport, because they want them here to carry on their work of overthrowing our government, or don't want such enemies of society any more than we do. They should be put in Ellis Island, as the bill proposes, or in some other secure place, until they will either get out, or Stalin and foreign governments will take them back.

The truth about the Hobbs bill and the other 60 bills denounced by the so-called Civil Liberties Union and all the other opponents, who appeared against these bills at hearings held so far, is that they are either communistic or internationalistic, and are not nationalistic or American in their viewpoint, misconstruing liberty into license. As has been so well said, civil liberty does not mean "freedom of speech" to cry fire in a crowded theater and bring death by panic to fellow humans, nor to overthrow our Government by force and violence.

The American Federation of Labor, the Junior Order United American Mechanics, the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and all the patriotic groups of real believers in true civil liberties and real freedom to all American citizens, support this needed legislation and these 60 American bills that would curb radicals and deport obnoxious alien guests in our house and who should be shown the door, even forcibly.

Miss Lyle complains about the press not giving publicity to the A. C. L. U., the so-called National Emergency Conference and other organizations opposed to the needed patriotic legislation. The papers have given space repeatedly and even commented favorably on the pious professions of all these affairs pulled off in the Capitol, and have printed her letter, one of the longest I have ever seen in The Post. Now, will The Post print this one in reply? It is not as long as hers and, I submit, completely answers her letter.

WILLIAM L. RAU,
Executive Secretary,
Men's Trade Union League.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Bill of Rights sustained another blow last week when the Senate Judiciary Committee put on the consent calendar the Hobbs bill (H. R. 5643), already passed by the House, which provides concentration camps for deportable aliens whose native countries will not receive them. Add this to the Reynolds stoppage of immigration and registration of aliens bill (S. 409) and the Smith catch-all anti-alien bill (H. R. 5137) reported out recently by Senate and House committees, respectively, plus the Dempsey deportation for opinion bill (H. R. 4860), already passed by the House.

Here we have a menacing collection of anti-alien bills not equalled since the bitterly opposed alien and sedition bills of 140 years ago, whose passage led subsequently to the destruction of the then dominant Federalist Party and the repeal of the bills themselves.

The National Emergency Conference met two months ago at the call of some 60 leaders of progressive American thought and was attended by 200 delegates of 106 organizations (labor, civil rights, church, patriotic, etc.) with a membership of over 3,000,000 persons. Conference speakers (such as Senator Murray, Monsignor Ryan, Vilhjalmur Stefansson, etc.) analyzed these bills as an opening wedge by which reactionaries were trying to introduce into America the concentration camps, red-hunting and domestic passports of the Old World.

They predicted that the drive against aliens would soon be matched by a drive against American citizens who might be alleged to entertain minority opinions or to be engaged in labor activities.

These bills are as un-American as Hitler. They run directly counter to our traditions of hospitality to the refugees of tyranny, who seek to regain their lost freedom in a free land. These bills threaten the civil rights of all Americans. They are so extreme that they may seem ridiculous, but their thus far successful journey through Congress makes them a real danger.

Acting Chairman, Washington Committee, National Emergency Conference.

G. O. P. Publicity

To the Editor of The Post: Sir—The Honorable John D. Hamilton, chairman of the Republican National Committee, has announced the appointment of Dr. Emmett J. Scott as assistant publicity director in charge of Republican publicity in the Negro press.

Dr. Scott's long service in public and semi-public capacities eminently qualifies him for this responsible task. He has become an adept in political manipulation and persuasion. By nature suave, tactful, diplomatic and debonair, his pleasing personality gives him easy approach to men of high rank and station. Dr. Scott has remained loyal to the ideal and traditions of the G. O. P. while the majority of the most outstanding men of the race have bolted to the Democratic Party and the New Deal. Chairman Hamilton could not have found a man better, if so well, qualified for the difficult task assigned.

During the past ten years the Negro voter has switched his allegiance all but en masse from the Republican to the Democratic side of the equation. This is especially true of the effective Negro vote of the North and West which alone constitutes the concern of both the Republican and Democratic parties in the approaching 1940 election.

Genuine American statesmanship of both parties has always deprecated the baleful influence of the solid South and the solid Negro vote upon national politics. The division of his vote has been urged upon the Negro by the wisest counsel of both parties.

In former years this division meant a judicious distribution between the parties so as to avoid the risk and danger of putting all of his eggs in the Republican basket. But today the situation is reversed. Mr. Hamilton and Dr. Scott can only hope to pursuade a minor fraction of the Negro vote to desert Roosevelt and the New Deal for their former Republican allegiance.

Lay Off Machines

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The WPA strike is wrong for both the unemployed and the Government. When the WPA workers strike they are like the dog in the manger that bites the hand that feeds it. When the Government feeds the unemployed by means of unnecessary made work, it costs more than direct relief, and if the work is necessary it takes it from private industry and thus makes idle dollars to help idle men.

The only right way out is for industry to lay off machines instead of men, but that industry will not do voluntarily, and therefore I have asked Congress to have all machines licensed for control, and a license board established in Washington with power to revoke the license of enough unnecessary machines to give gainful labor to all idle workers, and then take machines back as needed, and in all cases of business recession, lay off machines instead of men.

This, in a short time, would make enough purchasing power for both men and machines and would restore prosperity, never to leave us again.

Hold Up

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Just 21 years ago today I got mine on a field a little south of Soissons. As you will recall, there was quite a party in that section of France on that day.

I believe it is an appropriate date upon which to congratulate isolationist Senators who talk "keep us out of war" and work overtime on silly legislation beautifully designed to help the guerrillas who, with a gun at the head of civilized nations, demand our national purse.

The Post Impressionist

Genevieve

Sometimes when I am very busy, and time seems to crack a blacksnake whip at my back, I can say "no" to my children with firmness and conviction. Paper dolls and pirates have their fascinations, to be sure, but if one should (hypothetically speaking) envision a moment of leisure, a book and a cushion at one's back would make a much more alluring picture.

But there are times when once having said "no," I commit the gravest error possible so far as discipline is concerned and make an about-face affirmative to the proposition that I stop what I am doing and play with them. And that is because I can see in the dim reaches of memory the blurred outline of a pleasant, vacant face.

Once I heard my father suggest that perhaps it would be better if Granny left me at home when she went to see the Jones family (I shall call them that because I cannot remember their real name.) I was about to stage a tantrum, at which art I was becoming rather adept, when for some reason or other the decision was reversed, and I found myself walking sedately beside the tall, black-clad figure, listening to the stiff skirt rustle, and watching the blue veins fill in the thin hand that was held out for me to hold.

Granny, a born philanthropist, was not to be thwarted by the absence of the fortune that should accompany the instinct. The mill village in our town provided her a field of activity, and her quiet wisdom and clever fingers probably brought more lasting good than money to the ill-clad, undernourished inhabitants of those bleak match box cottages.

She had a large, flat bag under her free arm, which more than likely contained a warm knit sweater for Mrs. So-and-So's baby, a bottle of blackberry cordial for the boy with dysentery, and maybe a well-thumbed black leather Bible from which she would read to poor old Mrs. Botts, who was blind and bed-ridden.

But the object that made me miss a skip when I thought of it was the scrapbook she and I made for Genevieve. There were large colored pictures cut from magazines, and a beautiful chromo off an old calendar, showing a house that once belonged to a man named Shakespeare. There were pictures of energetic women in Dutch clothes who chased dirt, and a life-sized yellow chicken just stepping out of its shell announcing that it hadn't scratched yet. Some Christmas cards had found their way into the pages of the scrapbook, and glistened with artificial snow. And there was a valentine—the mammoth kind with a scarlet bosom of red tissue paper that rose when you opened the tab.

And it was to be my pleasure and privilege to visit with Genevieve while Granny was making her calls, and to explain to her the wonders that lay behind the drab gray covers! And Genevieve would smile and nod and be immensely pleased with me and the scrapbook, and Mrs. Jones would thank Granny very quietly, and reach out to hold one of the long, heavily veined hands for a moment before we left.

It was strange to see a big girl like Genevieve who couldn't walk. She always sat in her chair, and as I faced her I could look about the room and see all sorts of odd and wonderful things. The spread on the bed had red chickens embroidered on it, with a sitting hen in the very middle and roosters crowing from the bolster case. And there was a large framed photograph of Mrs. Jones' husband which was taken as he lay in his coffin. I used to eye it furtively with a morbid desire to keep on looking, but my mother had told me that it was not kind to stare.

That was the nice thing about Genevieve. She didn't require every bit of one's attention like real children did. She was a child and yet she was grown up, but I couldn't put my finger on the difference. In November we had brought her a birthday cake with 19 candles, and that made her older than my cousin who was away in college. I guessed that it was because she didn't have much to do and so had a lot of time to play; and that was what made her so happy.

And she was happy. Her face was wreathed in a constant smile, and the slightest thing delighted her. Once Granny brought her a prism, and Mrs. Jones wheeled her over by the window where she could catch the sun. The first day I had to throw the rainbows for her because she was slow at learning things, but the next time she did it herself, and the little room blossomed with rose and green and violet. A large rainbow lit on Mr. Jones' picture, and I gazed at the colors and didn't realize until too late that I could have been looking at the coffin without hurting anyone's feelings.

Sometimes when Granny went calling through the mill village she would leave me at the Jones house with an old-fashioned magazine, and Genevieve and I would play paper dolls. I can't remember what we talked about, or if we talked at all; but the queer part about the whole affair was that Genevieve, who was grown up, should know how to play.

Granny pretended to play, but all the time we were making scrapbooks and things I knew she was miles above me. Mama could play, and she made me the loveliest doll dresses; but she was usually busy. Genevieve really played with me. It was very queer.

So sometimes (and I am afraid that it is not often enough) when that rare and elusive spare minute does arrive, I put down my book and sit on the floor with my small son and daughter, playing marbles and cutting paper dolls. But behind the laughter that is truly childish, I can hear Genevieve's murmur of pleasure, and see her happy, vacant smile.

The Weiss Case

SEYMOUR WEISS, the New Orleans innkeeper and politician, who has been indicted on a Federal charge in connection with the current Louisiana corruption, has enjoyed an interesing immunity up to now. He was indicted once before on income tax charges, but a settlement was accepted after the death of Huey Long in a political reconciliation between the heirs of the Long gang and the New Deal which has become famous, or infamous, as the second Louisiana Purchase. At the time of the compromise it was announced in explanation of the Federal Government's action that there had been "a change of atmosphere" in Louisiana, and Homer Cummings had to take the fall. He didn't peep.

Now the same department, under a new and younger Attorney General, Mr. Murphy, who has political ambitions of his own and a mission from the New Deal to belittle Tom Dewey's record in New York, has indicted Mr. Weiss because certain documents were sent through the mails in the perpetration of a deal which is alleged to have been fraudulent. The income tax case was much more serious and much more plainly the business of the Federal Government, but neither one involved such a flagrant defiance of the United States as Mr. Weiss' conduct in a previous affair, the investigation of the election by fraud of United States Senator John W. Overton.

Defied Sub-Committee In Senate Hearing

IN THAT INVESTIGATION Mr. Weiss defied a sub-committee of the United States Senate in hearings in New Orleans and taunted Gen. Ansell, the Senate's counsel, to step outside the room, the suggestion being that he would punch the general's ears off. Huey Long was present, interrupting the proceedings and leading a packed gallery of political hoodlums, some of whom were armed, in disorderly demonstrations around the door. Huey was riding high at the time, and Weiss, who was his treasurer, had confidence that Huey's resourcefulness would pull him through any embarrassment with the Senate.

Long afterward, probably to this day, it has been Mr. Weiss' boast that he practically ran the United States Senate out of town, although, now that there has been another "change of atmosphere" in New Orleans, he may be somewhat more demure about his defiance of a body which has been known to defend its dignity with a terribly swift sword when challenged by less troublesome men than Huey Long.

Counsel Threatened With Physical Harm

OVERTON WAS ELECTED as a Long stooge by the aid of a system of dummy candidates and fraud in the ballot boxes.

On the stand Mr. Weiss replied, "None of your business." "Yes, I refuse to answer," and "You are ridiculous," to Gen. Ansell as the Senate's legal counsel attempted to obtain information as to the source of campaign funds and their expenditure. When he said, "You are ridiculous," Huey interrupted to say, "He might invite you outside." At this suggestion Weiss, who sometimes acted as Huey's physical protector in small scuffles, challenged, "No, he has much better sense than to do that."

Somewhat later Senator Logan, of Kentucky, threatened contempt proceedings against Mrs. Hilda Phelps Hammond, of New Orleans, and other Louisiana women, by insisting that Overton be thrown out of the Senate according to the law and several precedents.

Election Called Fraud By Sen. Connally

BUT MR. WEISS' contempt was overlooked, and in the course of time he became again an intimate political friend of James A. Farley and a toiler for the Louisiana department of the New Deal under President Roosevelt. His conduct and the conduct of the Long machine in the Overton election were condoned, if not indorsed, even though Senator Connally, of Texas, said in a report on the inquiry, "Such a device"—meaning the dummy candidate syatem used by Long to elect Overton—"is a fraud on the rights of any free people, because it is absolutely impossible for the public to know whether all the ballots were put there by voters or by hand-picked political bushwhackers. We find that in New Orleans there was fraud."

Senator Connally also said that the Long system of assessment and extortion of political funds, administered by Weiss, was "a vicious system under which helpless victims can be made the victims of extortion."

With such experiences in his past Mr. Weiss may feel little disturbed by the fluttering activities of Mr. Murphy in the new disturbance to date. The atmosphere of Louisiana, and particularly that of New Orleans, is subject to sharp, unpredictable changes.

Colombia Casts Her Lot With U. S., President Says

Bogota, Colombia, July 20 (AP).—Warning Europeans not to bring their "political passions" to Colombia, President Eduardo Santos in a message to Congress today declared that "the security of the Panama Canal is indispensable to the welfare of Colombia and all South America." He pledged that "No one will be permitted to menace the canal from Colombian soil."

The president said, "Friendship of the United States and the Spanish-American republics" was "the essential fact that determines the policy of this continent."

Books And Things

Artemus Ward

THE FACT that Artemus Ward, Bret Harte, Henry George, Ambrose Bierce and Mark Twain, not to mention a dozen or so lesser lights of American literature, all spent part of their formative years in San Francisco was not accidental, nor devoid of significance. None of them was born there. None stayed permanently. But they went there, and the way they wrote afterward was bound to be different from the school of Concord and Boston writers who set the tone for the previous generation.

"San Francisco's Literary Frontier," by Franklin Walker (Knopf, $5) recalls the golden days, specifically, from 1848 to about 1870. After that San Francisco ceased to be frontier, in relation to literature; it must be said that San Francisco was in other ways a metropolis from its beginning. Everything about it was contradictory, paradoxical and must be qualified in any statement.

So it was because California before the railways came seemed to be a different country from the Eastern seaboard and San Francisco felt itself to be, however unofficially, a capital city in its own right—as indeed it was—that the potential writers who gathered there, drawn by the common hope of fortune, exercised the liberties of this new free city. There is a noticeable lack of genteel restraints in the early journalism of the West in general. It was a country rich enough to support the press, populated largely by literate persons, and yet unfettered by any organized society. Any one could say and print what he liked at his own risk.

Bret Harte arrived at San Francisco, aged 17, in 1854. His first job was that of school teacher. When it terminated, he tramped "40 miles to the Mother Lode country, wearing patent leather shoes and carrying a morocco dressing case" and "a second-hand revolver." The incongruities were were typical. Harte's earliest published verse was deplorable sentimental piffle; his prose journalistic hifalutin. But at 23, indignation moved him to denounce a massacre of Indians by whites. It made him very unpopular, but by that utterance he found his own voice. He was ready to write of what he saw before him, as he saw it. If he romanticized a little, it was at least in an original vein; he was a romantic.

Mark Twain reached California by way of the Nevada silver mines; he had never been afflicted with gentility. What he needed was a sufficiently polite atmosphere to develop the full possibilities of the vernacular. San Francisco journalism provided an admirable intermediate course for him, going one direction, as for Harte, working the opposite way toward authentic expression.

THE ADVENT of Artemus Ward, an established humorous writer and lecturer, gave San Francisco the opportunity to develop, as it were by spontaneous combustion, the technique of "publicity." Artemus Ward was put over with a bang. Yet he held his audience, after they were collected by the circus ballyhoo, by sheer art, peculiarly effective in the circumstances, because it took the form of understatement and apparent irrelevance. Mark Twain heard and profited by the example.

Henry George, America's home grown prophet of economics, became interested in the "dismal science" when he came through the boom days as poor as before—he couldn't have been much poorer. A touchy, restless, difficult man, who couldn't get on with his fellow mortals, he had to find some excuse for his own characteristics, some all-sufficient reason for his ill-fortune, and he fell back on economics, revamping unconsciously a 200-year-old theory, though it would seem he was unaware of its specific origin.

Mr. Walker is of the opinion that the satiric talent of Ambrose Bierce was confirmed by and at the same time fettered to journalism, instead of expanding further in fiction, by such opportunities as San Fransisco afforded—the wide freedom of opinion in the early days, and the subsequent rise of the Hearst press to employ his talent.

ONE LITERARY FIGURE persisted through the changing groups for several literary generations, in touch with them all; that was Ina Coolbrith. Her own strange story was never told during her lifetime. It is most extraordinary, and could have happened nowhere but in America, in the nineteenth century. The name she used gave no clew to it; though there was nothing discreditable in the fact that she chose to use the maiden surname of her mother.

She was christened Josephine Donna Smith. That does not sound remarkable. But her father, Don Carlos Smith, was a brother of Joseph Smith, the founder of the Mormon Church. Don Carlos Smith married only one wife, Agnes Coolbrith, and when polygamy was proposed as a tenet of the faith, he dissented positively. However, he was still with the Mormons when they were mobbed in Missouri and went with them to Nauvoo, Ill., where he died of pneumonia, soon after the birth of his third daughter, Josephine (Ina).

The widow left the colony, married again in St. Louis, and with her new husband and the children of the first marriage, migrated to California. En route, by wagon, they encountered the famous hunter and squawman, James P. Beckwourth, and it is said, credibly, that the child Ina was carried on Beckwourth's saddle bow over the pass of the Sierra Nevada.

Growing up in Los Angeles, the girl married at 17. Her husband, Robert B. Carsley, was jealous and violent, without reason. After three years, she obtained a divorce. Soon after, she removed to San Fransisco, and dropped the two unlucky names of Smith and Carsley. Those of her friends who knew the cause were discreet; presently it was lost in the past and she was generally assumed to be a spinster.

Congress' New Mess

By Ernest K. Lindley

WPA Staggers On

WHATEVER you thought of WPA you can be sure that it was a paragon of efficiency a month ago compared to what it is going to be for some time to come. In the name of "reform," Congress has created an administrative mess.

The strike against the 130-hour month by skilled workers in a numbers of cities was probably only the first, the mildest, and the most quickly cured of WPA's headaches. The WPA Administration itself had favored the 130-hour month for all workers. This feature of the new legislation irritated only a handful of skilled workers, mostly in the building trades, who had won a special privilege and have now lost it.

Three Drastic Changes Which Must Be Made

HERE ARE SOME of the changes which WPA must make:

1. Drop from its rolls about 600,000 workers who have been on them for more than 18 months. This means the loss of many of its most experienced workers.

2. Dismiss one-third of its administrative force throughout the country—about 12,000 out of 36,000 persons. The administrative personnel already had been overhauled during the first half of 1939 by Col. Harrington, WPA administrator. Presumably some further reductions could have been made gradually as the total number of workers on the WPA rolls was reduced. But this drastic cut is certain to mean lowered efficiency.

3. Put into effect a new schedule of monthly security payments which "shall not be varied for workers of the same type in different geographical areas to any greater extent than may be justified by differences in the cost of living."

Try To Figure Out Living Cost Formula

THERE ARE NO accurate figures on the cost of living, except for a limited number of cities. Such facts as are available indicate that there is a greater difference in the cost of living between cities and rural sections in the same "geographical area" than between cities in different parts of the country. Note that the test is to be the cost of living—not the standard of living. The "cost of living" presumably is calculated on the basis of an agreed standard of living. It doesn't take account of the fact that a farm laborer in the deep South is accustomed to a lower standard of living than is an unskilled worker in, let us say, Rochester, N. Y., or Des Moines, Iowa.

However this cost of living formula is applied—unless it is ignored or got around—WPA payments will have to be increased in the rural South and lowered in the larger Northern cities. When you increase wages in the rural South, especially for Negroes, you evoke vehement protests from private employers and the citizenry generally. WPA knows that from experience. When you cut monthly payments in the larger Northern cities you will evoke vehement protests—at least from the workers affected. But Congress has laid down the law.

Cultural Projects To Become Local

THERE ARE OTHER difficulties created by the efforts of Congress to "reform" WPA. But those already cited are enough to cripple the program and to whip up a series of political storms.

Incidentally, one of the small, but not unimportant, tasks is finding local sponsors for the writers', musicians' and artists' projects which hitherto have been run from Washington as Federal projects. Local sponsors are already coming forward in a few localities. Here, by the way, is a chance for State and local governments to obtain the services of a varied group of writers—some competent, some probably not. About 3,900 of them are on Federal writers' projects, finishing up State and local guide-books, collecting material for a series of books on American folklore, etc. If your State Conservation Department wants to get out some leaflets, it can get the writing done cheaply by hooking up with the Federal writers' project.

600,000 Face Jobless Future

IN LOOKING AHEAD for political troubles, consider also that there is a WPA "backlog" of more than 900,000 persons who have been certified for WPA but who have not been given jobs because there was not enough money. Perhaps 300,000 of these will be taken on as a partial offset against the 600,000 who are being dropped because they have been on the rolls for 18 months. Not many more than 300,000, however, because by September there must be a drop of 300,000 in the total number employed by WPA. So the 600,000 who are being cut off have a very poor chance of getting back on WPA. Most of them probably will have to be added to the local relief rolls—which won't make the local taxpayers happy.

Consider also that employment under PWA is at, or near, its peak, and that no more money has been appropriated for PWA. The new spending-lending program now before Congress can't pick up the slack as PWA lets down in the fall. The new program is small, in the first place, and probably won't show much result before next spring.

Plenty of trouble is in view on the WPA - relief - unemployment front. The only question is whether the wrath that rises will where most of it belongs—on Congress visited on the New Deal or

Stalemate In China

By Mark J. Ginsbourg

Special Correspondence of The Post.

After Two Years Of Undeclared War

Shanghai.

AFTER TWO YEARS of bitter Sino-Japanese hostilities the war office in Tokyo issued 500,000 copies of a bellicose pamphlet declaring that "in order to achieve the great task of constructing a new order in East Asia, we must be prepared to take 50 or even 100 years."

Almost simultaneously, from Chungking, depopulated and badly damaged by Japanese bombs, came a statement predicting that the war would end in a victory for China "within three or five years."

Having reached the geographical limits of conquest without breaking China's will to resist, Japan is beginning to realize that the seizure of a half of Chinese territory has not given her victory.

Tokyo no longer speaks of the imminent collapse of what it describes as "the Chiang Kai-shek regime." There is stern-faced preparation for hostilities of indefinite duration, a mobilization of labor and capital, reduced consumption and wages and intensified production of munitions. There are also efforts to stimulate the weakening public morale by such artificial means as the totally useless landing in Swatow and exacerbation of relations with Britain.

PARADOXICALLY, it is in ravaged China where optimism rules supreme. The Chinese believe that the Japanese war machine has become mired in the vastness of the occupied territory, and that the lean Tokyo coffers cannot afford the tremendous cost of keeping this machine in action.

The Japanese, Chungking holds, have reached the outer rim of the territory in which they can use with advantage their heavy artillery and mechanized units. They have now reached the tall and rugged mountainous belt extending from Inner Mongolia to Indo-China, where tanks and heavy guns can no longer be employed. Japan has thus lost the only factor which had assured her military superiority over China.

The Japanese armed forces—and this is one of the most important features of the situation today—have lost the initiative they had enjoyed up to the capture of Hankow, late in October, 1938. They have now been thrown on the defensive, with their rear and dangerously extended supply routes exposed to guerrilla attacks.

The war, the Chinese hold, has degenerated into a contest of endurance, in which agricultural China has an edge over industrialized Japan. There are dangerous stresses in Japanese economy, which to Chungking appear to be signs of a major economic, and consequently political, crisis within the next few years. In this, the Chinese, despite their own difficulties, see hope of eventual victory.

THE MILITARY situation early in July was as follows:

Japanese troops were thickly massed along a 1,200-mile straight line linking destroyed Canton, the capital of South China, with Peiping, the northern capital. The Japanese navy was stretched along an arch embracing the entire sea coast, from Korea to French Indo-China.

Within this gigantic segment, there was a political vacuum, relatively free of the Japanese and governed either by the administrative machinery which had survived the shock of war or by new machinery set up by guerrillas.

All the major cities, Peiping, Tientsin, Tsinan, Tsingtao, Tayuan, Hsuchow, Hankow, Shanghai, Nanking, Amoy and Canton were under Japanese military rule and gave refuge to various puppet regimes established by the invading army.

The authority of these administrative organs, despite the support afforded by the Japanese fighting services and banks, did not extend beyond the cities and towns garrisoned by the Japanese. And even in these cities, the lives of pro-Japanese officials were in constant danger.

Japan's task now is not to extend the limits of the area under her flag, but to bring the segment under complete control, permitting the commencement of economic exploitation of the occupied territory. At the same time, however, Japan had to maintain a constant vigil along the rims of the seized area, to prevent the infiltration of Chinese troops from their bases in the rich and inaccessible westernmost provinces.

TO CARRY out these plans, Japan is now keeping roughly 1,200,000 men under arms throughout China proper. This number has thus far proved sufficient to prevent Chinese recapture of the occupied territory, but totally inadequate for the herculean task of destroying the new Chinese bases beyond the mountains of Shansi, Szechuan, Kweichow and Kwangsi or for establishing peace in the invaded areas.

The Chinese, on the other hand, had under arms on July 7 an undetermined number of men, ranging between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000, of whom 1,000,000 were fresh troops operating from bases in "Free China" and the rest were regulars and guerrillas fighting within the occupied provinces.

THE COSTS of Japan's armed venture in China cannot be estimated in terms of money alone, although these have been staggering. The war has retarded for a decade or two the incredible progress that was being witnessed in China between 1931 and 1937. It has compelled the unprecedented migration of 50,000,000 Chinese from their homes to provinces often a thousand miles away. The war destroyed in China cultural and social values defying monetary estimation. Possibly 1,500,000 Chinese have perished as the direct result of war! About a third of these were civilians.

The nation's financial losses are also beyond evaluation at this time. Their extent, however, can be surmised by the fact that in Chapei alone the value of damaged or seized property was believed to be in the neighborhood of $300,000,000. Only two of China's major cities have escaped damage—Peiping and Tientsin (although there was some fierce fighting in the latter). Some of the others, such as Canton, Nanchang, Changsha, Hankow and the native portions of Shanghai, were devastated by Japanese bombardment and by fires started by the withdrawing Chinese. There can scarcely be a town in this vast land which has been spared by Japanese air raiders, who scattered their bombs with fine disregard for the objectives.

JAPAN'S LOSSES have been incomparably smaller, if only because the war was fought on Chinese soil. Yet they have been the largest in Japan's history. A very conservative estimate would put the number of Japanese uniformed men killed in China at 250,000, with three times that number wounded.

In terms of money, the "China Incident" has already cost the Tokyo treasury nearly $3,500,000,000, or about seven times as much as the entire Russo-Japanese war. In addition, there have been enormous losses in the form of lost export markets, abandoned peace industries, unemployment, diversion of capital into non-productive industries, reduced agricultural and marine output, deterioration in the quality of manufactured goods, severely curtailed consumption and exhaustion of Japan's specie reserves.

There have also been such intangible losses, for instance, as the drop in the birth rate by 40 per cent during 1938, as the result of the mobilization of able-bodied males.

But most significant of all has been the drastic change in Japan's political and economic organism from relative liberalism to military regimentation not less rigid than that in Germany or Italy. Conscription of manpower and capital, already approved by the cabinet, is the latest in the long series of army-backed moves in the direction of fascism.

WHEN THE WAR started two years ago, Japan expected a quick victory over the ill-organized northern troops and a consequent tightening of her grip on North China's economy. China was desperately anxious to avert a war, but was determined to check the disastrous "gobbling up" process, whereby the Japanese army was rapidly eating its way into the heart of this country.

But what was expected to be "an incident" became a major war. Today the Japanese are as anxious to have peace as the Chinese are determined to fight until all the territory lost since 1931 is recovered.

It is this gap which makes propects of peace very remote. Under no conceivable circumstances—except perhaps a major defeat in a war with Russia—will Japan give up the gains she has made in China at the cost of thousands of lives. Nor will she allow the functioning of a truly independent Chinese government, which would fail to give full attention to Japan's economic needs and political demands.

The task the Japanese army has set before itself now is the re-establishment of peace in the "occupied areas," to make possible their economic exploitation, which, in turn, would recompense some of the costs of war to Japan.

Peace, however, does not seem possible as long as guerrillas continue to harass Japanese garrisons, block Japanese economic projects and prevent the inflow of Nippon-made goods. To root out guerrillas, the Japanese fighting services are resorting to aerial terrorism, which swells guerrilla ranks by thousands of new homeless and embittered men.

The current stalemate will continue until the Japanese make a costly and dangerous thrust into "Free China," or until the Russo-Japanese border friction bursts into the flames of a major war. China will be unable to break the deadlock until she acquires offensive weapons—artillery, tanks, aircraft—which she now lacks and which she is not likely to secure in adequate quantities in the near future.

China's strategy for the time being must rest on incessant sharp thrusts at the outer rim of the Japanese-occupied area and simultaneous military and political operations by guerrillas. In this mode of warfare, as much attention must be paid to armed struggle as to the bolstering of morale in the invaded territory and to the blocking of Japanese economic projects.

The Sino-Japanese war has thus been converted into a contest between Chinese determination and Japanese resources. If the Nipponese army can break China's morale, it will rapidly consolidate its gains in many parts of the country. If Japan's resources are exhausted in the near future, she will find herself compelled to seek the end of war here by some means or other.

Rep. Risk Objects To Bill to Bring Constellation Here

Objection to the proposed transfer of the historic Constellation from Newport, R. I., to the Potomac River in connection with the construction of a Naval museum in Washington was expressed yesterday by Representative Risk (Republican), of Rhode Island.

Risk addressed a letter to House members calling attention to the Vinson bill, which authorized construction of a new Navy Department Building and an adjacent museum.

He said it was estimated it would cost $530,000 to make the Constellation seaworthy enough to move her to Washington. The vessel, stationed at the Naval Training Station at Newport for 50 years, has been a source of inspiration to cadets, he said.

Officer Regrets He Didn't Sock Kuhn, Who's Fined

Webster, Mass., July 20 (U.P.).—America's "Little Fuehrer" Fritz Kuhn, pleaded guilty to drunkenness and profanity charges today, but later said he did so to avoid a "theatrical performance."

After the first charge was filed and he paid a $5 fine for swearing, the German-American Bund leader sought to make amends with Arresting Officer Henry Plasse, but the policeman, a former prizefighter, promptly said:

"I'll tell you something, Mister. If I'd been in plain clothes, I would have fixed you so your own mother wouldn't know you. No man could call me the things you said."

Kennedy Confers With Chamberlain, Takes Vacation

London, July 20 (AP).—After a long talk with Prime Minister Chamberlain, United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy announced he would leave tomorrow on a "short" vacation in southern France.

He declined to comment on the talk but the fact he is leaving London led observers to believe the Prime Minister had not been pessimistic about the next few weeks.

When asked what Chamberlain thought of the European situation Kennedy smiled and said "I don't know."

The Once Over

Estate For Sale

"There is no place like home," sighed Mrs. W. Pillsbury Stewkingham, as she sat under the oversized umbrella on the Stewkingham estate of 300 acres, Heart's Desire.

"Positively not," said Mr. Stewkingham, bitterly, "and I am glad of it!"

"We were very happy here," said Mrs. Stewkingham, dreamily.

"I'm glad you used the past tense," said Stewkingham.

"I remember when the first 50 rooms were completed," sighed Mrs. Stewkingham. "And do you recall, my dear, the day we broke ground for the north annex with the grand ballroom and 35 guest suites?"

"I am trying to forget it," snapped Mr. Stewkingham.

The telephone rang. Mr. Stewkingham fairly leaped to the phone. "I hope it's he," he cried.

"Who?" asked Mrs. Stewkingham.

"Father Divine," said Mr. Stewkingham. "He's been buying places around here, you know."

"Was it he?" asked Mrs. Stewkingham a moment later.

"No such luck," complained Stewkingham, disappointedly.

"What made you think he would call?"

"I wrote him a letter, offering him the place, but I guess he is not interested. He's pretty smart."

"Have you tried the street-cleaning department?" asked Mrs. Stewkingham.

"They just got a place," barked Stewkie.

"But they like it so much they might want to branch out," insisted Mrs. Stewkingham.

"The fire department might be a good prospect," said Stewkie. "I hear they have raised quite a lot of money through baseball games and have a welfare movement in mind for all their families."

"There is so much room here," said Mrs. Stewkingham. "Think of all the fun they could have with hook and ladders."

Mr. Stewkingham thought a few moments.

"I might try the police department. They are after a recreation camp, too, I heard, but I understand they are dickering for Brewster Manor."

"Brewster Manor isn't as nice as this," said Mrs. Stewkingham.

"No, but it has two extra swimming pools and a pipe organ, not to mention a polo field."

"These welfare movements won't consider a camp without those things these days, sighed Mrs. Stewkingham. "The pipe organs are such fun for the tenement kiddies. Couldn't you put in one?"

Hudson, the butler, came in and announced: "There's a gentleman from a longshoreman's center here. He wants to know if Heart's Desire is for sale cheap. Shall I show him in?"

"Show him in!" roared Mr. and Mrs. Stewkingham as one. "Drag him in!"

Lament on the Advent of Summer

Anent the joys the summers bring
Let other versifiers sing
Ad libitum, in accents lyric,
In paean piled on panegyric.

In Europe status quo is manned
By Hitler's fine Teutonic hand.
No gem of ray serene is purer
Than he, His Excellency, Der Fuehrer.
There's Neville standing there
(stout fella——)
Beneath ubiquitous umbrella,
Assured that all is hotsy-totsy,
Provided you don't scratch a Nazi.
Bewildered envoys keep commenting,
"What country am I representing?"

If all these guys have got it bad,
What chance have you, my callow lad?
You think your better corpus is Immune to metamorphosis?

So this, my friends, my caveat!
Just watch your step and hold your hat!
Don't listen to a poet's song!
Six, two and even—the guy's dead wrong!

Magruder Leaves Fund For Hospital

Philanthrope Also Endows Ward in Institution for Poor Children

From his estate valued at a half a million dollars, William Pinkney Magruder, of Hyattsville, Md., prominent Prince Georges political and civic leader, provided for construction of a county hospital and endowment of a ward for destitute children, it was revealed yesterday in his will admitted for probate at Upper Marlboro.

Seven county churches, of various denominations, are named as beneficiaries. The will provides for bequests of $1,000 each to the M. E. Church North, Hyattsville; First Presbyterian Church, Hyattsville; Pinkney Memorial Episcopal Church, Hyattsville; St. Jerome's Catholic Church, Hyattsville; First Baptist Church, Hyattsville, and St. Luke's Episcopal Church, of Bladensburg. The M. E. Church, South, to which Mr. Magruder already had contributed $500, will receive another $500 bequest.

Mrs. Dorothy Wilson Magruder, widow, received $200 a month in lieu of her dower rights and a life estate in the home. Mrs. Kathryn E. M. Dudrow, of Brooklyn, N. Y., daughter, and Frederick B. S. Magruder, of Hyattsville, son, each were given $200 a month.

Other beneficiaries were Mrs. Martha Rea, a sister, $100 a month; Mrs. Minerva Magruder Wilson, a sister, $50 a month; Mary Magruder Wade, $1,000 bequest; Minnie Magruder, a niece, $1,000; Mallan Rea, a nephew, $1,000; Harry Lewis, a nephew, $1,000; Mrs. Alice E. Bennett, $500, and Dr. Robert A. Bennett, $500.

Provides for Hospital

The will stipulates that "within ten years after the death of the last survivor of those provided with life estates" the trustees shall use 10 per cent of the residue of the estate to aid in construction of a hospital in Hyattsville or vicinity to be known as the "William Pinkney Magruder Memorial Hospital." The remainder of the estate, it is provided, shall be used to endow a ward "for the free use and benefit of the destitute white children of Prince Georges County." This ward is to be known as the "William Pinkney Magruder Free Ward."

Named as executors were Arthur Carr and B. O. L. Wells. They evaluated Mr. McGruder's real estate at $225,000 and his personal estate at $270,000, consisting chiefly of securities.

Gave Ground for Park

Mr. Magruder, who was 81, died at his home Sunday. After amassing a fortune in real estate, he became widely known for his philanthropic work. He donated the land for Magruder Park in Hyattsville and also the site of the new postoffice building.

He was a former mayor and member of the Hyattsville council, served in the State Legislature and on the board of county commissioners.

Girl, Two Bandits Kidnap and Rob Va. Station Clerk

Richmond, Va., July 20 (AP).—Marvin Cole, 17-year-old filling station attendant, has reported to police two young bandits and a girl held up his station shortly before dawn today, forced him into their car for a 4-mile ride west of the city and then tied him to a tree after taking $20 of his own money.

Cole said he recognized the men as the same pair who robbed him Sunday night of around $50. The girl was described a "bumpy-faced little brunette."

Richmond police asked other cities to be on the lookout for the trio, especially Charlottesville.

Suspended Trooper To Receive Hearing

Baltimore, July 20 (AP).—Harry C. Jones employment commissioner, said today a hearing would be arranged within 30 days for Sergt. William G. Edrington, State policeman suspended by Superintendent Beverly G. Ober.

Ober charged Edrington was "wantonly careless and negligent in the performance of his duty."

Va. Applemen Win ICC Nod In Rate Fight

N. Y. Growers Must Pay Increased Charges To Midwest

By the Associated Press

Richmond, Va., July 20.—A rate case, brought into litigation first in 1913, has been decided in favor of Virginia apple growers by the Interstate Commerce Commission, H. E. Ketner, commerce counsel of the State corporation commission, was notified today.

The decision provides that the same rate must be charged from New York points into the midwest as from Virginia, whereas formerly New York apple growers enjoyed a rate 2.5 cents per 100 pounds lower than the rate charged Virginia growers. Under the decision, the Virginia rates will remain unchanged and the rates from New York into the midwest will be increased.

Virginia growers ship approximately 11,000 carloads of apples into the midwest annually and the difference in the previous freight was placed at about $7.50 per carload. Heretofore Virginia growers, to meet competition, had to take this difference in rates from their margin of profit, testimony before the ICC showed.

Virginia apple growers had sought since 1913 to have the rates equalized and on two occasions the ICC lowered the Virginia rates, but they remained above the New York area rates. Another complaint was filed in 1938, but the ICC did not grant the equalization then. The present case was brought by the railroads with the Virginia Horticultural Society intervening.

Fairfax G. O. P. Nominates Farr As Va. Delegate

Fairfax County, Va., Republicans in convention at Fairfax nominated Richard R. Farr, mayor of Fairfax, as their candidate for member of the House of Delegates in opposition to the Democratic incumbent-nominee, Francis Pickens Miller.

Others nominated were Leon L. Freeman, of Vienna, for treasurer; L. B. Morris, of Forestville, for Commissioner of Revenue, and Alex L. Haight, of Fairfax Station, for Sheriff.

A nominating committee was appointed, headed by the county chairman, Dr. F. M. Brooks, to select a candidate for Commonwealth's attorney. It was decided to select candidates for members of the board of supervisors at district meetings July 28, 29 or 31, by the precinct committeemen. They must be held prior to the Democratic primary on August 1.

J. F. Kent, Jr., Held To Jury in Death

Pleading not guilty to a charge of manslaughter, John F. Kent, jr., of the 300 block Seventh street northwest, yesterday was held for the grand jury by Arlington County Judge B. M. Hedrick. He was released on $1,000 bond.

The case grew out of the death of Edward McCarthy, of California, whose car, police said, was struck by one operated by Kent on the Washington-Richmond highway the night of July 11. McCarthy died in Alexandria Hospital Saturday night.

Virginia, Quick-Marriage Oasis, Shows Boom in Licenses Issued

By the Associated Press

Richmond, Va., July 20.—The Bureau of Vital Statistics reported today incomplete figures from county clerks indicated a sharp increase in the number of marriage licenses issued in many counties thus far this year over previous years.

This is due, officials believed, to stricter marriage laws of neighboring States. Some county clerks, however, have enforced an emergency clause in the Virginia law providing for at least a 72-hour waiting period.

Information from the Bureau of Vital Statistics disclosed that in January and February some county clerks in the State issued more marriage licenses than during all of last year.

The bureau's records show increases in recent years. The total number of licenses issued in 1936 was 30,118. By 1937 it had risen to 32,770 and in 1938 it reached an all-time high of 34,177 officials expect the 1939 figure to go even higher.

By next January 1, Virginia will be surrounded by States whose marriage laws require either a waiting period, a health examination of both.

One Virginia official said the increased marriage license issuances in this State was not because "there are so many more home weddings than there used to be," but the "cause for our bolstered license totals, records will show, is the influx of out-of-State people who come here to marry because they can't obtain permits at home without waiting a prescribed period or taking an examination for venereal disease."

No. 1 Crew Will Have Virginia Association As Guests in Fall

Alexandria's Rescue Squad, No. 1, whose colnunteer work has spelled the difference between life and death for hundreds of persons, will be hosts for the fifth annual convention of the Virginia Association of Rescue Squads September 29 and 30.

Organized in November, 1930, by the old Potomac Fire Squad, the rescue crew has answered nearly 9,000 calls in the last nine years, while its members have received 35 medals for outstanding individual service, and the squad has collected 16 trophies for first-aid competition.

Most prized award of thee squad was the Charlotte Randall medal, won by Sidney J. Hensley, jr., who saved three persons, single-handed and without equipment, from an automobile sumerged in Oxon Run, near Alexandria, two years ago. Hensley also is a winner of a Veterans of Foreign Wars medal, along with five other squad members, L. W. Devers, J. E. Cobean, L. S. Evans, Thomas J. Cockrell and C. I. Langford.

Devers and Evans alternate as drivers of the squad's ambulance, in use since 1937. It is equipped with inhalator, oxygen masks, five oxygen tanks, gas masks, grappling hooks and three stretchers. Beside the two drivers, paid by the city, 23 volunteer members; trained in first aid, stand ready day and night to answer calls as far south as Fredericksburg, 45 miles from Alexandria, and west to Centerville, 21 miles away.

Beside answering hundreds of ambulance calls every year, the squad members have all registered themselves for blood donations, and in 1938 they gave 30 pints of blood to patients in Alexandria and Washington hospitals.

O'Conor Returns After 18-Day Trip

Annapolis, July 20 (AP).—Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor returned today from an 18-day trip to the West Coast, including a vacation jaunt through the Canadian Rockies.

Gov. O'Conor attended the American Bar Association convention in San Francisco, the Interstate Commission on Crime and Attorney Generals' Association Conference.

Constable Slaying Trial Speeded as State Rests Case

Chatam, Va., July 20 (AP).—The State completed presentation of its evidence, and two defense witnesses were heard this afternoon in the trial of Samuel Swanson, colored, charged with the fatal shooting of Constable William N. Coward, at a church near Callands on May 23.

The trial began before a packed courtroom this morning, with Judge J. T. Clement presiding.

Little difficulty was experienced in selection of a jury from the venire of 40. Three colored persons were in the venire, but were not picked for service.

Hearing Postponed In Illegal Crabbing

Crisfield, Md., July 20 (AP).—Magistrate Fred N. Holland today postponed hearing for more than a score of fishermen charged with scraping crabs while using a power boat.

Maryland law prohibits taking crabs with scrapers from any but sailboats. Holland put off the hearing for two weeks pending a conference by the State Conservation Commission.

Area Elks' Ruler Named

Hagerstown, Md., July 20.—E. Leister Mobley, past exalted ruler of the Hagerstown Lodge of Elks, has been notified by Grand Exalted Ruler Henry C. Warner of his appointment as deputy grand exalted ruler for Delaware, Maryland and the District of Columbia for the next year. Mr. Mobley is chairman of the board of trustees of the State Association of Elks.

Navy Band to Fair

The House Naval Committee yesterday approved legislation authorizing the Naval Academy Band to attend the New York World's Fair, July 28, to participate in the observance of Maryland Day. The measure has already been approved by the Senate.

Key Personnel In State Health Bureau Shifted

Dr. Halliday Made Chief Hale, Dr. Jackson Are Promoted

Baltimore, July 20.—Three changes in the key personnel of the State health department were announced today after a meeting of the State board of health.

Dr. R. H. Riley, State health officer, who has also been serving as chief of the bureau of communicable diseases, said Dr. C. H. Halliday would become chief of the bureau, relieving Dr. Riley of the dual duty. Dr. Halliday has been assistant chief and epidemiologist.

George Hall, assistant chief of the bureau of sanitary engineering, will become full chief in place of Dr. Abel Wolman, who resigned last spring.

Dr. Aquilla Jackson, of Baltimore, was appointed deputy food and drug commissioner, to succeed Dr. R. L. Swain, who left to take a post in another State.

The board announced Dr. Wolman, who went with the department in 1914 and has been chief engineer since 1922, would remain as consultant. He resigned to become full professor of sanitary engineering at Johns Hopkins. The board said his services as acting PWA administrator for the State, as edpublications and as chairman of the pugliaations and as chairman of the Federal water resources board had "enhanced the prestige of the bureau of sanitary engineering before the allied organizations in other States and in the Federal Government."

Lighthouse Crew Draws Praise After Rescue of Nine

Baltimore, July 20 (AP).—Lighthousekeepers at Bloody Point are efficient lifeguards and besides are excellent housekeepers, a woman they rescued declared today.

Mrs. Carl J. Hammersla, of Woodlawn, hostess to a fishing party of nine rescued by Hiram White and Louis Carmen, said the light keepers heard their foghorn after three boats had failed to see their distress signals.

Mrs. Hammersla said the keepers gave them hot coffee and food and conducted them through the lighthouse.

"It was so clean you could eat off the floor," she reported, "they certainly keep it spotless."

After repairs by the lighthouse crew, her boat proceeded under its own power.

Six Va. Projects To Cost $614,722

Richmond, Va., July 20 (AP).—Low bids received by the State highway department today on six construction projects totaled $614,722.38.

Among them were:

Route 3, Culpeper County, 288-foot bridge over Hazel River 8 miles from Culpeper; R. W. Moore, Staunton, $9,450.

Route 642, Albemarle and Fluvanna counties, 9.5 miles of soil surface treatment between the intersection with Route 627 and the intersection with Route 600; E. C. Bramham Construction Co. and John P. Harvey, Inc., Halifax, $72,915.86.

WPA Publishes Guide Tracing Montgomery Back to 1774

A guide to the records of Montgomery County, Md., has been published by the Historical Records Survey of the WPA, intended "to meet the requirements of day-to-day administration by the county officials, the needs of lawyers, businessmen and other citizens who require facts for the proper conduct of their affairs," it was announced yesterday.

Among listed records are the original judicial, probate and property records of the county, dating back to 1777. Beyond listing the records, the inventory traces the history of the county, describes its governmental organization and includes a complete architectural description of the Rockville courthouse.

The material pictures the county of 1774, when at Hungerford's Tavern, on the site of Rockville, it was resolved that "It is the opinion of this meeting that the town of Boston is now suffering in the common cause of America."

The narrative tells how a year later, 130 of the county men left for Boston. The men were all over 6 feet tall and carried tomahawks and rifles. Their bodies were painted like savages.

Upon approving the inventory, Dr. Luther H. Evans, national director, Histrocial Records Survey, declared: "I noted with interest that survey workers arranged and classified records which had been scattered 'sans order or purpose' and constructed shelves to hold these records. This is one of the phases of our program which has been most pleasing to the public."

Work on other inventories in Maryland is progressing.

Alexandria Building Law In Effect

Operative Today; $5 to $50 Fines For Those Who Fail To Obtain Permits

The Washington Post Bureau,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Temple 3767
Delivery Service, Phone Alex. 247.

Alexandria's new building code will go into effect today after publication in a local newspaper, and copies will be printed and made available to contractors and builders. It includes 14 chapters with 184 sections.

Permits must be obtained from the building inspector and any person, firm, agent, owner or corporation failing to obtain this permit is subject to a fine of not less than $5 or more than $50, together with costs, and each day the matter is delayed after notification by the inspector shall constitute a separate offense.

The building inspector and his assistants are given authority to enter any building in the city in the performance of their duties and to order and compel the supervision of any work being done in violation of the provisions of the ordinance.

Permits shall not be required for minor interior alterations costing less than $100, where there is no interference with the construction of the building.

..Price Expected at Outing

Gov. James H. Price is expected to attend the annual outing dinner of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce Thursday at Fort Belvoir.

Ray C. Brehaut, president of the local trade body, and David C. Book, general chairman for the outing, said the motorcade will leave from in front of the George Mason Hotel at 4:30 p. m., headed by State Police Lieut. E. J. McDermott and a special detachment.

Gov. Price will come from Richmond, meeting the Alexandria party at the entrance gates of Fort Belvoir, and Col. T. M. Robins, post commander and his staff will greet the governor and party just within the gates.

The event is not confined to members of the Chamber of Commerce. Interested citizens are invited to subscribe, and reservations are being made at 103 North Alfred street, to close Wednesday morning.

Forty & Eight Meeting

The annual meeting of Voiture Locale No. 934, Forty & Eight Society, will be held at 6:30 tonight in Gadsby's Tavern, election of officers to be held. Supper will be served by the American Legion Auxiliary, followed by the business meeting.

Delegates and alternates will be selected to attend the departmental promenade in Richmond in August, in conjunction with the American Legion convention.

Downpour Cuts Attendance at Va. Music Fete

Harrisonburg, Va., July 20 (AP).—The Massanetta Springs ninth annual sacred music festival opened this afternoon with a hymn playing contest which was won by Miss Mary Sue Grosso, of Lexington, Va.

The conference management reported a noticeable decrease in attendance because of the steady downpour of rain.

Tonight Goeffrey O'Hara, American composer, gave a talk in the Hillside Auditorium and this was followed by an old fiddlers' contest under the direction of John Powell, of Richmond.

The festival reaches its climax tomorrow night with the singing by the trained festival choir under the direction of Dr. John Finley Williamson, of the Westminster Choir School.

Price Urges Further State Reorganization

Governor in First 'Fireside Chat' Cites Agencies' Mushroom Growth; Asks Educational Program Support

By the Associated Press

Richmond, Va., July 20.—Gov. James H. Price told the Virginia electorate in a radio address tonight it was his purpose to recommend to the 1940 General Assembly "further plans for the simplification of government," and "the continuance of our present fiscal policies."

The talk, marking the first time a Virginia Governor had spoken directly to the public on State questions in advance of a non-gubernatorial primary, was made, Mr. Price said, with the hope that recommendations "presented at this time may stimulate interest in public questions and promote the cause of good government."

The Governor said the next Legislature "will have opportunities in the field of reorganization that it is believed will mean further economies."

Referring to recently published reports that Virginia's State agencies had been reduced to 55 "during the reorganization some years ago" and had now been increased to 91, Mr. Price said these agencies were created by the General Assembly, 'but I desire to point out" that "only four agencies have been created during my term of office."

New Agencies Listed

The new agencies were named by the Governor as the State bar, the State registration board for contractors and the State board for photographic examiners, all of which he said were self supporting, and the State soil conservation commission, which "is in the nature of an enabling act for the benefit of our agricultural interests, and which requires a small State appropriation."

Pointing out that it was not his purpose, "within the brief limits of this address," to be exact in his recommendations, the Governor said his remarks were "to be construed more as an expression of the general trend of the programs which I hope to be instrumental in presenting for the consideration" of the next General Assembly "and our people generally."

He was pleased to announce, Mr. Price said, "that we are living within the budget, and there is every prospect that we will be able to close this biennium without the necessity for curtailing any appropriations and without the creation of a deficit."

The Governor's address was devoted largely to discussion of education, highways, public health and labor relations.

Five-Point Program Cited

He voiced an "appeal to the people of Virginia to give their wholehearted support—

"(1) To a 100 per cent enforcement of compulsory elementary education throughout the width and breadth of the Commonwealth.

"(2) To the establishment and maintenance of a full nine-month school term for all public free schools, both elementary and high, in every locality of Virginia.

"(3) To the inauguration of a comprehensive and practical program of adult education and training in every community where needed to banish illiteracy from the Old Dominion.

"(4) To the provision of courses in our high schools that will make them truly people's colleges in which pupils can receive training that will fit them for entrance into the trades, business, industry, agriculture and home-making, as well as for entrance into college.

"(5) To the establishment of a minimum State wage per teacher unit of $720 a year, which amount shall represent a maximum of 80 per cent of the total annual salary, the locality being required to pay at least 20 per cent of the total salary, and as much as 30 per cent when financially able."

The Governor said the Department of Public Education "is deeply interested in a constructive program of educational objectives, including not only teachers' salaries, but free textbooks, and an actuarially sound retirement system.

Gradual Expansion

"As I stated in my inaugural address, I trust that these several objectives can be obtained in due time by the adoption of a gradually expanding program over a period of years, which we can properly finance and support by gradual increments to the school budget."

Turning to the State's highway system, the Governor said additions to or transfers from the mileage of the primary system and reclassification of secondary roads, or reclassification of all roads for the purpose of construction and maintenance "in the proposed one-standard system, should be made on the basis of flexible adjustments and sound financial procedure as the result of scientific study, and should be completely removed from the hazards of political expediency."

The chief executive called attention to recommended standards which would limit traffic density for two-lane roads to 2,000 vehicles per day, at which point the highway should be widened to a three-lane pavement; and to 3,500 vehicles per day for three-lane roads, when they should be made four-lane arteries or divided into one-way highways.

"It is estimated that it would cost approximately $300,000,000 during the next 20 years to meet these standards of improvements on the primary highway system of Virginia with 'built-in-safety,' including the elimination and improvement of grade crossings," Mr. Price said.

"This accomplishment," he added, "should become the motivating objective of our highway development program."

The Governor said the State's highway funds, "which consist mainly of the motor fuel tax and the automobile license tax, should not at this time, in my opinion be reduced nor the funds diverted to other than highway purposes."

More Health Aides Needed

The Chief Executive told his radio audience that only 47 of the State's 100 counties have full-time health units and that "this protection now reaches only about 62 per cent of the rural population of the State." He asserted "there must be an expansion of full-time local health departments to include every county in Virginia" to accomplish the purpose for which the State health department was created.

Declaring that promotion of industrial peace was a "prime objective" of his administration, Gov. Price asserted that "working hours in industry must be strictly regulated in the interest of the health of our workers.

"Exploitation of Virginia labor in any form will not be tolerated, and child labor must be outlawed in the State. Industrial housing conditions, both in our urban and rural centers, must be improved; and safety at his or her post, and employment under healthful and sanitary conditions, are demanded for every worker in factory, store, and mine in the Old Dominion."

Mr. Price said he was sympathetic with "the needs and aspirations" of labor and said he stood "four-square for protection of the right of collective bargaining within the law and for building up our purchasing power and promoting a higher standard of living throughout the State by the payment of just and adequate wages.

Intelligent economic planning, he said, "demands recognition of the basic need for a three-way democratic control of industry in the interest of labor as such, and consumers as such, as well as of employers.

"The wise role of government in the guidance of our economic life in Virginia, therefore, should be that of an interested and impartial participant, a helpful leader, but not that of a dictator.

"And in order that our needy population may not be overlooked in the planning and onward march of industry, I earnestly urge our consumers with marginal incomes to organize in protected co-operatives. In this field, the proper agencies of the State government can show the way and render expert advice to our marginal families."

Touching briefly on the State's penal problems, the Governor said the advisory legislative council was studying the maintenance and operation of jails and the question of probation, parole and the indeterminate sentence.

1,800-Acre Tract Given To U. of Md.

U. S. Agency Provides Out-Door Laboratory Near Cumberland For Farm School

Students of the agriculture school at the University of Maryland will have 1,800 acres in Garrett County, Md., near Cumberland, to use as an outdoor laboratory for the next 99 years.

The transfer of the tract, a part of the Garrett County land utilization project, from the Federal Government to the university, was announced yesterday by H. H. Bennett, chief of the Soil Conservation Service of the Agriculture Department.

Under the plan, Maryland University assumes all costs and defrays all expenses for the operation and management of the property. Any income will be used for management and maintenance expense.

Field work will be carried out in connection with the biological sciences, agricultural engineering, forestry and wildlife conservation.

With a main lodge, now used for recreational purposes, about a dozen cabins and an infirmary on the property, the University does not contemplate building any other structures in the near future.

Members of 4-H clubs will be permitted to use the tract for recreation and during the winter. Skiing and other winter sports may be developed in the 1,800-acre area.

Baltimore Mayor Sees Tax Increase Of 20% Needed

Baltimore, July 20 (AP).—An increase of 20 per cent in Baltimore City taxes for 1940 "may be necessary to meet relief fund deficits, Mayor Howard W. Jackson said today.

Jackson said there was an accumulated deficit of $1,500,000 in relief funds for 1939 and estimated at least $2,000,000 to $2,500,000 would be needed in 1940.

Councilman Leon Abramson, former member of the House of Delegates, recently urged Jackson to petition Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor for a special session of the legislature to authorize special taxes to meet the Baltimore relief budget without imposition of additional real property taxes.

Hodges Urges Va. Abolition Of Poll Taxes

Oligarchy Favored By Present System, Institute Told

By the Associated Press

Blacksburg, Va., July 20 (AP).—The Virginia Institute of Rural Affairs heard the State's present suffrage system described today as "the greatest guarantee that we could possibly contrive that government in Virginia shall be run by an oligarchy rather than by the majority of our thinking people in accordance with the true principles of democracy."

State Comptroller Leroy Hodges, urging farm voters to be "in the front line at the ballot boxes every time an election is held," deplored conditions which he said arose from the poll tax requirement and apparently set $1.50 to $501 per head" as the "price" of democracy.

"The brazen spectacle we have just witnessed in a number of our counties of the flagrant violation of the State suffrage laws by the last-minute payment of poll taxes en bloc, and the heavy collection at the six-month deadline of 'omitted' capitation taxes are clearly indicative of the fallacy of the old wobbly political nostrum that the poll tax safeguard insures an 'intelligent' electorate," he asserted.

"Total capitation taxes collected in 1938-39 will amount to approximately $950,000, as compared with total collections of $892,000 in 1930-31," Col. Hodges estimated. "In the 'off' years, the total collections dropped to $607,000 in 1932-33, and to $807,000 in 1935-36."

The comptroller also called for expansion of full-time local health departments to include all counties in Virginia; expansion of public educational services and the raising of teacher standards; "prompt action" to relieve circuit judges of "the heavy burden of nonjudicial administrative duties," and complete abolition of the fee system as a means of compensating public officers in Virginia.

R. M. Evans, administrator of the agricultural adjustment administration, told the institute that the United States had "at last" embarked upon a national agricultural policy and that "those who would return to the old ways of doing things should study more closely the world of today in order to realize that no return to the old is possible."

Apple Plant Suspends

Mrs. Haight's Funeral Today In Fairfax

Classmate of Sousa Taught in County Schools for 22 Years

Funeral services for Mrs. Emma Haight, 81, Fairfax County school teacher for 22 years, will be held at 2:30 p. m. today at Truro Episcopal Church, Fairfax, Va. Burial will be in Fairfax Cemetery.

Mrs. Haight died Wednesday at her home near Fairfax after a long illness.

A graduate of the old Washington City Normal School at the age of 16, she began teaching in 1876 and spent more than 40 years in the profession. She was a classmate of both John Phillip Sousa and Walter Damrosch and later taught sons of both men. After 12 years at Wallach School in Washington she taught in New York State for six more years before coming to Fairfax County.

Mrs. Haight was an active member of Truro Church, teaching a woman's auxiliary study class for more than ten years.

She was born in Chemung, N. Y., daughter of Sergt. John M. Young, of the Sixty-third New York Infantry, killed in the Battle of the Wilderness. She leaves a son, A. L. Haight, of Fairfax; three daughters, Mrs. Thomas M. Hamill, Fairfax Station; Mrs. John A. Millan, Norfolk, Va., and Miss Helen Haight, of Princeton, N. J.; two sisters, Mrs. Ida Conklin and Mrs. Estelle Gardner, both of Elmira, N. Y., and 12 grandchildren.

News of Capital Night Clubs

By Mary Harris

Love me, love my dog? Jans and Lynton, with Frank Brooks, now appearing on the Shoreham Terrace

"DANCE COCKTAILS" RETURN. That highly potent revue, Al Norton's "Dance Cocktails," will arrive in Bamboo Gardens on Monday. The last time this rollicking show was in Bamboo it set a record by playing a solid four weeks. The "Dance Cocktails" are a circus, a beauty show and a musical comedy one of the very best night spot revues in the business. We mean it.

Manager Huey Liang promises that he is going to sing in his own floor show next week, perhaps using some of the same numbers he sang in Maj. Bowes' "International Revue." Here's hoping he doesn't make a fibber out of us. Emcee Al Norton will return from his vacation on Monday. Ditto for Singer Marian Dawn.

SMOKING SYMPHONY. Starred on the Shoreham Terrace next week will be Paul Duke and his "Symphony in Smoke" which he presented at the White House before President Roosevelt and his Cabinet. Paul recently played 38 straight weeks at Leon and Eddie's.

LA CONGA, super-temperatured dance of the tropics, will be presented in Lotus' Evelyn Baker Revue next week. Gorgeous feather costumes, shading from white to chartreuse, will be worn by the "beauty line." We're told that these gowns first figured in a recent Dave Apollon revue. New will be Allen Reno, novelty artist, and Camp and Diane, ballroom dancers.

FISHERMAN'S RETURN. Manager Daniel Wathey, of the Roger Smith Hotel, just returned from a Carolina fishing trip, is setting a new sort of fisherman's record. He says he caught quite a bunch of black bass and amberjacks, and denies that any big ones got away, says that all of his catch were "just fair to middling" in size.

CANDID CAMERA: Mayflower Lounge. Senator Bennett Clark enjoying a leisurely luncheon. We don't know whether he stayed three hours for lunch or not . . . Frederick H. Wood, New York lawyer, who handled the famed "sick chicken" case that put the NRA out of commission.

Rainbow Room. Representative Milton H. West, immersed in solo enjoyment of Milton Davis' solo novachording. Since Congressman West lives at the Hamilton, he's naturally one of Rainbow's best "steadies."

King Cole Room. Vincent Gallagher, owner of this intimate spot, just back from a trip to Virginia Beach, chatting with all the K. C. customers.

WE CAN'T DECIDE. Whether to prefer Jack Manning's (Hi Hat) singing of "If I Didn't Care" or that of Lounge Riviera's Day Donahue. Jack does the song with splendid finish and melody, Ray gives it that final "umph-h."

Whether Pete Macias' boys in the Lounge Riviera give more bounce to the new "Well, All Right" than the Metronome Room Penguins. Both versions sound like a bunch of Democrats miraculously arguing in swing time. P. S. The Penguins have just beat the town by being the first to offer the new sensation, "A Man and His Dream." They played it last night.

ABOUT MUSIC-MAKERS. Bill Gibson, guitarist of the Carlton Lounge Trio, is what they call a "musicians' musician." The things he does with his guitar make the run-of-mill guitar-ing sound like ukelele exercises . . . Jole, the brown-eyed and pretty bass player of Art Baker's Trio at Mayfair, played with the Philadelphia Women's Symphony Orchestra for several seasons. She studied music in Europe for two years . . . Jack Fisher, singing with Carl Lorch's Orchestra at Glen Echo, was voted the most popular male vocalist in Canada. He used to be with Henry Busse's Orchestra . . . Harold Veo, Maryland Gardens' maestro, has just finished scoring his "Hebrew Rhapsody" for symphony playing.

FOR THE INNER MAN: Madrillon's summer cocktail snacks tempt double orders. Especially those toasted crackers spread with spicy Spanish sausage . . . Not everyone knows it, but the little Norfolk spot is one of the finest of eatin' fishes. And that goes double if it's prepared by the expert chefs at Hall's seafood spot . . . There are a lot of fine young turkeys running around O'Donnell's Farms as well as those prize pullets. It must be that turkey time is coming soon . . . The seafood, steak and chicken dinners at the Neptune Room are big and tasty enough to satisfy the hungriest customer. But if you have one of these smaller appetites, the Neptune menu offers you a wide variety of appetizing "specials," including both hot dishes and salads.

SPAGHETTI AND SWING! That new A. T. & S. Barbecue, on the Alexandria pike, is at it again. Tonight there's an Italian spaghetti feast, all you can eat for two bits! If you don't eat so much spaghetti that you can't move, you can go down to the A. T. & S. again tomorrow night and dance to the swing of Dick Davis' Orchestra.

Trio Held for Jury In Fatal Assault

Special Dispatch to The Post

Front Royal, Va., July 20.—Trial Justice Walter G. Olmstead, after a hearing yesterday, ordered three men held for a Warren County grand jury in connection with the fatal beating of Charles H. Steele on June 25.

The suspects are Harry Rinker, of Reliance, and Lloyd Rinker, of Middletown, brothers, and their cousin, Carson Rinker, of Harrisonburg.

The trio is accused of assaulting Steele in the latter's home at Reliance. The victim's son and daughter testified they witnessed the attack.

Frederick Slum Board Gets First U. S. Cash

Special Dispatch to The Post

Frederick, Md., July 20.—Receipt of $2,593.35 from the United States Housing Administration for payment of expenses thus far incurred by the local housing authority in connection with the city's $449,000 slum clearance program, was announced by W. Clinton McSherry, housing authority chairman.

McSherry announced the appointment of Richard Potts and W. Eugene Saunders as appraisers of properties acquired by the authority. James H. Cramer has been named negotiator to deal with property owners and C. Robert Stup is accounting officer.

Frederick WelfareBoard Adds Rector as Member

Special Dispatch to The Post

Frederick, Md., July 20.—Rev. Mark Jenkins, rector of the Brunswick Protestant Episcopal Church, has been appointed to the Frederick County Welfare Board by J. Shelton Turner, executive secretary of the board. He succeeds Lewis R. Dertzbaugh, who resigned several months ago. Mrs Eric Lundgren, Braddock Heights, was named to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. John A. Shires.

Understaffed D. C. Electrical Inspection Service Years Behind in Work, Chief Reports

Delays Handicap Building Industry, Zebley Charges

The District's electrical inspection service is so swamped with work it would take four years to clear the thousands of requested inspections—provided no additional ones were filed.

J. S. Zebley, chief electrical inspector, reported yesterday he had on file records of 22,000 uninspected or unapproved installations, about 1,600 complaints of defective wiring which have not been investigated and some 45,000 domestic mechanical refrigerator installations which should be inspected.

At present the bureau is working with 15 inspectors, four of whom are assigned to special work in connection with Federal and District projects. Zebley requested 10 additional inspectors and a group of clearks to investigate applicants for permits in the recent appropriations hearings. Congress has appropriated funds for one additional inspector.

eManwhile, complaints are being filed every day by local building trades, real estate agents and contractors, who have paid the District for permits to install electrical work and for the inspection of the wiring, but who have to wait, in some cases, as long as two weeks before the inspection actually is made and regular electrical services can be started in Washington homes.

Zebley explained no house can receive electricity until the wiring has been approved by his office.

His present lack of personnel, both in the office and in the field, has been a serious handicap to the local building trades.

In addition, he said there is no law in the District which requires that persons engaged in electrical construction work be licensed, and since any person, regardless of qualification, can perform such work, thorough inspection to safeguad life and property is vital.

The territories surrounding the District in Maryland and Virginia have license laws, which has resulted in those who were refused licenses in these jurisdictions engaging in business in the District, he said. Thus, a great deal of the electric work in the District is being done illegally with great loss of revenue, Zebley stated.

A permit msut be obtained before any electrical work is done in the District and a fee also charged for inspecting each foot of electric wiring. Last year the District collected $50,000 for inspection of wiring and $8,000 in permits.

At present there are 2,234 outstanding notices of defective wiring conditions which the department has been unable to reinspect or prosecute to force compliance, Zebley stated.

"If we do catch up with some illegal work, by the time we obtain a warrant, the electrical worker has skipped town," he said.

One inspector is able to take care of about 12 jobs a day, and on the basis of 11 inspectors actually out in the field, a total of 132 jobs is inspected daily.

In an average day requests for inspections and complaints on wiring total about 200.

The remaining requests continue to pile up on the previous load and by the end of the year probably will reach 100,000 cases. Zebley pointed out this figure represents, in many cases, electrical installations, such as refrigerators, oil burners, as well as usual electrical wirings.

Crumb Cake, Old Dutch Recipe, Is First Winner
Man Entrant Suggests Creamed Finnan Haddie; Tomatoes With Sausage Is Zestful Dish

By Martha Ellyn.
The Post Food Editor

SUMMER is open season for breakfasts, with week-ends elongated, and often very lazy ones. Breakfast can be a shining hour or a very dull one. There are many ways to serve a pleasant breakfast and they range from a pretty tray in bed to a gay, all-hands-on-deck breakfast. It all depends upon the household.

Breakfast, en masse, at an hour stated the night before, has its good points. The English type of breakfast, continuous for several hours, is a happy arrangement. This is when your glistening silver is pressed into real service. Silver heaters are indispensable. Use them on a side table to keep warm the creamed fish, scrambled eggs, cereal, kidneys, hot breads and other breakfast specials.

Breakfast as you will—don't forget that both the family and guests are particularly susceptible in the early morning. Even an angel has his early morning weak spots. So make your breakfasts easy on the eyes. Your prettiest china, shining silver, your most becoming frock and piping hot and thoroughly chilled foods all combine to make the summer Sunday breakfast rites a success.

The scene is set for the breakfast but it is The Post recipe contestants who suggest the delicious foods and combinations to serve. Following are the winners and their recipes.

Breakfast Bonanza

Mrs. Grace F. Hiehle, 3422 South Dakota avenue northwest, is first prize winner for her menu suggestion and recipes. Mrs. Hiehle writes as follows: "The following is a very satisfying Sunday breakfast. It is easy to prepare, as the Crumb Cake is made on Saturday and heated Sunday morning. Serve this breakfast with the Sunday morning Washington Post, and you start the day off right."

Mrs. Hiehle

Sunday Breakfast Special

Fruited Canteloupe Cups
Waffles — Broiled Bacon
Crumb Cake — Coffee
The Sunday Washington Post

Crumb Cake

Sift 2 cups flour, 1 cup sugar, 2 teaspoons baking powder and ½ teaspoon salt together 4 times. (This is important for a light cake). Add 3 tablespoons melted butter and slowly add ¾ cup milk. Put in a square, greased baking pan. Sprinkle the top with cinnamon buttered crumbs, made by working together ¼ cup flour, ¼ cup sugar, 2½ teaspoons butter and 2 teaspoons cinnamon. Work all together until mixture becomes crumby. Sprinkle on top of cake. Bake cake in oven at 375 degrees for 30 minutes. When cold sprinkle with powdered sugar.

Blueprint Special

Samuel Berg is identified with the blueprint gallery, Procurement Division, United States Treasury, but he also has a place in The Post recipe gallery for interesting food ideas. Mr. Berg wins second place and a $2 award with his breakfast menu and the recipe for Creamed Finnan Haddie or Ham. He writes that the breakfast cocktail is a delicious start and excellent for the throat. It is made by beating together 1 egg yolk, the juice of 2 oranges, 1 teaspoon honey or sugar to taste and a pinch of salt.

Mr. Berg

Menu

Breakfast Cocktail
Creamed Finnan Haddie or Creamed Ham
Omelet — Orange Toast
Strawberry Jam — Coffee

Creamed Finnan Haddie or Ham

Heat 1½ cups of milk. Add 1½ cups soft bread crumbs and cook over low flame, stirring constantly until smooth. Add 1 tablespoon butter, chopped parsley, salt and pepper. Stir in 1 cup cooked or canned finnan haddie, or ham, and heat thoroughly. Garnish with toast points and parsley. Serves six.

Summer week-ends bring breakfasts into the spotlight. The buffet breakfast is the perfect solution for the breakfast to serve to a crowd after a swimming party, an early morning golf match, or the continuous family stream. Shining silver will lend an elegant touch

Morning Symphony

Mrs. Charles E. Hartell, 2212 I street northwest, is the winner of a $1 prize with a breakfast menu which is very seasonable, appealing in color combination and savory in flavor. The recipe for the preparation of the tomato sausage dish is given here. The recipes for the other items on the menu are easily prepared.

Mrs. Hartell

Menu

Red Raspberries and Sliced Peaches
Tomato Sausage — Scrambled Eggs
Buttermilk Drop Biscuits
Gooseberry Jam — Coffee

Tomato Sausage

Add 1 cup tomato juice, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon sage and ¼ teaspoon pepper to 1 pound pork sausage. Bake in muffin pans at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

Tangy Note

Mrs. Ruth Swisher, 61 W. Washington street, Hagerstown, Md., imparts the tangy flavor of buttermilk into the marmalade muffins she suggests for a breakfast special and wins a $1 award. Muffins made according to this recipe are unusually delicious and will win a song of praise whenever served.

Mrs. Swisher

Buttermilk Marmalade Muffins

Mix and sift 2 cups flour, 1-3 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 2½ teaspoons baking powder and ¼ teaspoon soda. Add ¼ cup melted butter to 1 slightly beaten egg yolk. Add ¾ cup buttermilk and stir into the dry ingredients, mixing just enough to moisten. Fold in 1 stiffly beaten egg white. Place half of the mixture by spoonsful in the bottom of 12 buttered muffin pans. Put a little orange marmalade on top of the batter. Cover the marmalade with the remaining batter. Bake in hot oven, 400 degrees, about 20 minutes.

Two-in-One

Mrs. Albert Day, Auburn avenue, Bethesda, Md., is the winner of a $1 award with her recipe for a combination egg and meat dish. This breakfast dish is easily prepared and makes both preparation and service extremely simple. This is the type of dish that will make the grade with hungry men because of its flavor and quality.

Mrs. Day

Egg Frizzle

Cover ¼ pound chipped beef with boiling water and let stand for 5 minutes. Drain and dry. Melt 4 teaspoons butter in skillet, add the beef and heat thoroughly. Beat 4 eggs, add ½ teaspoon salt and ⅛ teaspoon pepper and 1 cup milk and mix well. Pour over the beef and stir frequently until eggs have cooked. Serve garnished with sprigs of parsley.

Recipe Contest

THEME—Porch and garden party specialties.

QUALIFICATIONS — Recipes must be kitchen-tested, practical and carefully written. Exact amount of ingredients must be given and all measurements must be level.

CLOSING DATE—Noon, Saturday, July 29.

PRIZES—First, $3; second, $2; third, fourth and fifth, $1 each.

Runners-up will receive honorable mention. Photographs of contestants should be sent if possible.

Consumers Counsel

By The Post Food Editor.

Consumers Counsel is made up of suggestions sent in by The Post readers. If you have any ideas you would like to share with Post readers, send them to Martha Ellyn, The Post food editor. The column is not restricted to food hints alone. Any interesting suggestions of practical value throughout the household will be welcomed.

Chicken a La Queen Is Savory Dish for Special Occasions

A PENNSYLVANIA NEIGHBOR, Alberta B. Klingler, 714 East Brady street, Butler, Pa., has an inventive mind for food. Miss Klingler has suggested a recipe for Chicken a la Queen which she originated. She writes, "When the occasion demands something special serve this nutritious dish."

Chicken a la Queen

Cut white meat of cooked chicken in small pieces. Saute small mushrooms in butter. Steam fresh tender asparagus tips and cut pimientos in small pieces. Make a medium thick and well-seasoned white sauce. Crush very fine the cheese variety of cracker crumbs. Make very thin pie patties. Place the sauted mushrooms in the center of the pattie, and pour the sauce, chicken, asparagus and pimiento mixture over the mushrooms. Top with cracker crumbs, dot with butter and brown lightly.

Many women create recipes. Mrs. F. M. Matthews, 3707 Woodley road northwest, is one who does. Mrs. Matthews has fashioned an attractive and delicious vegetable ring from carrots and almonds. This distinctive dish will be welcomed as the main dish for a luncheon or as a vegetable dinner ring.

Carrot Almond Ring

Melt 2 tablespoons butter in a saucepan; add 2 tablespoons flour; stir until well blended. Add 1 teaspoon salt. Separate 3 eggs; beat yolk; add to milk mixture; add 2 cups diced carrots and cook 2 minutes longer. Beat 3 egg whites until stiff; fold into the mixture. Fold in 1 cup almonds. Pour into well-greased ring mold. Set in pan half filled with boiling water; bake in moderate oven at 350 degrees for 40 minutes until set. Serve on platter with center filled with buttered peas and mushrooms. Creamed shrimp or other filling may be used.

New Potatoes

A West Virginia housewife sent us a different way to cook new potatoes. New potatoes cooked in the jackets is a healthful way to serve them, but this reader has an original way further to enhance the healthfulness. Add a small amount of cut-up onion greens to the potatoes just before they have finished cooking and boil till tender. This addition improves the taste of the potatoes. The onion greens may be removed if desired, but may be served.

The Food Editor discovered a very interesting puff idea when she opened her mail recently. Mrs. Carolyn Bennett, Leonardtown, Md., offers a cheese-flavored puff, which she suggests to serve with currant jelly and two slices of pineapple.

Cheese and Egg Puffs

Beat 3 egg whites stiff. Carefully fold in 2 pounds grated American cheese. Form the mixture into balls about seven-eighth inch in diameter. Place in the refrigerator until firm. Beat 2 whole eggs, add 2 tablespoons cold water. Roll balls in fine dry crumbs. Dip them in the beaten eggs, roll in crumbs again. Fry in deep hot fat about 1 minute or until lightly browned. The fat must be very hot or the balls will burst without browning. Serves 12. The recipe may be halved.

Summer Calls For Food Easy Of Preparation

Jellied Broth, Chicken, Ice Cream, Are on Menu

By Martha Ellyn,
The Post Food Editor.

PREPARED without effort and eaten with pleasure—that's the ideal formula for summer meals. Hospitality loses its gaiety if the hostess appears too tired to enjoy her guests. Meals which will be ready to serve without a last minute rush are important to the preservation of poise and graciousness.

Martha Ellyn

The following dinner menu is easily prepared and makes a distinctive dinner. Since the consomme, wafers, cucumber pickles and asparagus can be taken from the emergency shelf, the preparation of the chicken, potatoes and dessert requires but little time. To make the meal still easier to prepare, a ham and tongue platter might be substituted for the chicken. Both foods can be purchased ready to serve, and thus the only two dishes to be developed from the beginning are the potatoes and ice cream.

Menu

Jellied consomme Wafers
Lemon slices or cucumber pickles
Broiled chicken Parsley potatoes
Asparagus
Toasted ice cream Coffee

Jellied consomme served with lemon or fresh cucumber pickles is a good start for a summer dinner. It is easily prepared. Take a can of consomme from the emergency shelf and place in the refrigerator several hours before serving time. The cucumber pickle not only provides tartness but also lends a spicy touch to the soup.

Toasted Ice Cream

Toasted ice cream sounds paradoxical, but it isn't, for it is delicious. Here's how to make it. For the toasted mixture, blend 1 tablespoon butter, ¼ cup finely crushed corn flakes, 2 tablespoons brown sugar and ¼ cup chopped nut meats. Place in a shallow pan, bake at 375 degrees, until all the ingredients are well browned. Stir several times during the browning process, and when cool, crumble. Luscious ice cream, smooth and velvety, and ready to eat in 45 minutes, is easy to make. It is inexpensive, too, for the recipe calls only for two milk and coffee cream, and it will not freeze without a crystal.

To make the ice cream, beat 2 egg yolks, 6 tablespoons sugar and 4 tablespoons white corn syrup together until thick and lemon colored. To this add 1 cup whole milk, 1 cup coffee cream and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Place the ice cream in freezing tray, setting the temperature control to coldest. Freeze for one-half hour, or until firm to the touch. Place 2 unbeaten egg whites in a bowl, add the frozen ice cream and beat until the ingredients are well blended. Add one-half of the toasted mixture and freeze for about 15 minutes. Sprinkle the remaining half of the toasted mixture over the top. Return to the refrigerator and freeze until firm.

One Hot Dish For Summer Meal

Even if the day is a sizzler, it is best to have at least one hot dish. Soup gives the opportunity to carry out this health rule, and in summer you can use canned soups to save time and energy.

Black bean is mighty good when topped with thin slices of lemon and hard-cooked eggs. It is nourishing, too, and even hot days demand energy-building foods. Cream of mushroom mixed with corn or asparagus soup looks and is summerlike with a thin sprinkling of grated yellow cheese on each portion. The chowders—clam and vegetable—are also very good for summer serving.

The 'Beer Barrel Poker' Will 'Moider' More 'Bums'

'Two-Ton' Tony to Debut in 'Show Business;' Sterling Films Win Third Downtown Weeks; News Notes and Gossip of the Theater

TONY GALENTO, the "Beer Barrel Poker," may not be the present era's greatest contribution to the arts, but the "Two-Ton" is going into "show business" anyway.

Signor Galento has no mind to achieve theatrical greatness by breaking in in some such simple thing as "Hamlet" or even "Cyrano de Bergerac." He prefers to begin at the top and make his debut the hard way. So he will appear as an "extra added attraction," seven times a day, on the Million Dollar Pier in Atlantic City, beginning Sunday.

BELL

The supporting cast on this occasion will consist of an elephant and a kangaroo, with which Tony will exchange pleasantries in the ring. The elephant has power and reach and the kangaroo has footwork, but the star of the cast dismisses them disdainfully with his copyrighted "I'll moider de bums." The kangaroo, known to the squared circle as Hopsy-Maxie, is coming down all the way from Orangeburg, N. Y., to show the Galento what for. The pachyderm belongs to the Clyde Beatty circus troupe appearing on the pier.

"I would also like to have a go wit one of dem Clyde Beatty lions, too," the belligerent Beer Keg insists. "I ain't scared of man, beast or sea soipent."

Mr. Beatty, however, puts his foot down on that one. "Those lions are ferocious and expensive," he explains, "and I can't afford to risk having them torn limb from limb!"

"Daughters Courageous," the Warner Brothers production with the original cast of "Four Daughters"—the Lane sisters, Gale Page, May Robson, Dick Foran, Claude Rains, John Garfield, Jeffrey Lynn and the rest, plus Fay Bainter and Donald Crisp—having completed two eminently successful weeks at the Earle last night, this morning continues its downtown run as chief feature of the new bill at the Metropolitan. "Hell's Kitchen," previously announced as the Met's new feature, will be shown there at a later date. And they won't say "Goodbye" to "Mr. Chips," either. The M.-G.-M. picturization of the James Hilton novel is in its third prosperous week at Loew's Palace, with Robert Donat and Greer Garson receiving mounting encomiums for the superlative excellence of their work. I still entertain a hunch that has something to do with Academy awards concerning this one, but you can't go wrong on either.

Washington's aspiring playwrights again hold the spotlight at Catholic University. Tonight at 8:15, in the University Summer Theater, Doris Sherwood and Edgar Kloten, graduate students in Speech and Drama, will see their pieces produced by fellow students and members of the Blackfriars Guild.

For three seasons Catholic University has made steady advancement in the creative branches of the theater. Emphasis is laid on the need for new dramatic writers and the graduate students, assembled from all parts of the country, are recording phases of life best known to them in fine dramatic style—as witness Leo Brady's recent "Brother Orchid."

"Angel of Mercy," a short-reel subject dealing with Clara Barton's fight for establishment of the Red Cross, is a last-minute addition to the bill to be presented at Loew's Columbia Theater for the first time today. This is a sterling featurette, in which Sara Haden gives an uncommonly faithful portrayal of Miss Barton in the title role.

Plans for a $35,000 modernization of the State Theater, 6970 Wisconsin avenue, Bethesda, Md., are announced by J. Henry Hiser, owner. The remodeling will include a new entrance and marquee, with lobby paneled in California redwood; the installation of Westinghouse air-conditioning, new upholstered "Bodiform" seats and interior decorations in modern patterns of velour and figured damask.

The stage is to be enlarged and new rigging and drapes are to be installed. Ample facilities for stage presentations will be provided, according to Mr. Hiser.

It is expected that work will be completed by September 1, when the house will be reopened with elaborate ceremonies. The State will remain open, however, while most of the remodeling is going on.

Probably one of the things expected to scare you when "Spooks" is put on, out at the Roadside Theater next Monday night, will be the 1920 styles in which the comedy-melodrama will be costumed. Or does that come under the head of comedy? I can't for the life of me remember.

Naughty-Naughty Note

When was it they wore those short skirts?

In Hollywood

With Hedda Hopper

(Quiet, unassuming little Margaret Booth, who manages a horse as well as a pair of scissors, assisted Irving Thalberg in cutting some of his biggest pictures: "Mutiny on the Bounty," "Smiling Thru," "Romeo and Juliet" and many others. Now she's cutting up a day for me.—H. H.)

By Margaret Booth

Hollywood, Calif., July 20.—The technical side of pictures offers as great a field for women as for men, if women are willing to work the long, hard hours those jobs demand. The reason few women have attained positions of importance in the industry—I'm not referring to acting—is that most of them won't sacrifice social pleasures for tedious application to a profession. It seems like giving up too much.

In 1923 I entered pictures as a film patcher. Then became a cutter. John M. Stahl gave me my first lessons. I became a cutter for Irving Thalberg, who assigned me to work on the sets with various directors, particularly newcomers from the theater who were unfamiliar with camera angles and technical side. Hedda, you'd call me a "trouble shooter."

My work consists of running daily "rushes" of scenes with the producer, to select best "takes" and then co-operate on the cutting. Often I'm on the set discussing angles, being sure all understand exactly what is wanted in the way the producer visualizes the story. When camera work is completed all scenes are assembled 'til they become a story in continuity form.

It's often difficult to eliminate footage because it's been so well written. It wasn't easy to cut "On Borrowed Time," because every scene with Lionel Barrymore, Bobs Watson, Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Beulah Bondi and the others dovetailed so perfectly into those which preceded and followed.

Occasionally an uncut picture may have too much "good stuff" in it. What a time we had on 'Tarzan Finds a Son." The question was which to leave out so that the audience wouldn't think we were carrying excitement too far. "Always keep them coming back for more," is a pretty good film motto.

You need to know how to get the best out of people. And I believe women can do that just as well as men.

Lane Girls Form Firing Squad

Since their home was burglarized a few weeks ago, Priscilla and Rosemary Lane have made a pistol range of adjoining vacant property and have learned to shoot.

Now that they've reached the point where they can smash light globes at a distance of 20 paces, the stars have applied for permits to carry guns in their cars. That's just a precautionary measure. Occasionally they work late and that means driving home alone. Priscilla, in fact, has had eight night calls in the past two weeks for her role opposite John Garfield in "Dust Be My Destiny."

The "impersonation" of a gorilla that Mickey Rooney did at Judy Garland's birthday party, guests said, rivaled even Misha Auer's classic imitation.

Louella O. Parsons'

Close-Ups and Long-Shots Of the Motion Picture Scene

Hollywood, July 20 (INS).—Jackie Coogan, who has had one solid year of bad luck, was happy today over a new movie job at Monogram. First Jackie had his troubles with his mother over the loss of his fortune. Then his separation from Betty Grable and then, after a reconciliation, another split that still looks too serious to heal. Today he was signed for a good part in "Sky Patrol," starting Monday. This may augur a real comeback for him, for it was Monogram which brought Jackie Cooper back after he was dropped by M. G. M. at the age of 16, as too old for movies.

LOUELLA PARSONS

Paul Malvern, producer, promises that young Coogan will be given a real chance. In his recent Paramount pictures, unless you looked hard, you couldn't see him. When I talked with Jackie, he said Betty was in San Francisco appearing at the Fair, with Benny Goodman, and that after that she goes to Chicago for personal appearances. He said she would make the decision, when she reaches here, about their marital future, but the chances of reconciliation do not look very encouraging.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: The "oomph" gal, Ann Sheridan, giving diners at a night spot an eyeful, when she walked in with Frank Dewar; had tea with Joan Bennett and Melinda Markey today, and if 5-year-old Melinda isn't a writer some day, then I'm a bad prophet. She is so like Gene, who sees her every day, and so full of really bright conversation, that she could pass any test for a 10-year-old; Leopold Stokowski and Alec Templeton, the blind pianist, met for the first time at George Palmer Putnam's party and it was an occasion for those fortunate enough to hear them both play; who is the heart-throb Wendy Barrie has been eating luncheon with in drugstores for the last three days? Brenda Joyce (Fern, in "The Rains Came") has moved into a new house in Westwood. Her favorite boy friend, Owen Ward, a reserve officer in a training camp, returns Saturday.

Cheryl Walker, who won the Pasadena Tournament of Roses queen's crown this year, is now Genevieve Tobin's stand-in.

That's all for today. See you tomorrow!

Famed Artist Plans Poetry Room Windows

Connick Offers His Services Free to Library of Congress

Five stained-glass windows, designed by Charles J. Connick, of Boston, are to be installed in the new poetry room of the Library of Congress. They will be the only stained-glass windows in the building.

Joseph Auslander, poetry consultant at the Library, has announced that each will be the gift of an individual, either as a memorial or as an expression of the donor's love of poetry. Connick, recognized as the greatest exponent of his art today, is donating his services as a designer, so that the only cost will be for materials and labor.

The poetry room, on which work is now in progress, is at the northeast corner of the library. Auslander's idea is not to have "a dim religious light" there, but to provide a distinctive atmosphere.

"When people step into the poetry room, there should be a definite sense of entering another world, the world of visions and voices," said Auslander, himself among the leading American poets.

"The windows will enhance the effect of a sanctuary, a refuge from the rush of life outside."

Connick, in a letter to Auslander, outlined his ideas for the windows. "They should be musical and iremulous, rather than solid and substantial, in their appeal to fact finders," he said. "Five windows could typify five great masterpieces in English (and American) poetry, with related ideas more or less freely expressed to symbolize other worthies and their creations."

Connick and Auslander will confer on the project early in August. It is expected the windows will be ready by October.

Conferees Predict Retirement Accord This Session

Conferees failed to agree yesterday on amendments to the civil service retirement act passed by the Senate and House, but they predicted that a compromise accord will be reached in time to send a bill to the White House before Congress adjourns.

Indications were for an accord on this basis of the 4 per cent employe contribution voted by the Senate and the House proposals on retirement ages.

The next meeting of the conferees was scheduled for Monday by Senator Neely (Democrat), of West Virginia.

French Begin New Warships

Paris, July 20 (INS).—France today took a long stride in her giant re-armament drive, announcing construction is beginning on two 8,000-ton cruisers and six submarines, each displacing 800 tons. The cruisers will be capable of a speed of more than 32 knots.

The announcement was in a communique from Cesar Campinchi, minister of marine.

Lewis Silent After Talk With Roosevelt

John L. Lewis spent half an hour with President Roosevelt yesterday, but what they discussed was kept a secret by the C. I. O. leader.

Lewis said the conference was arranged by the President. Asked directly if the subject of bringing peace to the C. I. O. and A. F. L. was discussed, Lewis replied:

"Well, I don't like to answer specific questions, but we did not discuss labor peace."

The New Yorker

By Leonard Lyons

New York, July 20.

DEFEAT: When the Munich pact was signed, Herbert Hoover made a $100 bet with a Frisco friend that it would bring peace to Europe for at least 25 years and that Hitler would not violate its provisions for at least five years . . . Two weeks later Hoover paid his loss.

FAME: George Jessel has been flying to Hollywood once each week to settle his difficulties with Norma Talmadge . . . Jessel—engrossed with this domestic problem, his radio broadcasts, his "Little Old New York" exhibit and his play productions—has had little sleep for the last four weeks . . . Only once during that time did he really sleep, on the eastbound plane. In Salt Lake City, however, the stewardess awakened him and said: "Mr. Jessel, your picture is on the front page" . . . George rushed outside, purchased a newspaper and read the headline: "Beautiful Movie Star Leaves Comedian."

LAMENT: Bob Moses, the highway and park builder who has done more than any other New Yorker to conserve and improve the nature spots here, descended from the bedroom of his duplex apartment in Gracie Square and shouted that he had been awakened—by a damn bird . . . "Don't be so angry," Mrs. Moses advised. "Write a letter of complaint."

TROUBLE: While John Barrymore was emoting in "My Dear Children" in Chicago—after Elaine Barrie had left him and brought suit—he started to speak his lines and then looked up at the portrait hanging on the stage wall. It was a portrait of Barrymore dressed as Hamlet . . . "You," Barrymore interpolated, "and YOU thought things were tough."

CHANCE: Florence Eldridge has played poker but once in her life . . . Frederic March, her husband, did not participate, and so she had no one to instruct her in the fundamentals . . . Florence drew three cards, placed her bet, raised, was reraised, raised again and was called . . . I've got two pair," the other player announced and exhibited his cards . . . "I've got a full house," said Miss Eldridge. "I win" . . . "Well, let's see it," her opponent insisted—but she refused . . . Finally she was induced to show her cards, which revealed that she didn't even hold a pair . . . "Wait a minute," she explained. "What's this thing about bluffing?"

WAR: Americans who just have returned from Tokio and Yokohama report that the manhole covers in the streets of Japan have been replaced by wooden coverings, so that the metal may be converted into munitions . . . And all the metal mail boxes in those cities have been replaced by chinaware.

CHATTER: Dave Schenker, brilliant legalite of the Securities and Exchange Commission will be named as United States Attorney for the Eastern District of New York . . . Orson Welles' first film for RKO will be an adaption of Joseph Conrad's "Out of Darkness." . . . Although Ken magazine will fold, the name will be continued—as a news letter of inside stuff to selected subscribers . . . The Week, the London publication which first exposed the Cliveden Set, may be published in America, where it has a circulation of almost 1,000 . . . Bob Hope, who broke Rudy Vallee's seven-year record at the Steel Pier, phoned Paulette Goddard yesterday from the World's Fair. "I'll fly to New York Monday," Paulette told him. "I want to see Brenda Frazier's name in Neon lights."

FEUD: Alexander Woollcott still is feuding with Harold Ross, editor of the New Yorker, because of the publication of the Woollcott profile . . . Although Alec is embittered, Ross still doesn't know the extent of that estrangement—because the profile was published, Woollcott had written a will making Ross' daughter the beneficiary of his estate.

DECEIT: Charles G. Norris and his wife, Kathleen Norris, were on a train to California, where a stranger invited Norris to play bridge . . . "We're taking no chances on card shrapa," the stranger stated, "so we won't play for money" . . . They played all day and again the next morning. In the midst of a game, the stranger examined his five remaining cards and sighed: "I wish we were playing poker. With this hand I could make a lot of money" . . . Norris studied his own cards, agreed to continue it as a poker hand and made a considerable wager. At the showdown he had a full house; the stranger, a royal flush. Norris wrote a check to pay his loss, but the stranger refused to accept it and appeared to tear it. The next week, however, Norris' bank notified him that he was overdrawn. The check had been "palmed" and then "raised."

Picnic Set Thursday

The Washington Reciprocity Club will hold a golf tournament August 8 at the Congressional Country Club, followed by dinner at the club.

Fisher's $20,000,000 Now Just $40,000

Miami Beach, Fla., July 20 (AP).—Carl G. Fisher, developer of Miami Beach, whose holdings once were estimated to be worth $20,000,000, left an estate of $40,000 to his widow, Mrs. Margaret C. Fisher.

The figure was set by an attorney who filed the will for probate today. Fisher, who also was developer of Montauk Point, Long Island, and the Indianapolis Speedway, died here Saturday.

N. J. Officer of C. I. O. Indorse a Third Term

Newark, N. J., July 20 (INS).—Indorsement of a third term for President Roosevelt, who "represents the hope and aspirations of the working people of America," was voted today in a closing session of the quarterly meeting of the executive board of the Congress of industrial organizations in New Jersey.

With what amounted to a slap in the face of Mayor Frank Hague, of Jersey City, arch-foe of the C. I. O., they chose his city as the locale of the State convention to begin November 18.

City Constructs Street

Winchester, Va., July 20.—City employees today began construction of Wick street which parallels the Pennsylvania Railroad through the apple storage and packing district in North Winchester.

Makes 4th Effort To Gain Freedom

Cumberland, Md., July 20 (AP).—A convict sent back to prison when his parole was revoked made his fourth attempt today to gain his freedom on his claim he is imprisoned illegally.

Louis Andrews, 35, filed a habeas corpus plea with Judge D. Lindley Sloan in Allegany County Circuit Court. Judge Sloan agreed to hear the claim July 25 and summoned Warden Patrick J. Brady, of the pnitentiary to bring his records.

Andrews is serving a six-year sentence imposed in Wicomico County for assault with intent to kill. In 1937 he was released on parole but was returned to the penitentiary for parole violation in 1938. The parole department records show he "threatened the life of certain members of his family" while on parol.

Andrews, who acts as his own attorney, claims that the time he was on parole should be counted as time spent in prison and that this time, plus some time off earned for prison work, would have freed him before this.

Shot at Auto Thieves Kills Baltimore Girl

Baltimore, July 20 (AP).—Herbert Wolfe, 37, was released under $1,000 bail today for hearing on charges he killed Lillian Martin, 8-year-old colored girl, when he fired at three auto thieves. The girl was playing in the street.

more FUN FOR WIVES this summer

SWIFT'S SUMMER SUPPERS free your afternoons from kitchen drudgery! Marvelous meals, wholesome and appetizing, that you can whisk up in just a few minutes!

●You can enjoy every minute of the glorious summer afternoons that lie ahead . . . without a pang of conscience about getting supper. Swift & Company has solved the whole problem for you . . . with a series of suppers that will refresh even the most heat-wilted appetites. Yet suppers that you can prepare "from scratch" in a matter of minutes!

Each Swift's Summer Supper is built around a carefully balanced assortment of Swift's Premium Table-Ready Meats. (You know what the Premium seal means in meat quality.) These delicious meats are prepared by Swift's very special method. Expertly flavored and delicately spiced, they have a real "home goodness" that only the best home cooking can match.

Ask your dealer for one of the Swift's Summer Suppers shown below. See what a hit it makes with your family, and how quick and easy it is to serve! And while you're in his store, get Martha Logan's set of menus for 6 complete Summer Suppers. They'll make it possible for you to feed your family well—yet have many more kitchen-free hours, for more fun this summer!

A GLORIOUS PICNIC MEAL—ONE THAT'S GOOD FOR THE CHILDREN—IS NO WORK AT ALL! Choose Swift's Summer Supper No. 2 . . . it practically packs itself in the picnic basket! If there are four in your family, buy 6 slices of Swift's Premium Liver Cheese, 6 slices Swift's Premium New England, and 8 slices Swift's Premium Salami. Serve with plenty of potato chips, sliced tomatoes, and pineapple sticks (they come in cans).

SWIFT'S Summer SUPPERS

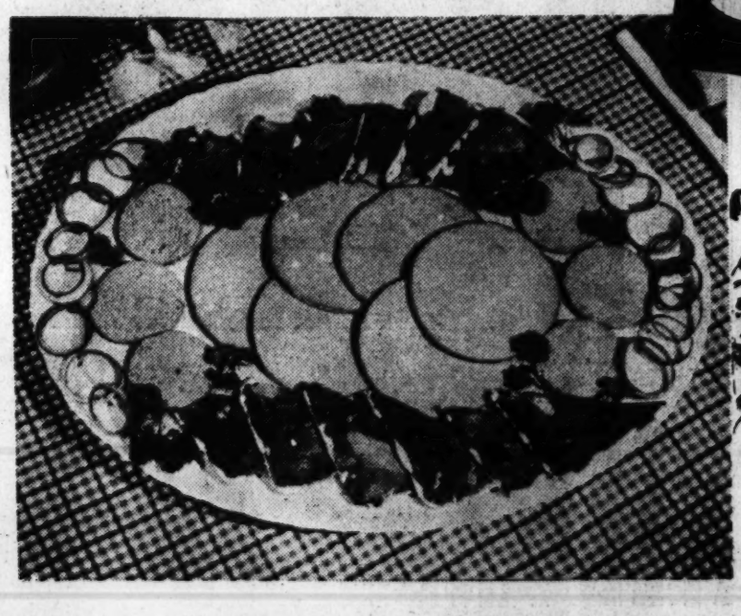
STAY OUT IN YOUR GARDEN TILL 6 . . . SERVE THIS GALA MEAL AT 6:15! A hot kitchen is the last place you want to be, when the thermometer is in the nineties. You'll win your husband's praise with Swift's Summer Supper No. 4. If you're feeding four people, get 8 slices Swift's Premium Delicatessen Ham, 6 slices Swift's Premium Cheemeat, and 8 slices Swift's Premium Salami. Arrange as shown, garnished with spiced whole pears and endive. Cool potato salad and sliced tomatoes will complete the menu.

FINISH YOUR 18 HOLES! SUPPER WILL BE READY IN NO TIME. You can get home only a few minutes before your husband, and still have Swift's Summer Supper No. 3 on the table by the time he's ready! To serve four: 6 slices Swift's Premium Braunschweiger, 6 slices Swift's Premium Leona, and 6 slices Swift's Premium Pot Roast of Beef. Arrange on a platter with onion rings. For vegetables, corn on the cob, Mexican cole slaw, and pickled beets.



YOU CAN SWIM WITH YOUR YOUNGSTERS ALL AFTERNOON . . . THEN PREPARE THIS "JIFFY" SUPPER so quickly that you won't get all hot again. And your family will love Swift's Summer Supper No. 6! To feed two children, a hungry husband and yourself: get 7 slices Swift's Premium Meat Loaf, 6 slices Swift's Premium New England, and 6 slices Swift's Premium Liver Cheese. Dress up the platter with celery curls, radish roses and green onions. Serve with buttered lima beans and a tart fruit salad.

Dr. John Oliver La Gorce Decorated At Luncheon at French Embassy

Associate Editor of National Geographic Magazine Made Chevalier of Legion Of Honor for Asiatic Expedition

By Hope Ridings Miller,
The Post Society Editor

A LUNCHEON WITH A PURPOSE—and a very good one at that—enlivened yesterday's social scene when the French Ambassador, Count de Saint Quentin, entertained a few friends at his festive board in honor of Dr. John Oliver La Gorce. The occasion was part of a brief ceremony at which Dr. La Gorce, who is associate editor of the National Geographic Magazine, was made a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor.

Established in 1802 by Napoleon, the decoration is awarded in recognition of work done to promote the name and fame of the Republic of France. Specifically, Dr. La Gorce is privileged to wear the cross of honor because of his work, as vice president of the National Geographic Society, in connection with the famous Citroen-Hardt expedition across Asia a few years ago.

Replying to the Ambassador's presentation speech, Dr. La Gorce mentioned that he was particularly proud to receive the award because of his French ancestry. His late father was a colonel in the French army, and a number of his relatives have been closely identified with work of the French Republic.

Other guests of the Ambassador who attended the luncheon and witnessed the ceremony were Mrs. La Gorce, Dr. and Mrs. Thomas W. McKnew, M. and Mme. de Vilmorin, recently arrived from France for an extended visit in this country; the Ambassador's mother, Countess de Saint Quentin, who will sail for her homeland tomorrow; Mrs. Nathan Wyeth, and Baron James Baeyens, second secretary of the Embassy.

Leaving Soon On Trip to West

Dr. and Mrs. La Gorce will accompany Senator and Mrs. Arthur Vandenberg to Maryland's Eastern Shore this week-end to be the guests of Arthur Kudner at his estate. Next Thursday Mrs. La Gorce and Mr. Kudner will join Mrs. Kudner at Carrizoza, the Kudner ranch, near Albuquerque, N. Mex., making the trip out by plane. Later, Mrs. La Gorce plans to go on to Los Angeles, Calif., where she will join Mrs. Bernard Gimbel for several weeks.

On Monday Mrs. La Gorce will entertain at a farewell-for-a-while luncheon in honor of Mrs. William A. Morgan, who with Mrs. Melville Bell Grosvenor will sail soon for Europe.

A recent guest of Dr. and Mrs. La Gorce was Mrs. A. Frank Katzentine, of Miami Beach, Fla., who arrived Saturday, left Wednesday, and was widely feted during her brief stay. Among those who entertained for her, in addition to her host and hostess who gave a dinner for her Saturday night at the Chevy Chase Club, were Dr. and Mrs. Thomas W. McKnew, Mrs. J. Fred Essary and Mrs. William A. Morgan. A final party arranged for her was a luncheon in the restaurant of the House of Representatives on Wednesday.

Peppers Fete Kitty Carlisle

Mention of a Capitol Hill locale reminds me—that wasn't Kitty Carlisle I saw lunching (remember, I said I wasn't sure?) at a popular spot in midtown on Thursday. The pretty actress who is drawing 'em in droves to the Olney Theater this week was being feted that day by Senator and Mrs. Claude Pepper down at the Senate restaurant.

Other guests at the luncheon were Gov. Blanton Winship, Stewart McDonald, Mrs. Helen Sneed, of Lakeland, Fla., and Thomas McAvoy.

HERE AND THERE: Mrs. Paul V. McNutt, who is now in Indianapolis, will arrive in Washington the middle of next week to join her husband at the Mayflower Hotel . . . Miss Anne Perin is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene B. Roberts at Newport, R. I. . . . Mrs. George A. Garrett, her son, MacCullough Darlington, and her daughter, Elaine Darlington, who are now at Northeast Harbor, will return the end of this month and will go to the Garrett home near Middleburg, Va., to spend the remainder of the summer . . . Mrs. Louis E. Jeffries, jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Boatwright, who have been spending some time in California, are now at Lake Louise, and will go to Banff Springs before returning home August 1 . . . Mr. and Mrs. Rozier Dulany, jr., who have been vacationing in Atlantic City, have joined the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dulany, sr., at Oakley, near Upperville, Va. . . . others now visiting the Dulanys are Mrs. Morgan Beach and Mrs. Elizabeth Beach Pennybaker.

Trio to Enjoy Benefit Cruise

Harris & Ewing.

Miss Virginia Kibler, daughter of Maj. and Mrs. A. F. Kibler, and two out-of-towners, will be in the party scheduled for the moonlight cruise next Wednesday night. The fete is being arranged by the Army Daughters for their emergency relief fund. Surveying the sky with Miss Kibler (above) are Miss Mildred Bryant, of Louisville, Ky., and Miss Marguerite Herrick, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. B. Herrick, of Panama

2 of 4 Escaped Convicts Caught In Virginia Town

Harrisonburg, Va., July 20 (AP).—Two of four convicts who escaped from an honor prison camp at Brandywine, W. Va., were returned today after they were taken into custody this morning in an abandoned house at McGaheysville, 12 miles east of here.

Police continued a search for the other two, who were believed to have made their way into Augusta County.

Conservation Boards Plan Joint Session

Baltimore, July 20 (AP).—Chairman Edwin Warfield, jr., Maryland Conservation Commission, said today his commission might meet "some time this summer" with the Virginia Fisheries Commission.

"We don't have any definite plans," he said, "I saw Walter Mapp (of the Virginia commission), and we agreed it would be a good plan to get together and talk over mutual problems. It would be a general discussion—nothing definite."

Albemarle County Sets $13,093 Relief Budget

Special Dispatch to The Post

Charlottesville, Va., July 20.—The county department of public welfare quarterly allotment request, which has been approved by the State welfare department, was passed at the monthly meeting of the Albemarle County board of supervisors.

For the quarter ending September 30, $13,093.27 in Federal, State and county funds has been allotted to aid the blind, dependent children, for old-age assistance, general relief and administration.

Numbers' Buyer Fined $100, Costs At Richmond

Richmond, Va., July 20 (AP).—Police Justice E. C. Folkes fined a colored man $100 and costs and imposed a month's suspended jail sentence today on a charge of buying "numbers."

Police said the penalty, coupled with the action of Judge John L. Ingram of Hustings Court Monday, in fining a defendant $100 on a similar charge, was a forward step in ridding the city of numbers operators.

Meanwhile, Police Chief Robert B. Jordan reported that members of the city vice squad had told him some numbers men had announced they were quitting activities here.

Dying Md. Boy Clears Playmate After Shooting

Baltimore, July 20 (AP).—In a dying statement, William Mitchell, 14, exonerated his playmates, Francis Baer, 15, who wounded him fatally with a shotgun, State's Attorney Ferinand Sybert said today.

Young Mitchell died this morning despite blood transfusions given by his father.

Sybert said the boys were with a group playing with a shotgun near Ellicott City yesterday when the weapon exploded, the charge tearing through young Mitchell's hip.

Ex-Teacher Admits Guilt In Shooting of Woman

Berkeley Springs, W. Va., July 20. Hugh Braithwaite, former school teacher in this county, pleaded guilty to shooting his sister-in-law, Mary Burton, when arraigned before Justice of the Peace Eichelberger here yesterday and was held under $500 bond for action of the September grand jury.

Reports from the Cumberland (Md.) hospital, where the young woman is a patient, said her condition was favorable. The shooting took place at Braithwaite's home in Paw Paw, following an argument.

75 Foreign Delegates To Visit Martinsburg

Martinsburg, W. Va., July 20.—Foreign delegates to the seventh World's Poultry Congress and Exposition will spend an afternoon, on July 27, in this Eastern Panhandle as guests of the State and local groups, and will be taken on a tour of historical and commercial points under plans completed here last night.

About 75 are expected in the party, which will reboard its train here that evening. Service clubs here are co-operationg in the arrangements.

Dr. Cooper Named Head Of Md. Self-Help School

Oakland, Md., July 20 (AP).—Reorganization of the Self-Help School at Mountain Lake Park, and election of Dr. Homer E. Cooper as president, was announced today by the board of directors.

Dr. Cooper, formerly connected with the University of Pittsburgh, Westminster College and West Liberty State Teachers' College, has arrived at Mountain Lake to prepare for the school opening.

Takoma Pet Show Scheduled Today

Takoma Park children will display their pets at two pet shows to be held under the auspices of the Takoma Playgrounds today and Tuesday. Prizes will be awarded for the most beautiful pet, the largest and smallest pets and the most unique pet, according to C. J. Bride, playgrounds director.

Today's show will be held at the North Takoma playground at 3 p. m. It was postponed from Tuesday because of rain. The Tuesday show will be held at the Spring Park playground and also will begin at 3 p. m.

Wheat Growers In Montgomery To Get Checks

Approximately 550 wheat growers of Montgomery County, Md., will receive checks totaling $35,000 Monday at the office of County Farm Agent O. W. Anderson in the courthouse at Rockville, Md., Anderson announced yesterday.

The checks represent price adjustment of 11 cents per bushel on nearly 350,000 bushels of wheat, Anderson said. Those who will receive checks signed agreements to reduce their 1939 harvest of wheat to an allotted acreage of approximately 67 per cent of their normal acreage. About 350 more farmers will receive checks at a later date.

The checks will be distributed Monday, from 1:30 p. m. to 5:30 p. m., and on Tuesday, from 9 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. No checks will be given out prior to 1:30 p. m. Monday, Anderson warned.

John McCuen Expires at 81 In Alexandria

John McCuen, 81, died yesterday at his home at 1121 King street, Alexandria, Va., after a long illness. He had conducted a store at 1121 King street for many years, with his daughter, Mrs. Robert S. Reynolds, under the name of John McCuen & Co. Mr. McCuen was one of the oldest mebers of the Columbia Fire Company and a member of Andrew Jackson Lodge of Masons.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Reinolds, and Mrs. J. W. Carmalt, of Washington. He had been married twice, to Miss Jane Sutton, the mother of his two daughters, and to Miss Mary Emma Penn. Neither survives.

The funeral will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow from the Wheatly funeral home, 809 King street, conducted by the Rev Dr. Pierce S. Ellis, pastor of the First Baptist Church, and the Rev. Dr. John Paul Tyler, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Burial will be with Masonic honors in Bethel Cemetery.

Arm y Vitalization Comromise p Would Raise Pension Ages

A compromise Army "vitalization" plan was proposed yesterday by the War Department in an effort to put through retiring overage Army officers before Congress adjourns.

Chairman May of the House Military Committee introduced a bill prepared at the Department which would raise minimum retirement age from 50 to 58, with officers too old for their grade between those ages being placed on a special noncommand list. The new proposal will be offered to the strong minority group of the committee which has been blocking consideration of the measure.

Under the original plan maximum ages were set for each grade above lieutenant, in an effort to force onto the retired list, officers considered too old for their grade.

The compromise does not change the age limits set in the original bill, but provides that captains and majors may remain in active service if they desire until they reach 58, instead of retiring at 50 and 55, respectively.

Rare Mineral, 'Teepleite,' Added To Museum Here

A rare mineral has been added to the Smithsonian Institution collections, it was announced yesterday.

The substance is "teepleite," a sodium borate chloride ranging from pure white to pale buff and easily soluble in water. The Smithsonian's specimen was found five years ago, when Borax Lake, Cal., earliest commercial source of borax in the United States, became almost completely dry during a prolonged drought.

Salt minerals were deposited below thick, brown pools of brine. Highly complex in structure, the mineral proved to be a substance never in natural form, reported although previously produced in laboratories as an artificial compound. The mineral was named in honor of the late Dr. John E. Teeple.

After several rains and cooler weather of 1934, the mineral disappeared from Borax Lake.

Low Bid $586,754 On Parkway Section

The Bureau of Public Roads opened bids yesterday on a 9.76-mile section of the Blue Ridge Parkway. The section is between Humpback Gap and Love, Va.

The apparent low bid was $586,754, by Sutton & Co., of Radford, Va., for grading, drainage and a crushed stone surface.

Mrs. Bamford's Rites Today in Charles Town

Widow of General Was Ex-Resident Of Washington

Special Dispatch to The Post

Charles Town, W. Va., July 20.—Services will be held tomorrow morning for Mrs. Martha Newton Byrd Bamford, 56, widow of Gen. Franklin Ellis Bamford, U. S. A., who died Wednesday night in Charles Town General Hospital.

She was a native of Norfolk, Va., daughter of the late Dr. Harvie Byrd and Florence Newton Byrd. Her second marriage was to Gen. Bamford, prominent figure with the American Expeditionary Forces and in service abroad throughout the World War.

The Bamfords moved to Summit Point 18 years ago from Washington. The closest survivors of Mrs. Bamford are two first cousins, both officers in the United States Army.

Interment will be made here. Gen. Bamford was buried in Arlington, Va.

Woman Gets First Crop Insurance Paid in Maryland

College Park, Md., July 20 (AP).—Federal crop insurance paid its first dividends in Maryland today when Mrs. Marie B. Wrightson, of Neavitt, Talbott County, received an $84.48 check for wheat damaged by dry weather.

Mrs. Wrightson paid $9 premium last year to insure a yield of 745 bushels, her average harvest. The crop totaled only 617 bushels, and the insurance paid the difference.

Additional wheat loss indemnities are being cleared for payment in Talbot, Caroline, Cecil, Kent and Queen Anne counties. There are 986 wheat farmers in the State insured under the Federal program, Paul E. Nystrom, supervisor, reported.

Your Figure Madame!

By Ida Jean Kain.

Yard Games Keep Figure Trim and Husband at Home

IF YOU want to be popular and keep your husband at home—as well as streamline your figure—turn your back yard into a play lawn. There are dozens of inexpensive and expensive games that can be played in any size yard you happen to have and all are guaranteed to do away with life's dull moments.

For instance, one item is a swell practice gadget for the golfer. Set up, it looks like a target, and rings a bell whenever you score a hole in one. Can you imagine a man leaving that just because dinner is getting cold?

Backyard Golf

A nine-hole golf game, complete with two balls, takes up no more space than a picnic tablecloth! The 12-figure points are arranged in a circle, and putts are directed to the hole set just off dead center.

Some of the most fascinating games fit the smallest lawns. Darts can be played either indoors or out. Length is needed for horseshoes, but you can get along nicely with a strip 40 feet long. Deck tennis is another game for the small lawn, affording plenty of action and fun. For deck tennis you need a rectangle 20 feet by 40. Cost of equipment of horseshoes is negligible and deck tennis sets are priced to fit any pocketbook.

If bowling is right up your alley, you will be delighted with the new sets especially designed for play on primitive lawns. One of the most exciting games for the money is badminton—and anyone can play it. For doubles, you need a clear space, 44 feet by 20. Badminton is such marvelous streamlining exercise that it is the favorite game of Manhattan models who keep their figures perfect. They find they keep in excellent trim by playing twice a week.

Archery for Figure

The average croquet lawn measures 71 feet by 28, and the sets are not expensive. Or, you might take a keener interest in archery—there is no better exercise for building a beautiful figure. If you lack the back yard space for archery, set up the target in the garage and shoot from the drive.

And how about moving the pingpong table out of doors? That's what they are doing at the country clubs.

If you still are not interested in outdoor exercise, get somebody to move a reclining chair under a nice shady tree for you and just sit there and relax. Sometimes there is nothing like relaxing! But do get your money's worth out of your back yard this summer.

Sour-Cream Dressing

This new sour cream salad dressing is delicious on tomato or lettuce salad: Mix ½-cup thick sour cream, 1 teaspoon granulated sugar, ¼ teaspoon each of paprika and dry mustard, 2 tablespoons of vinegar and 3 tablespoons of chili sauce or catsup. Beat with a fork, chill and serve. This makes four portions.

Matching Shirts and Slacks, Crush Hats Find Current Favor Among Golfing Men

Here is a wardrobe for the golfer who wants attractive togs which are both comfortable and practical. Upper left—These gay kerchiefs are both effective and useful. Upper right—The tropical worsted slacks and shirt are among the choice golf attire. Center, left—The rain jacket made of Byrd-cloth is a favorite with the golfer who braves the early dew and rains. Lower left—These comfortable golf shoes with spikes and waterproof storm welts are both comfortable and durable.

Flannel Trousers and Tweed Jackets No Longer See Clothes-Conscious Player Through; Linens, Worsteds Popular

WHEN GOLFING men set out for the links they know that an audience or gallery will have a closer view of them than in almost any other sport. So it is important that they wear the correct apparel. The golfer who is clothes conscious realizes that the old idea of flannel slacks and a tweed jacket will not see him through.

A local fashion authority on men's apparel says that the first considerations of the golfer are comfort and practicability. Next, he is interested in color in his dress although the day of loud patterns has passed and the checked or plaid knicker, the diamond pattern gay hose, a fancy sweater and a loud cap have all been replaced with clothes much plainer in their general effect.

Washable tropical worsted trousers of royal blue and aquamarine, copper, tan, and blue green are among the preferred garments. Slacks are also fashioned from washable synthetic materials of wool, linen and cotton in the same styles as the worsteds and in the same general colors. All of the trousers carry matching belts and zipper fasteners. Non-crushable linen slacks in natural color are general favorites, although reseda, copen-blue, silver gray and beet root make splendid hot weather golf attire.

Shirts of Same Colors

Shirts are made of the same materials and colors as the slacks. They may also blend or be of contrasting colors. Shirts are worn outside the slacks or with the tails cut short.

For rainy days on the course there are rain jackets of Byrd cloth. There are also rain suits of this same cloth, which can be kept rolled up in the golf bag. This material is not rubber but is specially woven of rain-resistant material, yet porous.

Thick brogues with spiked soles are still the best for golf. This local authority says that Viking calf leather ones, constructed with a waterproof storm welt and a cradle for the arch, are excellent for playing in the early morning when there is heavy dew. The spikes are removable. For after the game there are soft leather moccasins which may be worn over woolen socks.

Crush Hats Popular

Crush weight felt hats in carlton (green gray); park brown (medium dark); pecan (lighter brown) and pigeon gray are popular. Sporting print handkerchiefs, such as cotton paisley and bandanas, seem appropriate for the golf game.

If the golfer is contemplating a vacation to the North, he will need to include a camel hair sports coat, and other apparel of flannel or gabardine for the colder days. These materials are featured in tan, blue, gray and green gray.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Granted That Stepmother Has Difficult Assignment, Stepchild's Role Is More Trying, Says Reader

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I wish to congratulate you upon your splendid reply of July 16 to "Stepmother," who asks how to win obedience from her surly, secretive 17-year-old stepson. Your insight into that case, the uncanny accuracy with which you sized up the situation, is remarkable. You see, I know that stepmother's type—how well I know it! Years ago, I was the stepchild in a situation that was almost the exact counterpart of this one, with only a few minor differences.

I hate to say it, but in my opinion, your good advice to this woman will fall by the wayside, since persons of her nature seldom change. If she had the understanding to deal intelligently with the situation, she would not need to solicit outside advice. No one will admit more readily than I, that the lot of a stepmother is not an easy one. Even so, it is not an impossible assignment if the woman is big enough to forget herself in serving her stepchildren's welfare; which few women, unfortunately, are able to do.

Furthermore, the plight of a half-grown child, whose life is suddenly upset, confused and bereft of that love and understanding which only mothers seem able to give, and which is never needed more than during those trying years of adolescence, is much worse than that of the stepmother. The child is an individual in his own right, capable of experiencing all the feelings, fears and unhappiness that any adult is ever faced with. The only difference between the child and the adult is that the child lacks the wisdom to understand and solve his problems. His position is rendered more unfortunate than the adult's because he is not free to do as he pleases, but must submit to authority.

My heart goes out in sympathy to the boy in this case, for I know just what he is up against, and I wish I were able to help him. However, I hold his father almost as much to blame as the stepmother for the present state of affairs. His attitude toward the boy is all right as far as it goes, but it doesn't go far enough. He is responsible for the boy's existence, and he should bestir himself to see that his child gets a square deal in the home. If he doesn't do it, there will come a day when he will wish that he had.

As you have so rightly pointed out, the way for any stepparent to exert a constructive influence over the life of a child under his supervision, is through the avenues of friendship, and that shouldn't be a hard thing to do. Childhood is ever adaptable, and few normal children are given to holding a grudge. A child may secretly resent the position of a stepparent, but if that stepparent is wise and understanding, the resentment quickly evaporates in the face of kindness and love—but never through force and dictatorial demands for obedience.

It is surely to be hoped that this woman will come to her senses in the matter of managing this boy, before her present misguided conduct does irreparable harm to his life, as well as to the relationship which should exist between him and his father. But, as I have said, it is doubtful if any such miracle will come to pass, for women of her sort don't seem to have what it takes.

The way I resolved my difficulties with my stepmother was by leaving home just as soon as I was making enough money to support myself. I was just a little older than this boy at the time, but I have never regretted the step. Even though this boy is young, I think it would be a sensible move for him to make. Perhaps he could persuade his father to help him financially, or send him away to school.

In any event, his home life needs correcting, and immediately. I advise him to talk the matter over with his father, since the latter inclines to be sympathetic and reasonable. Perhaps a plan can be worked out that will relieve him of association with his stepmother. In view of my own experience, which paralleled his, I am convinced it is his only salvation. (Keep up your good work, Miss Haworth; I'm for you). Sincerely, MRS. L. P.

Plans Hotel Dinner

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I wish to give a dinner at a local hotel early in August and I would like to make all arrangements in advance—including tips to waiter, head waiter, or whatever will be necessary. Would you give me detailed information on how to proceed? Thanking you for any helpful suggestions, I am, sincerely, MRS. E. L. H.

Logical Advisor

DEAR MRS. E. L. H.: It is the function of the maitre d'hotel (pronounced MAY-t'r dough-TELL) of whatever hotel you plan to patronize, to work out such details as are perplexing you. You may make an appointment with him by telephone for working out a satisfactory arrangement. You may explain, at the time of asking for an appointment, the number of guests, the type of reservation you would prefer (if you have a preference between private dining room, main dining room, supper-and-dancing room, etc.), the date set for the dinner and so on, and ask him to submit a choice of menus; to suggest flower arrangements, a wine list, perhaps, and all else that goes into the making of a nicely served dinner.

As a rule, the host asks the maitre d'hotel to add 10 per cent to his dinner bill, this 10 per cent to be distributed amongst those who serve the dinner. The maitre d'hotel's honorarium may come out of this money—if the host explicitly designates that provision. But when he has been particularly thoughtful or successful in planning a party, many hosts insist on his accepting a separate gratuity. M. H.

Miss Haworth will be glad to help you in solving your problems. Write her in care of The Post Woman's Page.

Freckles and Sunburn Aided by Lotions

Those who go in for summer sports often come home with a generous sprinkling of freckles. A homemade bleach of glycerin and lemon juice will often do a gratifying job of making the spots much less noticeable or even blend them right out of the picture. Adding rubbing alcohol to this combination in the proportions of a quarter of a cup to a quarter of a cup of glycerin and a half cup of lemon juice will give you a good bleaching hand lotion.

If a lobster-red face and a peeling nose is the sad result of basking on the sand, try bathing the skin in warm water in which a teaspoonful of epsom salts has been dissolved, rinse in clear water, and then pat on glycerin diluted with warm water.

"It is not. It's 12:20 o'clock."

"Your watch is wrong."

"How do you get that? It's never wrong."

"Well, anyway, nobody should eat before 1 o'clock. It upsets the digestion."

"Who says so?"

"Oh some big doctor. And I say he's right."

"You're all wet and I'll tell you why—"

"Well, of course, it all depends on what you mean by 'eat'——"

Furniture Styles Available to Suit Every Taste

By Elizabeth MacRae Boykin.

IF YOU want an enduring classic style of furniture that is pleasant to live with, serene and gracious—then by all means choose 18th century English furniture, which includes Queen Anne, Chippendale, Sheraton and Hepplewhite. Or else their American counterparts, the Federal styles which we usually think of as Colonial mahogany. These types can be combined in the same room if you like.

If you want more elegance, look to the 18th century French designs in furniture—Louis XV or Louis XVI in particular. Somewhat more sophisticated are the French Directoire and Empire styles.

If you like massive, placid comfort and yet a certain dignity, look to English oak. If you like informality, unpretentious simplicity, then early American maple is the most pleasant forthright style of all.

If you are in accord with the currents of the present and are willing to take a chance on your own generation, take a fling at modern. It is functional, uncomplicated, and with a clean, direct freshness.

The main thing to avoid is furniture that is neither flesh, fowl nor good red herring. The mongrel styles may seem all right at the time, but after a while they go "out" and look terrible. (But there are, of course, many more recognized types of furniture than I have space to describe here.) Just make sure that what you choose is authentic in line and detail. Otherwise select the thing that you feel most sympathetic to, that draws you.

Ring Commission 'In Red;' Has Remedy

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

When the managerial feats of 1939 are added up and scrutinized for excellence, the grand prize will probably go to a cigar-smoking, thinning-pated fat little man who will answer to the name of Jimmy Dykes.

POVICH

Buxom Mr. Dykes manages the Chicago White Sox who for the past 18 years have elicited nothing more than a snicker in any discussion of the strong teams in the American League. The White Sox have been rated a bad ball team for so many seasons that it is downright surprising to discover that at this writing they are nicely ensconced in third place, only three and a half games to the rear of the Red Sox.

They are, moreover, the current sensations of the league. This week they took on the red hot Red Sox, a club that was supposed to be going somewhere on the impetus of a twelve-game winning streak, and virtually knocked them loose from their pennant notions. When Dykes' boys beat the Red Sox yesterday, it was the fourth straight licking they handed Cronin's club.

That Dykes is doing a considerable job with the White Sox is apparent. He has transformed his sixth-place club of last season into a team that may be the second-best club in the league. And he is doing it in the face of one of the most shocking setbacks a manager ever suffered between seasons.

Dykes Keeps Team Keyed to Situation

If anybody had been so bold to predict that a White Sox team, deprived of the pitching of Monte Stratton, would be hanging around second place at this stage of the season, he would have been committed forthwith as a violent case. But that is exactly what the White Sox are doing, in the absence of the man who was their best pitcher last season; one of the best pitchers in the league, in fact.

It apparently was a body blow to Dykes' hopes of a first-division finish when, on a morning last winter in Texas, a bullet ripped through the leg of Hunter Monte Stratton. Amputation followed, and the Sox lost a pitcher who in 1938 had won 15 games and lost only 9. Critics doomed Dykes' club to the second division, forthwith.

But somehow, Dykes has been keeping his club up there in the rarified atmosphere of the first division. As if by magic he has molded a tolerable pitching staff from ancient Ted Lyons, erratic Thornton Lee, former Brownie Jack Knott and peripatetic Clint Brown, who was fired for incompetence by the Cleveland Indians.

A staff comprised of names like those was never supposed to terrorize the opposition, but it is doing very nicely. Dykes has discovered that by working the aging Lyons only once a week, he can get a surprising pitching job from the old-timer. And he has discovered, too, the real talents of Clint Brown. Under Dykes, Brown was converted into a relief specialist and he is now one-two with Johnny Murphy, of the Yanks, as the best man at his job in the league.

With the Sox playing the way they are, it's small wonder then that Dykes' job as manager of the club is assured. He has proved himself, among other things, a master trader, perhaps the best in the league. It has been his shrewd deals as much as anything else, that are responsible for his team's present high estate.

There isn't much doubt, by this time, that Dykes out-foxed Clark Griffith on the Zeke Bonura-Joe Kuhel deal of 18 months ago. Bonura since has been waived out of the American League, and Dykes finds himself with the finest-fielding first baseman in the business in Kuhel. The .320 batting average Kuhel is maintaining, is no drawback, either. Griffith finds himself with the $25,000 cash he received for the Bonura transfer to the Giants, and no first baseman.

Manager Liked by All Players

When Dykes' second baseman, Jackie Hayes, came down with a collapsible knee and was forced out of the lineup for the first three months of the season, Dykes dipped into the minors for a substitute. He came up with a potent package in Ollie Bejma, the former Brownie, who filled in more than capably until Hayes could rejoin the club.

The gentlemen who are playing third base and leftfield for the White Sox and doing it excellently, are other testimonials of Dykes' trading acumen. They are Marvin Owen and Gerald Walker, and for them Dykes can thank the Detroit Tigers, who gave them up for Vernon Kennedy, chiefly. Kennedy has since been found wanting by the Tigers and was shipped down the river to St. Louis.

The little round man is keeping his Sox up there despite the fact, also that he doesn't have a first-class catcher on his club. His No. 1 catcher is Mike Tresh, who was tossed into the Walker-Owen-Kennedy deal like the thirteenth bun in a baker's dozen.

One of Dykes' reasons for his success is that he gets along nicely with his ball players, no inconsiderable factor in a big league managerial job where a man has to deal with as temperamental a collection of humans as is ever rounded up.

Last year, in Washington, when Dykes was forced to take himself off the inactive list and station himself at third base in an emergency, he whammed out a first-inning two-bagger. Wheezing and puffing around the baselines, he was out trying to stretch it into a triple. He went back to the bench and before all of his players, he upbraided himself.

"I'm a fine guy, fellows," he said. "It took me 20 years to learn how to hit in this league, and now I can't run."

On the Line

—With CONSIDINE

New York, July 20.—Bucky Walters, the pleasant young Cincinnati pitcher who has won 15 games with half the season ahead of him, still pines for his old spot on third base, though he has become a fabulous success as a hurler and though his mediocrity as a third baseman appalled even the Phillies, which is a record.

CONSIDINE

"Maybe this is no time to complain," chuckled the versatile fellow who is pitching the Reds into their first pennant in 20 years, "but y' know, I kind of miss that old sack. Miss playing every day. You see, one of my chief troubles as an infielder was that I couldn't hit. But now that I'm pitching, and not supposed to hit, I think I'm a better hitter than I ever was. I know more about what they're throwing up there to me."

For the leading game-winner of both leagues to grow nostalgic about third base is something like Hamlet wanting to play Charlie Chaplin. Walters is having such a great year in the box that he has finished every game he has started, except one, when he was relieved with one out in the tenth inning against Brooklyn. Three of his six defeats have come in relief roles. He has won his last two starts by shutouts.

There Was a Guy Named Ruth—

As far as Walters knows he is one of only three infielders who ever seriously became pitchers after getting to the big leagues. The others were Bob Smith, the old Cub and Brave, and Chubby Dean of the Athletics. There have been a few other switches. Roger Bresnahan started out as a pitcher and became one of the great all time catchers. Then there was a good lefthanded pitcher named George Ruth who did pretty well as an outfielder with a team whose name for the moment slips my memory.

Walters told us how it all happened:

"I was so bad around third base for the Phillies that even Jimmy Wilson was upset," he recalled. "I dunno, I just couldn't untrack myself or something. So one day in the spring of 1935 I was playing in Orlando and I must've been particularly lousy that day because after the game Jimmy Wilson said to wait for him. He and Hans Lobert and I started to drive back to Winter Haven. Well, Jimmy began talking about how much more money pitchers made, with Lobert yessing him, and finally he pulled the car over to the side of the road and said he wanted me to be a pitcher.

"As I look back on it I guess he was just trying to take care of me, knowing I was a shoemaker around that bag, but I made him promise to give me my third base back if I flopped as a pitcher, so he said okay and we drove on. Well, for the next two or three days I pitched to batters, trying to get the range, and trying to get accustomed to throwing the ball without taking a couple of steps, and a few days later Jimmy started me against the Reds in Tampa." Walters laughed at the memories the sentence provoked.

"In the first inning I hit Mize on the leg so hard that he was black and blue from his knee to his ankle. The other guys ducked, and along about the fifth inning Larry MacPhail, he was with the Reds then, came down out of the stands and yelled to Wilson, 'get that crazy man out of the box, Wilson, or he'll kill my ball club.'"

Walters' first big league start as a pitcher was against the Cardinals. He beat them 2-1, and they were so sore over it that they nearly ran him out of the big leagues before he could master the stuff he now has. He finished 1935 with nine wins, nine losses and a right arm shaped like a sickle—from learning to curve the ball. In 1936 he won 11, but lost the thumping figure of 21. "Pitched just as well that year as I am now, too," he says, "but just couldn't get anybody out." In 1937 he won 14 and lost 15 and established the novel feat of losing to the Cards twice in one day.

Came Back for Second Beating

"They knocked me out of the box in the second inning of the first game and I was so mad I went home. But then I got to thinking about the Cards, and getting sorer, so I came back to the park—just in time to go in the game in the seventh and get my brains knocked out again."

Last year the Phillies sold him to the Reds after he had lost eight and won four games. "It was a great feeling getting with a swell ball club," he recalled, in his comical way of understating things. "The first day McKechnie let me start the Reds went right out and made six runs for me in the first inning. Then I stepped out on the mound, feeling great, and gave Brooklyn five runs. When I came back to the bench nobody said much so finally I said to McKechnie, 'Well, Bill, you want me to pitch again?' and Bill said, 'Yeah, next Sunday in Boston.'"

He lost his next game with the Reds, and his next and next, but then something began to happen to this reformed third baseman. His curve ball, which had been only a "wrinkle" began to dip and buck, and his fast ball whistled louder than ever. By the time the season was over he had won 11 and lost six for the Reds and with the 15-and-6 which is his 1939 record that makes an imposing record with his new club.

But Bucky, who once sold himself to the Red Sox by making five straight doubles with Eddie Collins in the stands, still misses the every day activity around third base. And one of these days when they bring him to home plate and crown him the leading pitcher of the year his eyes are likely to puddle up at the memory of the good times he used to have at third base, making those brilliant stops with his chin.

New Arena, Competition Seen as Cure

Total Gates Slump $67,895.28 While Commission's Take Drops $3,259.26

By Al Hailey

Recommending steps to rescue local boxing from the junk heap, the District Boxing Commission's fifth annual report yesterday disclosed the fight business here took such a severe financial beating over the past year that the commission suffered a loss in its balance on hand for the first time in five years.

Released by Maj. Ernest W. Brown, chairman, the commission's report carefully diagnoses Capital boxing's ailments and prescribes two treatments—a new indoor arena and competition for Promoter Joe Turner.

"A vital need for the progress and development of boxing is an adequate indoor arena," the report stated. "The only local indoor arena is small, stuffy and unattractive. It is felt that the better class of sports followers would attend under more presentable surroundings."

"Many also feel interest would be greater here if an aditional promoter entered the field, thus creating competition," the report cautiously added.

Covering a period from May 21, 1938 to June 30, 1938, the report revealed a drop in total gates at boxing shows this year of $67,895.28 and a drop in the Boxing Commission's customary five per cent of $3,260.26.

The year 1938-39 shows, for the first time, a loss in the Boxing Commission's balance on hand," the report said. "It was a very poor boxing year locally and reflected a general slump nationally."

Taking up the matter of local indifference to boxing, the report points out that visiting managers rate Washington as the "hardest crowd to please of any boxing town."

Only Two Shows Paid

With the release of the commission's report, Promoter Turner announced that he has lost money on every boxing show staged this summer—with the exception of two—and is $4,700 "in the red" on fights he has promoted since September.

"We had a profit of $200 on the Steve Mamakos-Ralph Zanelli fight and $40 profit on another," Turner said, adding he lost $300 on the Georgie Abrams-Lou Brouillard bout recently.

The commission's report lists in detail the gate receipts of the 54 fights staged over the 1938-39 year—a total of $77,483.22, as compared with $145,378.50 for the year 1936-37.

Of the 54 bouts, 29 failed to draw 1,000 over the fiscal year. Largest gate of the year was $8,287.40 for the Metropolitan Police Boys Club benefit October 3, 1938, when Petey Sarron met the Yucatan Kid.

Promoter Turner's largest gate was the Abrams-Mamakos bout, which drew $4,139.38 August 15 last year at Griffith Stadium. The smallest gate was $544 paid at Turner's arena to see Chico Romo fight Eddie Alzek April 25. Only two fights

It's All in Choosing the Right Bat, Lombardi Believes

"Where's my bat?" yelled Ernie Lombardi to the bat boy in a recent game between Cincinnati and Boston. Impatient, Ernie wouldn't wait for the boy to get it out of the rack and strewed the bats of grinning teammates as he hunted his favorite stick. The fans seemed to enjoy the performance, chiefly after Lombardi stepped up to the plate and doubled sharply to center

Mulloy Beaten By Crawford's Great Rally

Australian Wins After Trailing, 5-2, to Gain Longwood Semifinals

By the Associated Press

Brookline, Mass., July 20.—Jack Crawford, the Australian veteran, dipped into his storehouse of experience today when his legs grew weary and his arms heavy, and came out with a few tennis tricks that enabled him to gain the semifinals of the Longwood Bowl Tourney by vanquishing the stronger Gardnar Mulloy, of Coral Gables, Fla., 7—5, 6—1, 8—3, 8—6.

That member of the Australian Davis Cup forces, slowed down by yesterday's hard match with Johnny Doeg, former National Singles titlist, was fortunate that he got off to a wide lead over the slow-starting Mulloy.

Crawford gained the first two sets by outsteadying his opponent during long rallies that featured a stirring baseball duel. Then he started fading fast, and Mulloy ripped through the third set in short order to send the match into overtime.

Mulloy Leads, 5-2

The 10-minute respite was far too short for Crowford, and Mulloy broke through two of his first three service games to gain a 5-2 lead.

It was obvious that Crawford would not be able to go a fifth set and just when he appeared to be wilting out of the bowl competi-

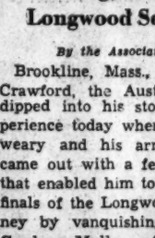
Gabby Hartnett Plays in 1,700th Game for Cubs

Boston, July 20 (AP).—Big, red-faced Gabby Hartnett, baseball's 'Ol Man River, rolled on through his 1,700the major league game today.



HARTNETT

Seventeen years and three months ago, almost to the day, the Chicago Cubs opened their season at Cincinnati —and the announcer bellowed "Ladeez and gentlemen, the batteries for today's game: "Alexander will pitch, Hartnett will catch" . . . thus came Gabby to the Cubs and the National League.

He is a Chicago and National League institution. Whole generations of fans have grown up knowing Hartnett as the Cub catcher. He has aged slowly, even though the last year marked him more than had the five previous seasons. The cares of managing his team—he was made pilot a year ago tomorrow—have ridden heavily upon him, sometimes slightly beclouding a usually sunny disposition.

Through the years he has survived many changes in the club whose uniform is the only major league one he ever has worn. He came through a year-long sore arm in 1929, a broken thumb in 1938.

He goes after high pop flies with all his old skill—he dropped only two in 15 years. He still cuts runners down at second. And he makes his ball club look as though it still has a chance to repeat as National League champion.

White Sox Score Second Shutout in Two Days, Win Series

By the Associated Press

Chicago, July 20.—Chicago's dashing White Sox, who had not won a shutout victory until Johnny Rigney turned the trick yesterday, made it two in a row today behind Thornton Lee—again at the expense of the Boston Red Sox.

The score was 4 to 0, Chicago landing on Denny Galehouse for all its runs in the first inning. The White Sox won four out of five games in the series with Boston, which recently was climbing toward first place with a string of 12 straight triumphs.

Chicago, meantime, crept within 3½ games of the second-place Red Sox, in extending its spree to 15 triumphs in the last 19 gamese.

Lee gave up nine hits, but four double plays choked off Boston efforts.

Red Ruffing Gives St. Louis 4 Hits For 13th of Season

By the Associated Press

St. Louis, July 20.—Charlie (Red) Ruffing pitched the New York Yankees to their eighth straight victory here today with a masterful four-hit job that was good for a 2-1 victory over the St. Louis Browns.

It was Ruffing's thirteenth victory of the season against three losses.

In pitching the world champions to a win, Ruffing beat Bob Harris who was touched for 13 hits, but who was able to keep the New Yorkers from bunching them to any great advantage.

It was an unearned run that gave the champs their victory and their twelfth decision of the year over the Browns, who have been unable to win a game at home from the Yankees this year.

A wild throw by Bob Heffner, trying for a double play, and Ruffing's sacrifice produced the winning run in the fifth inning. The lone Brown tally came in the sixth when Grace doubled to right, McQuinn followed with a single that sent

In the second match Ellis Tarshis, of Canada, will play Jose Aguero. The draw for the doubles, to be held Saturday, will be made after tomorrow's play. The remaining two singles matches on Sunday will reverse tomorrow's pairings.

Eastern Boys' Tennis Title To Bensinger

Takoma Park, Md., Youngster Defeats Irving Dorfman

Special Dispatch to The Post

Forest Hills, N. Y., July 20.—Fifteen-year-old Bobby Bensinger, District of Columbia and Middle Atlantic States boy champion, from Takoma Park, Md., today won the boys' titl of the Eastern tennis championships with a 6—0, 6—3 victory over Irvin Dorfman, of New York.

Bensinger, considered one of the most promising young players developed in the vicinity of Washington, carried two many guns for his Gotham rival and won going away.

In semifinal junior division matches, top-seeded Bil Umsteadter, New York, defeated Marshall Chambers, Cincinnatii 9—7, 6—3, and Dick Bender, Elizabeth, N. J., defeated Melvin Schwartzman, Nw York, 6—3, 10—8.

Romanco Mills Play Tru-Blu Ten Tonight

The Romanco Mills softball team of Roanoke, N. C., which has won 38 games this season, will play the highly touted Tru-Blu team tonight at Ballston Stadium. In a preliminary game scheduled for 8 o'clock, the Arlington Democrats will play the Belmar A. C., of Baltimore.

The Southerners, who are headed for a Canadian tour, are strong in every division of the game, especially in their pitching. In De Berry and Lee, they have a pair of hurlers who between them have hurled 12 perfect fames this year.

Patty Resting Easily After Operation

Miss Berg Undergoes Appendectomy; May Miss National Tourney

Minneapolis, July 20.—Patty Berg, of Miuneapolis, women's national golf champion, underwent an operation for appendicitis at Northwestern Hospital early today and afterward was reported to be "resting comfortably."

The operation, it was indicated, will make it imposible for her to compete in the women's western closed tournament at Birmingham, Mich., August 7-12 and may prevent her from defending her national title at Noroton, Conn., two weeks later.

Whether Miss Berg will play in the national tournament "will be entirely up to her doctor," her mother, Mrs. H. L. Berg, said.

It now appears, her physician that cramps which seized her during the finals of the recent women's trans-Mississippi tournament were caused by her appendix. Despite the attack on the sixteenth green, the 21-year-old girl went on to defeat Beatrice Barrett, of Minneapolis, for the title.

Miss Berg in 1938 was voted the Nation's number one woman athlete in an Associated Press poll. Thus far this year she had won most of the events she entered.

Patty's father said today Patty suffered pains late last night, but that it took two hours of argument to convince her she should go through with the operation. She had played a round of par golf earlier in the day.

Circuit Blow Comes With Man on Base

Giuliani Drives In Tying Run; Detroit Chases Leonard; Newsom Loser

Special Dispatch to The Post

Detroit, July 20.—Cuban Bobby Estalella emerged from the Nats' dog-house this afternoon and stepped into a hero's role with an eighth-inning home run that dispossessed the Tigers of a ball game. Estalella's seventh homer of the season, struck at a time when a man was on base, provided the Nats with the winning margin of an 8-7 ball game.

A co-hero for the Washington club was Catcher Tony Giuliani, who a few moments before had driven in the run which tied the score at 6-6, with two out, and was on base when Estalella lashed one of Buck Newsom's pitches into the leftfield stands.

Benched a fortnight ago for his inability to hit, Estalella found his way into the game today as a pinch hitter in the seventh inning, drawing a walk at that time. He remained in the game as the Nats' rightfielder, and won the game an inning later on the second ball pitched by Relief Hurler Buck Newsom.

Resume Slugging Attack

A four-run assault on Dutch Leonard by the Tigers established them in a 6-3 lead in the fifth inning, and in the sixth the Nats hacked it down to 6-5 with a two-run assault on Al Benton. George Case and Sammy West were the heroes of that uprising. After Estalella walked as a pinch hitter for Leonard, Case followed with a double to right, and West scored both his pals with a single to center.

In the eighth, the Nats resumed their slugging with an attack on Relief Pitcher Archie McKain, who the day before had held them hitless for five and two-thirds innings. It appeared to be a big inning for the Nats when Travis led off with a single to right and Bully Myer bunted a single down the third base line. And then the Nats' hopes of tying the score took a nose dive.

Young Jimmy Vernon tapped a ball in front of the plate and it evolved as a double play. York grabbed the ball, threw to Higgins at third for a force-play on Travis, and Higgins relayed the ball to Greenberg at first to double Vernon. Buddy Myer advanced to second and Giuliani then scored him with the tying run with a

With Estabella at bat, Manager Manager Del Baker benched the left-handed McKain in favor of Newsom and it was on Newsom's second pitch that the Cuban pounded the ball high into the upper deck of left field.

Harry Kelley was entrusted with the job of holding the Nats' two-run lead in the last three innings, and he did it nicely. He turned the

Grover Alexander Signed to Manage House of David 9

New York, July 20 (AP).—Grover Cleveland Alexander, the former Phillies great, who has been performing at a sideshow here, today accepted management of the bearded House of David baseball club for the rest of the season.

ALEXANDER

Alexander, who has been voted a place in baseball's hall of fame at Coopers fame at Cooperstrown, N. Y., will take charge of the team Friday, when it plays a night game with Cedarhurst, Long Island.

This won't be the 52-year-old's first appearance with the bearded beauties. He pitched for and managed the club from 1931 to 1935.

Hagerstown, Md., July 20.—Mrs. A. A. Gray's Lyconna, winner of two races at Wheeling but unable to score heretofore at either Charles Town or this track, awoke with a bang this afternoon and trotted off with chief honors in the Howard W. Jackson Purse, the feature race of the Thursday program. Apprentice Jockey Chester Walters, the Cambridge, Md., boy, who was thrown heavily here last week, resumed his winning ways by riding the 3-year-old son of Donnaconna and Light Cat to the finish line a good eight lengths in advance of his nearest rival.

Emma H., owned by R. B. Hall and ridden by Jockey George Witmer, was second in the field of eight, going a mile and a sixteenth. Third money was garnered by Mrs. James Arthur's Lucky Turn.

Lyconna was a paddock tip and his odds shrunk throughout the betting. However, he paid a $9.50 mutuel. Carrying 106 pounds, Lyconna was clocked in 2:01 3-5 over a heavy track. Although the weather was cloudy and threatening, some 6,000 costumers were in the stands and betting moved along at a good pace.

The feature was between Emma H. and Lyconna from the start, with the former setting most of the pace. However, Walters held Lyconna under restraint and when he put him to a drive the colt responded willingly to open a long lead in the stretch run.

Jockey Leon Garrett was suspended for the remainder of the meeting for rough riding in the third race. However, under the racing rules, he can ride tomorrow, which will mean he will be suspended for only one day. He was aboard Reigh Tetrarch when his mount carried Sir Isaac out badly entering the stretch. Sir Isaac came on to win and provided a $10.60 mutuel in winning his second purse of the meeting.

Challedon Arrives for Arlington Classic

W. L. Brann's Challedon and Trainer Louis Schaefer arrived at Chicago's Arlington Park recently and Challedon went into training for a duel with top-ranking Johnstown and other 3-year-olds in the $30,000 race Saturday. Challedon conquered Johnstown in the mud at the Preakness, but Johnstown has swept to easy victories in the other top stakes

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CHESSIE, $7.50, $4.00, $2.90; GREEN WATER, $4.60, $3.00; GAY BRIDE, $2.40.

CHESSIE assumed command in opening furlong, withstood early challenges of GAY BRIDE and SAIL BY and disposed of GREEN WATER to hold away under good riding through stretch. GREEN WATER, close up from beginning, went to leader with good courage, but weakened in closing stages. GAY BRIDE was forward factor throughout, but could not get to front. SANTA MARITA was allowed to race on own courage for three furlongs and closed a gap. SAIL BY was through early.

SECOND RACE—About 6½ furlongs. Purse, $400; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start poor. Won easily; place driving. Went to post 2:55. Off 2:55½. Winner, J. Cusliotta's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ITSIE BITSIE, $3.50, $2.60, $2.50; PEGADETTE, $2.90, $2.60; ADO, $3.50.

ITSIE BITSIE, rated close to PEGADETTE'S pace in early running, came around leader with bold rush to get to front and won far out with speed in reserve. PEGADETTE broke well, saved ground, but could not cope with winner while under strong handling. ADO went well placed and evenly. BLACK BRIGADE was hard ridden. BALDY beat gate, but could not stay.

Daily Double, Chessie and Itsie Bitsie, Paid $12.70.

THIRD RACE—About 6½ furlongs. Purse, $400; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post 3:29. Off 3:30½. Winner, J. McNamara's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SIR ISAAC, $10.60, $6.30, $3.80; REIGH TETRARCH, $4.10, $2.90; BLIND TALK, $4.60.

SIR ISAAC, close to pace of REIGH TETRARCH from start, moved up on outside of leader approaching stretch, was carried wide entering straightaway and held away after taking command under intermittent punishment. REIGH TETRARCH went to front in opening quarter, set good pace, but could not resist winner. BLIND TALK saved ground entering stretch and closed with good energy. HANDLEY flashed early speed and stopped. CALEB and CHOICE GOODS were outrun.

FOURTH RACE—About 6½ furlongs. Purse, $400; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post 4:04. Off 4:07½. Winner, Miss Dorothy Adams' b. h. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BORO POKER, $35.80, $10.70, $4.50; SMALL CHANGE, $7.80, $2.60; SIR WITCH, $5.20.

BORO POKER, in thick of contention from start, came between horses to take lead approaching stretch and drew out under good handling. SMALL CHANGE, off in front, was kept in deepest going along rail and weakened. SIR WITCH, shuffled back directly after break, went wide for racing room and hung in closing stages. FAIR DEAL, worked out from slow beginning to show good effort. ADRIATIC was squeezed back while running between horses and weakened.

FIFTH RACE—About 1⅛ miles. Purse, $500; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place same. Went to post 4:30. Off 4:40½. Winner, Mrs. A. A. Gray's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—CHILLY EBBIE, $9.10, $5.80, $3.30; LUNA BRIGHT, $23.10, $5.10; AUFOIN, $2.70.

CHILLY EBBIE, first away, set steady pace and responded willingly when placed to drive to hold away to end. LUNA BRIGHT was closest to leader from start and held on gamely. AUFOIN was raced along rail in deepest going and failed to rally. GESTURE was off poorly and had speed in spots while racing wide. LADY CIREK moved up menacingly and tired. LEW DUNLIN had early speed and stopped.

SEVENTH RACE—About 1⅛ miles. Purse, $400; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post 5:32. Winner, Miss Amil Booker's ch. f. (4), by Cutlogconor—Murmur. Trained by D. Stansbury. Value to winner, $275; second, $75; third, $35; fourth, $15. Time, 2:04 1-5.

Doering, Stanford, Beats Brownell in Trans-Miss. Golf

D. C. Player Loses 5 and 4 In 2d Round

Duke U. Sophomore 3-Putts Five Greens While Losing to Coast College Star

Colorado Springs, Colo., July 20.—Bobby Brownell, the top-ranking amateur golfer from the Nation's Capital, three-putted himself out of the Trans Mississippi golf tournament here today, losing to Art Doering, Stanford University student from Chicago, 5 and 4, in the second round.

The blonde youngster, a sophomore at Duke University, three-putted five greens during the 14 holes of the match and joined his teammate and traveling companion, Stewart (Skip) Alexander, in defeat. The latter went down under the subpar barrage of defending champion Ven Savage, 2 and 1.

Starting on Wrong Foot

Brownell started on the wrong foot by three-putting the first hole, as did Doering. The latter won the second with a birdie, the third when Brownell three-putted again, and the fourth when the District youngster missed the green with his second shot.

Doering's three-hole lead was cut to two on the eighth when Brownell's putting jitters left him temporarily and he dropped a 20-footer for a birdie to win his only hole of the match. Brownell three-putted the ninth to turn three down.

The Stanford student went 4 up at the twelfth when Brownell three-putted from 12 feet, they halved the next in pars and the match was over on the fourteenth with the loser's fifth three-putt green of the round.

Praise for Victors

The three Duke students, Brownell, Alexander and Hank Russell, a Brownell victim in the first round, captured the fancy of the galleries during their short stoy in the tournament. Brownell and Alexander had nothing but praise for their conquerors after the match.

"A home boy," who never has won a golf title, knocked Defending Champion Ven Savage, of Salt Lake City, out of the tournament.

On the wavy first green of Broadmoor's scenic course, Ray Lowell, jr., wealthy 27-year-old Colorado Springs oil man, poked home a 12-foot putt for a birdie and a 19-hole upset victory in the third round of the fastest event in trans-Mississippi history.

Another former champion, John Dawson, of Hollywood, was beaten by Chick Harbert, young battler from Battle Creek, Mich., who shot a birdie 4 on the second extra green for a 20-hole victory.

In the second round Harbert had to go 21 holes to defeat Claude Wright, of Denver.

Don Schmacher, broad-shouldered Dallas Pounder, is the only former champion left in the field. Although going three over par, he beat Don Kennedy, Stanford student from Palo Alto, 4 and 3, and meets Harbert in tomorrow's 36-hole quarter-finals.

Two other Stanford players were shown the exits.

Art Doering, of Chicago, was trimmed by Harry Todd, of Dallas, 5 and 4, and Bill O'Neal, of Pasadena, lost to O'Hara Watts, also of Dallas, 2 and 1.

Other contenders moving into the quarter-finals were John Barnum, Edinburgh, Tex.; Ed Kingsley, Salt Lake City, runner-up last year, and Morris Norton, Wichita Falls, Tex., who was four under par in walloping Eddie Stokes, Denver, 6 and 5.

100 Entered In Horse Show

Some of the outstanding stables in the section have entered the Beltsville Recreation Center Horse Sho wwhich will be held Saturday on the Beltsville School grounds.

More than 100 ponies and horses have been entered to date. Post entries may be made until show time. There is no entry fee and admission also is free.

Fifteen classes will be shown. Lelaet St. Clair will be showing his pure-bred Morgan horse Courtier for the first time. John F. Lilland's 8-year-old Flying Charger, triple bar jumper, is another outstanding entry.

Among the judges for the show will be Dr. James W. Dollaheit, J. David Schaffer, Prof. K. C. Ikler, of the University of Maryland, and Col. Raymond Kelser, U. S. A.

Midget Auto Race Track Gets Improvements

Finishing touches will be put on the new Capital speedway tomorrow at New York Avenue and Bladensburg road northeast in preparation for the delayed debut of midget auto racing Tuesday night.

Postponed a week by rain, the races will get underway with a list of the Nation's leading midget auto drivers on hand. The races have the sanction of the American Automobile Association.

The extra week has served the purposes of Promoter Jimmy Fratcone well. The track, which was in a fairly raw stage last Tuesday, has been excavated again and rerolled for smoothness and firmness. Track backers, fearing that more postponements might wreck their $30,000 investment, are pushing for A. A. A. sanction for Friday races also.

Publinks Pairings Find 190 Ready for National Tourney

By Merrell W. Whittlesey

Andrew Oliveri, the District's public links champion, will have to set hte alarm for 4 a. m. next Monday morning, opening day of the eighteenth national public links championship at the Mount Pleasant course in Baltimore, for the chubby city champ drew a 7:44 starting time in the first day's qualifying round.

From 7:30 until after 3 o'clock the 190 players will leave the grst tee in threesomes, while on Tuesda the same pairings will prevail with varied starting times. After Tuesda's 18-hole medal round, the field will be reduced to 64 for the match-pla rounds that will send 48 of the qualifiers to the sidelines by Wednesday night.

Oliver's partners are Carl Dezern, of Durham, N. C., and a tongue-twister from Detroit, a member of the Motor City's Harding Cup team, Zygmund Zawadski. The three-some will play at 11:28 Tuesday.

Gipe Starts at 11:56

Jimmy Gipe, second of the District's representatives, will play at 11:56 on Monday and 8:12 the following day, with Ronnie Williams, Detroit, and Neil Whitney, Los Angeles.

Bob Morris, youngest of the three-man Harding Cup team from this city, is tenth from last to play in the starting field. The greens and fairways will be well trampled at 2:30 when he leaves the tee with Wes Berner, of the Pacific Coast contingent, Portland, Oreg., and Steve Maurath, of New York City. They play at 10:46 the following day.

The qualifying round field, the successful players from the original field of 2,275 that battled it out in 33 sectional qualifying rounds, represent 29 States, the three players from the District and Arthur Armstrong, of Honolulu, Hawaii, finalist in the 1934 tournament, who traveled 5,000 miles for another chance. Armstrong arrived on the tourney scene last night.

Medal-Round Battle

The Harding Cup team trophy, now restricted to three-man teams from each of the cities with that many representatives, instead of four as in previous tournaments, will be a medal-round battle between 31 cities, including the defending champions from Los Angeles. The low team total after Tuesday's qualifying receive the trophy.

Baltimore, the host city that qualified seven players to three from the District in the recent sectional rounds, will be represented by Charles E. Meyer, medolasit; Albert Huegelmeyer and John R. Armacost. Other entries from the Monumental City include James Rafferty, winner in a playoff; Edward A. Johnston, semifinalist in the Maryland Amateur; Benson Ensor and Clifton L. Richardson, a former State amateur champ. Armacost drew the most prominent pairing, with two-time former champion Charles Ferrera, of San Franciso, and Pete Lacey, Philadelphia.

Three other former champions will seek to repeat, including the defending titleholder, Al Leach, of Cleveland, Robert Wingate, Jacksonville's 1930 champion and the most famous of all the public links champions, the three-time king, Carl F. Kauffmann, of Pittsburgh, who won in 1927 through '29. Louis Cyr, last year's finalist from Vancouver, Wash., is also entered.

Threatening Weather Postpones Blue's Game

Because of threatening weather, last night's game involving Lou Blue's Baseball School and the McLean (Va.) nine was postponed.

Tomorrow night at Ballston, Va., Blue's School meets Service Battery of the District National Guard, at 8:15 o'clock.

U. S. Tennis Stars Return After Wimbledon Sweep

Helen Jacobs, Mrs. Fabyan, Bobby Riggs And Elwood Cooke Return to Manhattan

By the United Press.

New York, July 20.—Alphonse and Gaston were a pair of roughnecks compared to Uncle Sam's tennis stars who returned today from their clean sweep of the recent all-England championships at Wimbledon.

The four of them—Helen Jacobs, Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan, Bobby Riggs and Elwood Cooke—handed out nothing but sweet words as the steamer Manhattan chugged up the bay.

For the girls it was the same old routine, and Cooke never has much to say, so he can be excused.

But for Riggs, the new Wimbledon singles titleholder, to come home modest as a schoolgirl with a championship like that in his grasp, well——it was like Tony Galento forgetting there's such a word as "bum" in the dictionary.

Dark-haired Bobby had been known far and wide as one of the finest little rebels in the racquet business. And when the boys went down to meet him today, they expected that he'd be more cocky than ever—that he'd come out and say he'd win the American title without taking off his sweater and that we might as well polish up that Davis Cup for another year.

But the ocean trip did strange things to Riggs.

The Davis Cup?

"I can't sayanything about that," Bobby ventured. "Australia's got a pretty good team."

The United States championships at Forest Hills in September?

"There's going to be an awful lot of upsets in that one. We've got six or seven players who are very, very good."

Bobby confided that his secret ambition is to retire three trophies in the next month—those at Seabright, Southampton and in the Eastern grass court championships at Rye. He's already got two legs on each of them. After that, he'll worry about the Davis Cup business.

Cooke, who was unseeded at Wimbledon, said he was "interested in improving my game. I'm going to fight like the dickens to get on the Davis Cup team this year."

Riggs and Cooke were both lavish in their praise of Don McNeill, of Oklahoma City, who whipped Riggs in the finals of the French hard courts championships.

Miss Jacobs said she didn't do so well at Wimbledon, because she had a bad ankle and was out of practice. But seh heaped a few words of praise on the blonde head of Alice Marble, winner of the Women's Singles.

Miss Decker, D. C., Defeated In Net Tourney

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Baltimore, Md., July 20.—Two Philadelphia girls and a young woman from Wheeling, W. Va., reached the semi-final round in the Middle Atlantic women's sectional tennis tournament play today at L'Hirondelle Club.

Edith Clarke, of Philadelphia, seeded number one, turned back Barbara Conrad, of Washington, in love sets. Barbara Strobhar, fo Philadelphia, ranked number two, downed Charlotte Decker, of Washington, 6-3, 6-3. Dorothy Boll, of Wheeling, seeded number four, outplayed Anne Vernon-Williams, Baltimore, 6-2, 8-6.

One match remains to be played in the singles tomorrow morning to determine who shall be the fourth semi-finalist. Margot Lee, Washington player, will face Ann Dayett, of Baltimore, in this test.

Tomorrow afternoon Miss Clarke will oppose the winner of the Lee-Dayett match.

In doubles today Mrs. Fisher and Miss M. Fleishman, of Baltimore, defeated Mrs. C. E. Rhett and Miss Lee by default, and Miss Decker and Miss Dayett won from Mrs. M. Pritchard and Miss Conrad, 9-7, 6-3.

Parsons Gains Semifinals

By the Associated Press

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., July 20.—Young Deacon Parsons, back in the form which won him the State closed tennis title, entered the West Virginia Open Amateur semifinals today with a 6—2, 6—0 victory over Stacy Hill, of Cincinnati.

The 18-year-old Huntington star played one of the two trifinals contests permitted by intermittent showers. In the other, Eddie Blickle, of Columbus, Ohio, assistant football coach at Ohio State and Parsons' teacher when he lived in Huntington, took another step forward with a 6—2, 6—1 victory over Lawrence Smith, of Parkersburg.

Parsons, who played ragged, careless tennis yesterday, served up an accurate, battering game against Hill, a member of the Dartmouth team, whose lesser brand of play was unavailing against the Huntington boy.

Blickle, seeded No. 4, brought forth his best sharpshooting to eliminate Smith.

Blickle's victory will match him against the winner of the Barney Welsh-Aubrey Smith trifinals contest. Smith, a Beckley veteran, was almost unanimously the underdog for his battle against Welsh, defending champion from Rockville, Md.

In the women's division, Southern Champion Martha Barnett, of Miami, played her first match and defeated Mrs. Pell Miller, of Charleston, in love sets after advancing to the trifinals by the default route.

Margaret Graham, of Washington, advanced to the trifinals over Lisa Spilman, of Charleston, by default.

Chevy Chase Horse Show Slated Sept. 23-24

The Chevy Chase Horse Show Association announced yesterday that it will hold its fifth semiannual horse show on September 23 and 24 on the East-West highway opposite the Meadowbrook Saddle Club.

Classes Saturday will be for the ponies and juniors and the classes horses.

Ariel Toy Wins Suffolk Feature

Boston, July 20 (AP).—Purchased for $1,300 at the Saratoga yearling sales two years ago, Ariel Toy returned another winning dividend to his owner, Hugh W. Jackson, today at Suffolk Downs, scoring by a length over six sprinters in the $1,200 allowance feature, closed to New England owners.

It was the colt's fifth win in 10 starts this year and boosted his earnings for two seasons to $17,050. W. W. Adams' Listaro, coupled with Chief Nadi, ran second, just nosing out B. A. Dario's Beach Ensemble. M. J. White's Peter Argo ran fourth.

The winner ran the 6 furlongs in 1:11 and was a 1-2 favorite in the mutuels.

Guldahl Seeks 4th Straight Western Title

Ralph Cofavorite With Nelson, Picard In Today's Event

By the Associated Press

Chicago, July 20.—Big Ralph Guldahl has "that old feelnig" again.

Considering that the western open championship starts tomorrow at the Medinah Country Club, it seems perfectly natural for the husky star to feel that way. The first of his three straight western open victories, achieved in 1936, sent him roaring on to two straight national open championships. He hasn't been playing too well lately but starting tomorrow, he feels, it will be a different story.

"I usually manage to win three or four tournaments a year," he smiled today, "and I've got a feeling I'm on my game again. I played poorly at the P. G. A. tourney, my driving and putting being off. But I'm hitting them straight both off the tees and on the greens again. (He had a two under par 69 yesterday on the No. 3 course).

"Don't forget, I won the masters at Augusta and after the western there'll be other tournaments. I'll play in the St. Paul open, and I'll be in there swinging.

Guldahl is the only player ever to win the Western there times running. In 1936, at Daveport, Iowa, he scored a 274 for the 72 holes, within one stroke of the tourney record made by Tommy Armour at Milwaukee ten years ago. Practically down to his last dime, Guldahl blazed through the final round in 64 shots, never being over par, and he's been among the Nation's top flight golfers ever since.

Tomorrow, however, he'll be in one of the fastest fields to gang up on par this season. Henry Picard, the P. G. A. champion, and Byron Nelson, the National Open titleholder, will rank with big Ralph as cofavorites. Sammy Snead, Ernie Harrison, Jimmy Thomson, Johnny Revolta, Dick Metz, Armour, Johnny Bulla, second in the British Open this year, all will compete.

Galento and Nova Signed For Fight in Philadelphia

Winner of Bout September 7 Will Get Shot At Louis; Outside Referee to Be Allowed

By the United Press.

Philadelphia, July 20.—Establishing a new record for promotional activity, Mike Jacobs today signed "Two-Ton" Tony Galento and young Lou Nova for a heavyweight challengers' battle at the huge Municipal Stadium, September 7.

At the signing ceremony Jacobs announced that the victor would get a title shot next June at the winner of the Joe Louis-Bob Pastor championship fight, slated for Detroit, September 20. Jacobs sigend the Louis-Pastor bout yesterday at Detroit.

A world heavyweight championship battle and a challengers' fight signed within two days! And both to be staged outside of New York! Were the late Tex Rickard living today, he would say, "I never seed anything like it."

The signing took place at headquarters of the State Athletic Commission after Chairman Leon Rains announced that the commission would permit an outside referee to officiate at the fight, thereby satisfying the demands of Nova's manager, Ray Carlen. It was then inserted in the contracts that the referee will be either Arthur Donovan, of New York, or George Blake, of Los Angeles. Those weer the names submitted by Carlen and approved by Galento's pilot, Joe Jacobs. The commission will pick Donovan or Blake a week before the bout.

Mike Jacobs, who will be a co-promoter with Herman Taylor, of Philadelphia, said he expected this 15-round battle to attrace a gate of at least $300,000. This would be the largest Philadelphia fight gate since Dempsey and Tunney attracted $1,895,733 at the same stadium in 1926. Nova and Galento will receive equal percentages of the net gate, each getting 25 per cent.

The contracts specify that neither principal can engage in any bout before the September 7 tilt. Meanwhile, Nova, now at this home in Los Angeles, will go immediately to Murietta Hot Springs, Calif., for preliminary conditioning. He will arrive n Philadelphia, August 7, to begn actual training, probably at Atlantic City. Galento, now at his home in Orange, N. J., will begin training a week or so earlier at a camp to be designated later.

Public Parks Tennis Postponed by Rain

Rain yesterday caused postponement of all matches in the public parks tennis championships on the Rock Creek courts. Yesterday's schedule will prevail today.

Tournament chairman Felix Silva announced last night woman's singles and doubles finals will be held Saturday and the men's singles finals will be staged Sunday before the Grant-Hunt exhibition match.

Don Juan Fernandez de Castro of Havana, Cuba, says
"The Havana tobaccos which you have blended into your new WHITE OWL have taken command of the taste. The rich taste of your cigar is as much a part of Havana as Morro Castle."
A completely new cigar tested and approved right in Havana

WE WANTED to make sure that this new cigar has a true Havana flavor . . . so we took it all the way to Havana for a test. Certainly smokers in Havana would know if our new cigar actually had the taste of true Havana. We also asked prominent Cubans—real connoisseurs, such as Señor José García Montes, the Cuban Secretary of Agriculture, and Senador Enrique Recio, to try our new White Owl. Without exception they all praised the rich Havana flavor of our new cigar.

Why shouldn't we be proud of this cigar? We know the Havana tobacco that goes in it is a choice grade. Maybe that sounds unbelievable for a 5¢ cigar? But, we're America's largest buyers of Havana tobacco and we know what we are talking about. Fact is, this Havana is the same type tobacco used in popular cigars costing 10¢ and more. And there's a generous helping of good Havana in each White Owl, too.

New INVINCIBLE

Your choice of 2 shapes

Another "10¢" feature—now yours for 5¢ . . . a choice of shapes to suit your smoking taste. A long, trim, new Invincible. And a rich, full-bodied, new Club House shape. You get the same amount of tobacco—the same mild blend in either size—only the shape varies.

Gillespie And Wachman Net Victors

Podesta, Defending Champ, Also Scores In Clay Court Play

By the Associated Press

New York, July 20.—Marvin Wachman, of Chicago, and Billy Gillespie, of Atlanta, both unseeded contenders, reached the semifinal round of men's singles in the Eastern clay court tennis championships today as, a round behind them, Defending Titleholder Gerard (Jeff) Podesta, of Montclair, N. J., advanced to the quarter-finals.

Wachman extended the string of upsets that has marked the entire tournament by conquering Robert Peacock, of Berkeley, Calif., No. 6 on the seeded list, 6—1, 6—4. Gillespie had an even easier time, requiring only 19 minutes and two love sets to dispose of Jack Mahoney, of the University of Virginia.

Podesta, No. 9 seed, had to battle for two hours to overcome young Billy McGehee, of New Orleans, 12—10, 2—6, 6—4. Harried continually by the Southerner's blistering forehand drives, the 1938 champion still had an edge in tournament experience, and this proved the deciding factor.

McGehee rushed the net recklessly and time and again left himself open for Podesta's fine passing shots. The Jerseyite, on the other hand, moved into the forecourt only when he saw an opening, kept constant pressure on McGehee's backhand and, in the closing stages when McGehee dropped back to the baseline to try a defensive game, left him flatfooted with well-timed drop shots.

staged strictly by Turner grossed as much as $3,000—the Boyd-Nichy fight last August, which drew $3,317.16, and the Archibald-Dupre fight last September, which drew $3,960.31.

The total 5 per cent "take" of the commission over the past year was $4,698.14, as compared with $7,958.40 the year before. Average gate was $1,435, as compared with $2,202.70. Total permit fees fell off from $600 in 1937-38 to $540 in 1938-39. Cost of officials amounted to $3,100.88 last year, and $4,045.87 the year before, and the average profit per match for the commission, less cost of officials, was $29.59, as compared with $59.38 in 1937-38.

Local boxing's biggest year, in the history of the commission, was 1935-36, when a total gate of $153,599.94 was grossed off 78 shows.

Recalling the "days when" of the local boxing, the report points out that the Marty Gallagher-Tony Galento fight here in the 1934-35 year drew $24,000, and that the following year the Petey Sarron-Freddy Miller bout drew $29,931.

Part of the slump in attendance at local boxing shows was attributed to external influences.

"During the 1938 outdoor season only one show was unaffected by weather. Twelve were scheduled out of doors by Promoter Turner, one by the Metropolitan Police Boys Club. It was very cold on the night of the latter, and of Turner's shows, nine were postponed on account of rain, two being finally transferred after repeated postponements to the inadequate indoor arena," it was said.

Bill Ackerman's Column

On Fishing

Hardheads are continuing to take the hook almost any place on the lower Potomac or Chesapeake that an angler drops one over, provided of course it is baited, and with soft crab or peeler. White shrimp, now, aren't near as tempting as several weeks ago, for the croakers are waxing fat with the easy feed, and are a little choosey for many hours out of each 24. Get on them at the right times, which isn't the same at all places, and the catches will satisfy the most particular.

ACKERMAN

Capt. Taft Tippett, at Ridge, is taking quite a few nice trout and Norfolk spot with the hardheads, and a few stripers. The same is true of Solomons. At Eastern Bay the stripers have started again to notice trolled lures as well as the shrimp chum lines. Capt. Bob Lee, at Shadyside, will have green shrimp on hand for those who will give him a call several days ahead.

Offshore on the Jersey coast there are plenty of school tuna (that's true of Ocean City, too, right now, and the trip is shorter to the Maryland shore), bonita, albacore and a few blues. Good fishing for seabass, porgies and trout on the wrecks and flounders in shore.

Takes Curious Turn

On the North Carolina coast saltwater fishing has taken a curious turn, and fishing scribes have had much to do in bringing about the change. They believed that anglers who are willing to travel several hundred miles and more each way to fish for channel bass and blues in the surf, and blues and trout beyond the break, would go more often for larger game fishes if they knew how easy it was to get to them.

News of the catches made by sportsmen on private boats of bonita, dolphin, amberjack, cobia, barracuda and, during the past two summers, of the great blue marlin, have been the means of attracting parties from every section of the Atlantic seaboard, and more particularly from Washington, to the Gulf Stream. It swings in the shape of a sickle around the outer banks and from 12 to 40 miles off.

Guides have become proficient in this new fishing, and improved their boats until this season will more than likely see following it several anglers for every one who fished the surf five years ago. It is just now getting into its real stride at Ocracoke, Hatteras Inlet, Southport and Cape Lookout.

"Fall Season" Starts

The "fall season" on channel bass from both surf and boat is already under way at Nags Head and Oregon Inlet and is just as attractive as ever. Some fine fish were taken inside the inlet last week.

The experiment of the Miami Beach Rod and Reel Club, to fish every day over an extended period to find out just what the possibilities of the summer fishing might be, seems to be about what might be expected at any place. The days are about equally divided between fast action and depressing dullness—a typical characteristic of the sport.

The club is anticipating a change in tackle regulations following those of the Catalina Tuna Club, and recommended by the angling committee. The revision would be 4-6, 6-9, 8-12, 12-18, 16-24 and heavy. This is very much in line with our personal belief, expressed last winter when Tommy Aitken was conducting a poll on it, because it definitely places the weight of all rod tips in ounces at two-thirds of the number of threads in the line for that rod. That is far more equitable than those specifications which in some classes give several threads advantage.

Tagging and Releasing

Another club item of interest—the tagging and releasing of several sailfish (we would like to see it extended to white marlin to work in with the tagging at Ocean City) during the past several weeks. One of these tagged sailfish has already been caught at Stuart, more than a hundred miles north of Miami, but the taggers aren't returning the records of release to the United States Bureau of Fisheries here in Washington, as they should, if any real knowledge is to come from the experiment.

For nearly 20 years we thought we were learning a lot about the whims and habits of fishes and the easiest and sportiest ways of taking them. For nearly that many more we have been firmly sold on the idea that the more a fellow fishes the quicker he will realize that he doesn't know a thing about their appetites and idiosyncrasies.

That, of course, wouldn't apply to Al Pflueger, Miami taxidermist and founder of the Pflueger Marine Museum, who probably knows birds and fishes better than anyone in the country today. We hope Al will recognize the fact that we have learned we don't know anything about the marlin he has invited us to fish for with him next month, and forgive our shortcomings.

His presence in Ocean City for the balance of the season will not slow down the building of a rancho, somewhere north of Miami, where everything that lives by flying, swimming and crawling can be kept for the edification of (his friend Don McCarthy says) "visiting firemen and natives, with a bar for personal friends, business acquaintances and dropper-in-ers."

D. C. Man Wins

We are glad to note that a Washington angler, David H. Brice, 1220 Sixth street southwest, was able to walk away with first prize last week in the Cape May, N. J., fishing tournament, but believe that the many Washingtonians catching white marlin off Ocean City are getting prizes in the way of thrills that will linger longer in their memory.

There was A. F. Abernathy, who, when we met him at break-of-day last Monday preparing for a trip offshore with Capt. Lev Raymond on the Lev-Lou, had never experienced gamefishing of any type. In fact, a little fishing in the Chesapeake was his top limit in the piscatorial pastime, and if we are any judge, he was dubious of this initial expedition for the unknown thrills he had heard of through others.

That one day made a confirmed convert for a sport that actually has hundreds of northern anglers nuts. Some get their fish the first day out—others only after many, many trips.

He proved to be one of the favored, as was Mrs. Abernathy, who was fishing with him. The score was one 22-pound dolphin and two marlin, weighing 74 and 78 pounds, while a third, just about licked, was cut off by a mako shark.

Another day, this time with Bill Briggs along, only proved the first day was no fluke, for another pair was boated and several others on.

Altogether the fleet took 22 marlin, 7 tuna and 2 dolphin. Sterling Harrison, from Leesburg, had a bull dolphin that weighed 25 pounds. Paschell, on his Miramir, had a mako on, estimated during its jumps to weigh more than 500 pounds, for two hours and 45 minutes before the hook pulled out. Several smaller ones were caught, and don't ever forget it, these cerulean-hued members of the Big Four of the game fish world are no set-ups at any time, because they have, in addition to the flashy jumping of the marlin (jumps sometimes estimated to exceed 25 feet), the bull-dogging characteristics of the tuna.

All in all it was a real day, in spite of the almost continuous drizzle from the leaden skies; but it was just another 24 hours for the world's greatest marlin fishing port, where any or all of the white marlin records are liable to topple singly or in a bunch.

The one trouble now is for parties to get boats, for most of the top-notch guides are booked ahead from two weeks to four and five. The best way is to write for the first open date and take what you get. The fishing in August is every bit as good as it is in July, and even the first week or two in September, with breaks in the run and the weather.

For this week-end (Saturday and Sunday) there isn't any kind of a boat available.

District Anglers Have Luck at Ocean City

Honolulu-San Francisco Race Winner Uncertain

Honolulu, July 20.—While judges at the finish maintained an almost sleepless vigil and observation planes scanned the sea lanes for stray sails, the winner of the 2,085-mile San Fransisco to Honolulu yacht race remained in doubt.

Every hour that passed increased the chances of the Eastern cutter, Blitzen, to claim the most prized American yochting trophy. The 55-foot craft, skippered by R. J. (Dick) Reynolds, of New York, ended the long run Tuesday night, second to the scratch entry, Contender, and with its three-day handicap immediately became the big favorite to win on the corrected time basis.

Three entries still were listed as challengers of the Blitzen in both the "free for all" and the Class C events. They were the Lady Jo, 40-foot schooner from Honolulu; the Magic Carpet, owned by Frank Kent, of Albany, N. Y., and the Viking Childe, skippered by William Merry, of Hollywood.

To defeat the Blitzen, the Lady Jo had a finish deadline of 5:22 p. m. (10:52 p. m., E. S. T.). The magic Carpet, a 38-foot ketch, had until 8:36 p. m. (2:06 a. m. Friday, E. S. T.), to win.

The Viking Childe, a 42-foot ketch enoying the biggest handicap, five days, 12 hours, 32 minutes and 30 seconds, had until 11 a. m. (4:30 p. m., E. S. T.) Friday to sail in for the maor prize as well as Class C honors.

Three boats checked in this morning, the San Francisco registered Dorade at 3:45.23.6; the Paata of Stockton at 6:47.09 1-5 and the Circle of Seattle at 10:23.42 2-5, all Honolulu times.

James Flood, skipper of the Dorade, reported he had followed a northerly course too far and had run out of wind. The Dorade won the 1936 race from Los Angeles.

Navy planes reported a sail this afternoon identified as the Waterwitch, 50-foot cutter piloted by Leon De Fremery, of San Francisco.

Grant, Who Plays Here Sunday, Noted For 'College Try'

When "Bitsy" Grant, the mighty atom of United States tennis, comes to Washington Sunday for a benefit exhibition for the Junior Davis Cup team at Reservoir courts, spectators will be treated to the best display of "good old college try" it has been their lot to witness for a long time.

Grant's main claim to tennis greatness, besides the fact he has overcome a dirth of stature, is his never-say-die attitude, and Gil Hunt, the opponent, whose fits of temperament have lost him many a match, will be forced to settle down if he is to have the honor of beating the country's sixth ranking player.

Probably the best instance of Grant's steadiness was his now-famous match with Don Budge at White Sulphur Springs in 1937. Baed by the torrid services and the low returns of the big redhead, Grant went methodically about the business of solving his opponent's style. Meanwhile he dropped two sets, 6—2 and 6—3.

In the third set he was Budge's master as he won, 6—1, and followed it up with a 6—2 victory in the fourth set. The fifth saw Budge tighten down, but it was too late. Grant was in the groove, and he won, 6—4.

Corn Topples To Lowest In Six Years

Wheat in Chicago Pit Declines to This Year's Bottom

By the Associated Press

Chicago, July 20.—Selling orders poured into the grain pits today, tumbling corn prices to the lowest levels since 1933 and wheat to new lows for the year.

Corn lost as much as 3 cents a bushel, July contracts breaking to 39¾. Wheat dropped as much as 2¾ cents, with July at 63⅞, lowest since early last winter. September and December contracts were at new lows for the season.

Selling that engulfed all pits was augmented by heavy offerings on stop loss orders which were brought into execution as prices receded. There were no outstanding trade developments upon which pit brokers could blame liquidation of such volume. They pointed out the bearish domestic situation in corn and the bearish world wheat position had undermined confidence of buyers. Some traders asserted inability of the market to derive recovery power from the price-supporting features of the Government loan program had disappointed many dealers.

Wheat closed 1⅞-2⅜ cents lower than yesterday, July 63⅞, September 64½, while corn was 2⅛-2⅞ off, July 39⅞, September 41-41⅛, oats ¾-1⅛ down, rye 1⅝-1⅞ off and lard 10 to 17 lower.

Liverpool Wheat Hits All-Time Low As Nations Haggle

London, July 20 (AP).—Wheat prices at Liverpool dropped to another new low today at 3 shillings 6¼ pence a hundredweight (equal to 49¾ cents a 60-pound bushel) as representatives of the "big four" wheat-exporting countries were reported to be still at loggerheads in an attempt to agree to a plan of control for the overstocked world markets.

Today's fall to a price ¼ penny below the previous historical low of Tuesday was caused by attempts to sell large stocks of wheat from Argentina.

Delegates from the United States, Argentina, Canada and Australia met in an endeavor to devise some control scheme which would have a chance of acceptance by the international wheat conference. The discussions have been going on at intervals since January.

It was suggested that, if quotas were adopted, acreage cuts would follow in order to avoid the accumulation of vast surplus stocks outside the quota amounts. The proposed quota scheme, it was reliably understood, called for a basis on the average of national exports during the last 16 years. Upon this period, it was understood, was the greatest amount of disagreement.

Canada, on a 16-year basis, would obtain the largest export quota, followed by Argentina, Australia and the United States. The United States was said to be unwilling to accept a position inferior to Canada and to be pressing for an average calculated upon a shorter period.

Idle Bank Funds Reach New Peak

By the Associated Press

The Federal Reserve Board reported yesterday that lendable excess reserves of banks increased last week $40,000,000 to a new record high of $4,490,000,000. The increase was due to Treasury spending and purchases of gold, and to a decrease of money in circulation.

The board also reported that, for the third week, the 12 Federal Reserve banks reduced their holdings of Federal securities by $20,000,000 because of the unusually small returns on 91-day Treasury bill.

Silver Imports Cut By Price Reduction

The lower Treasury price for foreign silver has greatly diminished imports of the metal, Secretary Morgenthau said yesterday. Since June 26, the Treasury has cut its price from 43 to 35 cents an ounce.

The Secretary also said that he had not held any conversations with Mexican officials about the silver situation. Mexico, as the largest silver-producing country in the world, is affected most by the silver price.

Brokers' Loans Drop $24,000,000 in Week

By the Associated Press

The Federal Reserve Board reported yesterday that last week's loans to brokers and dealers on securities held by reporting member banks in New York City totaled $472,000,000. The week ended Wednesday, and the total represented a decrease of $24,000,000, when compared with the previous week.

Loans for the corresponding week a year ago totaled $486,000,000.

June Cotton Spinning

The Census Bureau reported yesterday that the cotton spinning industry operated during June at 82.3 per cent of capacity, on a 2-shift, 40-hour-week basis, compared with 81.4 per cent for May this year and 80.8 per cent for June last year.

Reich and Italy Top U. S. Air Sales In 18 Countries

New York, July 20 (AP).—John H. Jouett, president of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America, said today that the United States in 1938 continued to lead the world by a wide margin in the export of aviation products. Germany and Italy, however, he added, outsold this Nation in aeronautical goods in 18 countries.

The United States led all other nations in aviation sales in Latin America, but Germany and Italy outsold the United States in six Latin-American countries. Jouett attributed their lead in those countries to government credits, subsidies, barter deals and official aviation missions.

"In 1938," he said, "the United States exported $88,209,050 worth of planes, engines and accessories. Germany was next with $27,183,501, proving the energy with which the Reich is trying to develop its aircraft production in foreign sales.

"It was the first time in history that Germany outsold Great Britain, which ranked third in 1938 with a total of $26,501,340. Italy ranked fourth with $8,821,493, and France was fifth with $3,752,208. Combined sales for Germany and Italy, therefore, totaled $36,004,994, as compared with $30,253,548 for England and France."

The six Latin-American countries in which Italy and Germany led the United States were Chile, Peru, Paraguay, Uruguay, Ecuador and Salvador. Germany outsold the United States in Sweden, Switzerland, Bulgaria, Czecho-Slovakia, Yugoslavia, Belgium, Denmark, Portugal, Greece, Mozambique, Spain and Hungary.

Newsprint Subsidy Offered by France

The Commerce Department reported yesterday that France had offered an export subsidy to its manufacturers of newsprint paper. The subsidy, at current values of French money, amounts to 66 cents per 220 pounds.

However, in the last 10 years, American newsprint consumers have bought only one small shipment from France. That purchase was in April. "It is not expected that any appreciable amount of newsprint paper will be imported into the United States as a result of the subsidization of French exports," the department said.

Eight Closed Banks Liquidated in June

The Treasury Department announced yesterday that during June the liquidation of eight receiverships was completed, making a total of 1,322 receiverships finally closed or restored to solvency since the banking holiday of March, 1933.

Total disbursements, including offsets allowed, to depositors and other creditors of these 1,322 receiverships, exclusive of the 42 restored to solvency, aggregated $577,437,391, or an average return of 81 per cent of total liabilities, while unsecured creditors received dividends amounting to an average of 68.42 per cent of their claims.

Du Pont Research Head To Speak in Berlin

Wilmington, Del., July 20.—Dr. Charles M. A. Stine, vice president in charge of research, E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., today accepted an invitation to address the second International Chemical Engineering Congress, convening in Berlin during the week of June 23, 1940. Dr. Stine will represent the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, of which he is a director.

His address, "Chemical Engineering and Industry," will be one of the four papers to be delivered during the general session. The other speakers will be Sir Harold Hartley, representing England; Georges Claude, representing France, and Richard Kuhn, representing Germany.

Freight Traffic Continues Rise To Higher Level

Week's Total, 673,812 Cars, Is 11.8 Per Cent Above Year Ago

Loading of revenue freight for the week ended July 15 totaled 673,812 cars, the Association of American Railroads announced yesterday. This was an increase of 71,367 cars, or 11.8 per cent above the corresponding week in 1938, but a decrease of 92,572 cars, or 12.1 per cent below the same week in 1937. Loading of revenue freight for the week of July 15 was an increase of 114,703 cars, or 20.5 per cent above the preceding week, which included July Fourth holiday.

Miscellaneous freight loading totaled 259,098 cars, an increase of 44,214 cars above the preceding week, and an increase of 24,166 cars above the corresponding week in 1938.

Loading of merchandise less than carload lot freight totaled 150,488 cars, an increase of 22,626 cars above the preceding week, and an increase of 5,135 cars above the corresponding week in 1938.

Coal loading amounted to 110,855 cars, an increase of 21,220 cars above the preceding week, and an increase of 21,106 cars above the corresponding week in 1938.

Grain and grain products loading totaled 59,265 cars, an increase of 5,809 cars above the preceding week, but a decrease of 3,757 cars below the corresponding week in 1938. In the Western districts alone, grain and grain products loading for the week of July 15 totaled 38,003 cars, a decrease of 1,809 cars below the preceding week, and a decrease of 4,049 cars below the corresponding week in 1938.

Livestock Loadings Gain

Livestock loading amounted to 11,845 cars, an increase of 2,423 cars above the preceding week, but a decrease of 665 cars below the corresponding week in 1938. In the Western districts alone, loading of live stock for the week of July 15 totaled 8,969 cars, an increase of 2,327 cars above the preceding week, but a decrease of 352 cars below the corresponding week in 1938.

Forest products loading totaled 31,426 cars, an increase of 9,396 cars above the preceding week, and an increase of 3,051 cars above the corresponding week in 1938.

Coke loading amounted to 5,958 cars, an increase of 361 cars above the preceding week, and an increase of 1,766 cars above the corresponding week in 1938.

All districts, except the Central Western and Southwestern reported increases compared with the corresponding week in 1938. All districts reported decreases compared with the corresponding week in 1937, except the Pocahontas.

Reaction From Recent Rise Continues But Optimistic View Prevails Trading Volume Is Curtailed

New York, July 20.—The reaction in the stock market, which made a start on Wednesday, cut a little deeper today into the gains of last week and the first two days of this week. Closing prices were near the lows for the day and the composite average showed a net decline of 0.36 point. Sentiment remained cheerful, however, aided in a large measure by the fact that no outburst of activity accompanied the reaction. Only 806,230 shares changed on the big board.

Business news remained favorable, the most notable news in this field today being the weekly carloading report. In the week ended last Saturday there was an improvement of 71,367 cars or 20.5 per cent over the preceding week. The size of this gain is largely explained by the fact that the preceding week contained a legal holiday but even as compared with the corresponding week of last year the betterment was sizable. Over 1938 the gain was 11.8 per cent and it was 12.1 per cent over the 1937 figure.

Aviation shares were trotted out and an attempt made to carry on the rally which developed in the final hour Wednesday but liquidation got to this group along with the others. The only classification to display consistent resistance to the downward trend was the rails.

Rail Shares Resistant

Support for the carriers was based on the hope of railroad legislation in the closing days of the present Congress. House and Senate conferees are going into session this morning to try to adjust their differences on the Chandler bill. This bill would facilitate voluntary railroad reorganizations. As passed by the House it was drawn in very general terms but the Senate version was so worded that only the Lehigh Valley and Baltimore & Ohio was affected.

Now Senator Wheeler is of the belief that a compromise can be worked out in time to secure favorable action before adjournment.

The limited amount of time available at this session, however, leads the Senator to believe that the Lea bill, or the omnibus transportation regulation bill, must go over to the next session. This despite the indication from Mr. Lea, who is chairman of the House Interstate Commerce Committee, that President Roosevelt has approved the measure. The chairman said the President believes all transportation should be under one regulatory body.

Among special features, the individual performer was Loft again. The turnover of 53,000 shares in this issue was more than 6 per cent of the entire day's volume. A new high was made at 16⅛ and the close of 16 was up ⅝ for the day. As would be expected, the action of this issue in the last few months is causing numerous rumors, among them being that it is considering a recapitalization plan which would involve segregation of certain assets, principally its stock in Pepsi-Cola. The latter soft drink company is expected to issue a favorable earnings statement soon but Loft's is not expected to be too good. The latter may soon liquidate some of its properties which have not been showing returns commensurate with its investment, which physical revamping should eventually operate to the benefit of stockholders.

An excuse given for the continuation of the reaction was the foreign news, which indicated increased tension because of the killing of a Polish soldier near the Danzig frontier. The charge of the Poles was that the soldier was killed by a Danzig border official on Polish soil, to which the Free City authorities replied that the Danzig officer fired in self-defense.

STABLER SECOND ADD . . . . . .

The financial district feels encouraged by the business outlook and the general upward trend, but the explanation for the present cautiousness is the foreign situation, which everyone realizes could take on a more serious completion with little warning, as far as business itself is concerned, inventories generally are low, prices are at a fair level, money is cheap, corporations generally are in a strong financial position and we always know the Government will continue spending, even to the point of making two dollars do the work of one.

Bonds Dull and Lower

Listed bond dealings today were back in the dull routine from which they were stirred briefly during the two-day rally of the markets. The turnover was only $4,290,000, and the trend was irregularly lower. United States Treasury issues were maintained, while best corporate bonds were neglected. Speculative issues drifted slowly downward, with rails less inactive than others. Foreign dollar obligations remained idle and virtually unchanged.

The high-grade bond market was concerned with the distribution of the new Shell Union and Southern Bell Telephone issues, which met a fair demand. United States Treasury bonds were well maintained, and guaranteed issues did not vary. Outstanding corporate issues of highest ratings moved only by smallest fractions and in both directions.

Medium-priced carrier obligations failed to attract any buying, save in a few instances where ratings are good and prices seemingly disproportionate. The more strictly speculative rails followed a downward course, and this also was the case with borderline and default issues. Holding company and convertible bonds were marked lower, and the local tractions took the same course. Communications issues were uncertain, while amusement bonds improved.

Polish and Japanese bonds were lower in the foreign division, owing to threats of war. Italian bonds were maintained and German issues little changed. Among the best rated foreigns fractional losses were common. Latin-Americans hardly were traded.

Over-the-Counter Group to Register As National Body

New York, July 20 (AP).—The National Association of Security Dealers, Inc., is completing arrangements to register with the Securities & Exchange Commission as a national over-the-counter organization, it was reported today. Registration application may be filed with the SEC this week, it was indicated. However, over three months will have to elapse before the association can begin to function.

The association has been formed by the members of the Investment Bankers Conference, which functioned under the old NRA code. The I.B.C. membership has voted 722 to 35, it was said, for changes in the constitution and by-laws of the old organization necessary to conform with provisions of the Maloney Act. The Maloney Act authorized the setting up of self-governing organizations in the securities field under SEC scrutiny.

There are 1,500 I.B.C. members, and those not voting on the constitution changes are to be counted as approving the move. Association officials hope at least 2,500 of the 7,000 registered security dealers in the country will come into the organization.

Roswell Magill Heads 'Big Board' Examiners

New York, July 20 (AP).—Roswell Magill, former Undersecretary of the Treasury and now a member of a New York law firm, was chosen chairman of the New York Stock Exchange's "public examining board" at the initial meeting of the group with stock exchange and other interested officials today.

Jerome N. Frank, chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission, was at the meeting. It is chiefly upon Frank's suggestion that the exchange provide "customer protection" machinery through broker banks that the board will act.

Life Savers Corp. Votes 40c Special

New York, July 20 (AP).—Directors of Life Savers Corporation today declared a special dividend of 40 cents a share on common stock, in addition to the regular quarterly payment of 40 cents, both payable September 1 to holders of record August 1.

A similar special disbursement was made a year ago. The company's plants are at Port Chester, N. Y., and Philadelphia.

Cotton Futures Drop 55 to 75 Cents Per Bale

New York, July 20 (AP).—Cotton futures slid into a new low ground for the current recession today. With buyers on the sidlines, prices dropped to net losses of 11 to 15 points.

Main price deterrents were continued favorable crop reports and no news from Washington regarding the export subsidy plan. Some sold as they eyed sharp breaks in several other commodities, notably wheat and corn.

Cheerful news from Worth Street textile markets attracted demand from the trade early, but the market soon relapsed into a downward streak.

Cottonseed Oil

Trading in cottonseed oil futures broadened today as the market gave way to a new selling attack. Closing prices were 14 to 15 points down and at new 5-year low levels. Weakness of corn, hogs and lard stimulated pressure.

Sales totaled 251 lots; September, 5.71 bid; October, 5.76 bid; December, 5.90 bid; January, 5.95 bid.

Crude oil was quoted nominally at 4¾ cents in the Southeast and valley and 4½ in Texas.

N. Y. Exchange Visitors Set Record for Day

New York, July 20 (AP).—Exactly 1,365 persons visited the New York Stock Exchange yesterday and established a record. Previous records were 1,219 clocked on Tuesday and about 1,000 who visited one day by invitation during the American Legion Convention here in 1937.

Stock exchange galleries were thrown open to the general public for the first time May 1, last, as part of the campaign to make the exchange a public, rather than a private, institution. About a month ago conspicuous signs in bright lettering were placed over each entrance, directing visitors. The market rise early this week is believed to have stimulated more than usual interest.

June Air Travel 58% Over Year Ago

New York, July 20 (AP).—The 16 domestic airlines composing the Air Transport Association of America reported today they had flown 63,576,325 revenue passenger miles in June, an increase of nearly 58 per cent over the 40,284,317 flown in June, 1938.

In the first six months of the year, the lines flew 278,353,321 passenger miles, a gain of 34 per cent over the first half of 1938.

Commodity Corp. to Sell $200,000,000 Notes

Secretary Morgenthau announced yesterday that the Commodity Credit Corporation would borrow $200,000,000 from the public Monday to take up expiring crop loans now held by banks.

Details of the note issue will be given Monday. The only other Commodity Credit financing, on May 2, 1938, was the borrowing of $206,000,000 on ¾ of 1 per cent, 1½ year notes.

Louisville & Nashville Votes $1.25 a Share

New York, July 20 (AP).—Directors of Louisville & Nashville Railroad Co. today declared a dividend of $1.25 a share on common stock, payable August 30 to holders of record July 31.

Previous payment was $1 in February this year. Atlantic Coast Line Railroad owns 51 per cent, or 596,700 shares of the 1,170,000 outstanding L. & N. shares.

Banks Press Need of Public Co-operation

Financial Advertisers Will Study Subject At Toronto Convention

By Thomas M. Cahill.

Reporting on recent deliberations of the executive committee, Financial Advertisers Association, George O. Everett, president of the organization, states that the association as the public relations division of banking is continuously interested in banking service as it relates to the needs of people generally, and the work of a bank public relations man is essentially predicated on education—both inside and outside the bank. Eliot H. Thomson, publicity manager, Washington Loan & Trust Co., is a member of the association's senior advisory council.

Mr. Everett states it is questionable whether the public fully appreciates the seriousness with which banks and bankers generally are approaching the subject of complete and satisfactory service throughout the banking system. Never in the history of banking has there been so much concerted effort to assemble the best knowledge and ideas obtainable and to make this information available to banks in every section of the country, he explains.

That practical evidence of the effort is not lacking, he reminds that this year at Rutgers University, New Brunswick, N. J., 684 bankers assembled for the fifth consecutive year of what is known as the Graduate school of banking—a specialized educational system to distribute the best available information on modern banking and economics. In parallel, State associations of banks are conducting extensive meetings designated as State educational conferences.

Convention Next Month

The Financial Advertisers Association's convention at Toronto, September 11-14, will embrace a comprehensive range of subjects pertinent to the work of bank public relations men and women and will cover a professional educational course on this subject. The public relations man as an educator is finding an increasingly important place in banking and his ability to give efficient direction to such activity is evidenced by the fact that members of the Financial Advertisers Association are to be found, not only on the faculty of the graduate school of banking but as chairman of the State conferences and lecturers on the staff. "Banks have never ceased to work in assisting people to understand the place of the bank in its community, the conditions under which any bank can serve well and in a sound manner, the proper and intelligent use which the public can make of its banks, "Mr. Everett says, "Particularly are the men and

Pirates Thump Crippled Giants And Win, 8-4

New York's Sixth Straight Defeat; Fletcher, Seeds Homer

By the Associated Press

New oYrk, July 20.—The Pittsburgh Pirates, not adverse to kicking the Giants when they are already down, did it again today by an 8-to-4 score and moved up into the National League's first division.

It marked the crippled Giants' sixth straight loss, their worst losing streak of the season. Harry Gumbert, the Giant pitcher, had a bad time of it in the third, allowing 5 runs which cost him his fourth loss of the season.

Bob Klinger, of the Pirates, although knocked out in the sixth, was the victor. Elbie Fletcher, of the Pirates, and Bob Seeds, of the Giants, contributed homers.

The Giants are now only one and one-half games out of seevnth place.

Nats Beat Tigers On Estalella Homer

Tigers back hitless in the seventh. He encountered a flurry of trouble in the eighth when Cullenbine led off with a single, but with one out Higgins hit into a double play. In the ninth, Greenberg led off with a single, and Pinch Hitter Pete Fox hit into a double play started by Travis. The Tigers scored a run when McCoskey later singled after Kelley had walked Gehringer, but Cullenbine grounded to Vernon for the last out.

Two triples by Buddy Lewis helped the Nats to take a 3—0 lead in the first three innings. He followed West's walk with a triple over McCoskey's head to drive in the first run and later scored himself on Wright's infield out. In the third, Lewis led off with a three-bagger to the left center screen and scored on Wright's sacrifice fly.

Leonard yielded a run to the Tigers in the fourth when an error by Case on a ground ball helped Benton to score, and in the fourth he pitched a home run to Averill with none on base.

In the sixth, the Tigers all but knocked Leonard out of the box, with a four-run surge. McCoskey lined a homer to the upper deck of right field, and after Higgins and York followed with singles, Hank Greenberg swatted his 18th homer of the season into the left field upper deck.

That made the score 6—3 in favor of the Tigers, but later in the afternoon, Giuliani and Estalella rectified it.

Mulloy Defeated By Jack Crawford

tion, he called upon his magnificient drop shots, which he launched from the baseline with just the slightest bit of back-spin, to offset his fatigue.

After holding Mulloy even throuh 12 games with great difficulty, Crawford gained his first lead in the final set by breaking his opponent's delivery for the eighteenth time in the match. In his previous service game, Crawford did not hold until he had been deuced four times and in the finale he surrendered a 30-love lead by double-faulting twice. Then as Mulloy gathered himself for a mighty rally, Crawford blazed two service aces at him to wind up the match.

The victory moved Crawford against Gene Mako, the U. S. Davis cup doubles player. They will mark time until Saturday, for the only men's singles match on tomorrow's card is the semi-final between Adrian Quist, also of Australia, and Bobby Low of Los Angeles.

There were two surprising upsets recorded while the women's singles field reduced itself to the second last round. Top-seeded Helen Pedersen of Stamford, Conn., bowed to the unranked Mary Arnold of Los Angeles, 5—7, 6—3, 6—1, and Virginia Wolfenden of San Francisco, the second seeding, bowed to Pauline Betz of Los Angeles, national indoor tennis champion, in straight sets, 6—3, 6—2.

Form prevailed in the other two quarter-finals. Katherine Winthrop of Boston, gained a 7—5, 5—7, 6—2, win over Patricia Canning of San Francisco, and last year's winner, Helen Bernhard of New York, bested Barbara Bradley of Los Angeles, 8—10, 8—6, 6—2, thereby lining up two east-west semi-finals for tomorrow's card.

Myer Was Safe and Tied the Score

Associated Press WIREPHOTO.

Buddy Myer, Nats' second baseman, was caught short of home plate by Rudy York, but after this shot was made the Tiger catcher dropped the ball. Myer tied the score with the run, the sixth for Washington in the eighth inning of the game yesterday at Detroit. Estalella then socked a homer into the stands to win the game for Washington

Durocher Fined $50, Wyatt $25 by Frick

By the Associated Press

New York, July 20.—Leo Durocher, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, was fined $50 and Pitcher Whitlow Wyatt $25 today by President Ford Frick, of the National League, for their altercations with the umpires in last night's game with the Cincinnati Reds.

Durocher was thumbed out of the game after disputing a decision of Umpire Dolly Stark at second base.

Later in the game Wyatt tried to take a punch at Stark but was prevented by teammates after the umpire had called Frank McCormick, Cincinnati first baseman, safe at first on a close play. Wyatt also had figured in the dispute which led to Durocher's banishment. Stark ruled that the pitcher left second base before the ball was caught in the outfield.

The fines continued the epidemic of penalties meted out to National League players and umpires during July. Durocher was fined $25 and thrown out of the game for his run-in with Zeke Bonura of the Giants on July 3. Bonura also was fined $50 and sent to the showers.

In the Giants-Cards flare-up of July 15, Bill Jurges, New York shortstop, and Umpire George Magerkurth were fined $150 each and suspended for ten days while Manager Bill Terry of the Giants and his first string catcher, Harry Danning, were fined $50 each.

Harder Hurls As Cleveland Beats A's, 3-2

Victory Gives Tribe Sweep of Series; Siebert Hits Homer

By the Associated Press

Cleveland, July 20.—Mel Harder pitched himself out of ten-hit trouble today to shade Twirler Bill Beckman and the Philadelphia Athletics, 3 and 2. The victory gave Cleveland both contests of the two-game series.

Dick Siebert's first-inning home run and another tally in the second on singles by Dario Lodigiani and Bill Beckman driving home Bill Nagel, who was hit by a pitched ball, gave the A's the early lead. Cleveland came back with all its runs in the second on four hits, including doubles by Ken Keltner and Jimmy Webb.

Bees Defeat Cubs Again, 2-1

Boston, July 20.—Boston's Bees took their second consecutive game from Chicago's Cubs, 2 to 1, today in an old-fashioned pitchers' duel which saw Sailor Bill Posedel allow the visitors but six hits and Vance Page give eight to the swarm.

But the sparkling play afield and at bat of Rabbit Warstler, Bee handyman now spelling the injured Eddie Miller at short, nearly overshadowed the work of both hurlers.

Man of the Month

By Walter Johnson.

(WJSV-General Mills Broadcaster.)

Roberto Estalella, Angelo Giuliani and Buddy Lewis monopolized the points awarded yesterday in the Man of the Month contest. They were the outstanding figures as the Nats triumphed over the Tigers. The point awards follow:

To Estalella, two points, because after walking as a pinch hitter and scoring a run in the seventh, he won the ball game with a two-run homer in the eighth.

To Giuliani, three points, because with two out in the eighth, and the tying run on second, he drove it home with a single to center.

To Lewis, three points, because he figured in all the Nats' first three runs with his pair of three-baggers. The totals:

Taft Wright	26	Jim Bloodworth	7
Cecil Travis	18	George Case	6
Dutch Leonard	14	Rick Ferrell	5
Sammy West	10	Ken Chase	4
Johnny Welaj	12	Jake Early	3

Donald, Yankee Star, Accredits Rookie Record to His Teammates

Young Twirler Has Firm Lower Jaw And Doesn't Worry

By the Associated Press.

St. Louis, July 20.—Atley Donald, the New York Yankees' star rookie hurler, has a firm lower jaw and doesn't worry, and those are two big reasons why he has just broken a 31-year-old record by starting his American League career with 11 consecutive triumphs.

"When it's my turn to pitch, I go out there to win, and I'm not satisfied with myself unless I turn in a victory," asserted the big 26-year-old righthander.

"But remember," he added, "you musn't forget I've got the best team in baseball playing behind me.'

In defeating the Browns during the current series which ended today, Donald went one game ahead of Harry Krause of the Philadelphia Athletics who won ten decisions as a first-year man in 1908 before he tasted defeat.

Donald, who left Louisiana Tech for a baseball career, says he's not worried about his winning streak. It's not new to him.

"Why, in breaking into the International League with Newark in 1937 I on 14 games before I was defeated," he explained. That year he won 19 games against 2 losses during the regular season.

ATLEY DONALD

Atley Won't Say How Many Games He Hopes to Win

"When I pitch," he told a newspaperman who spied him in the lobby of his hotel, "I don't think of winning streaks. I just pitch that one game."

Next October, when the World's Series roll around, you can almost bet the shirt off your back that the spotlight will be on young Atley—unless, of course, the Boston Red Sox keep repeating their success with the Yankees (they recently swept a five-game series) or if Donald breaks an arm.

"We're not thinking of the World's Series yet," declared the tan-faced hurler, "but if we win and I get a chance to pitch, it will certainly be the big day I've been looking for."

Donald has pitched against each of the seven other clubs in the American League, and, take his word for it, "they're all tough." He has decisions against all but Detroit and Boston.

Although he held the Browns to three hits Tuesday in handing them their first shutout of the year, Donald asserted the local cellar-dwellers were hard on any pitcher, with sluggers on the team such as George McQuinn, Harlond Clift and Myril Hoag.

Newark Beats Orioles, 5-3, On Home Run

By the Associated Press

Newark, N. J., July 20.—Walter Judnich's thirteenth home run of the season with two aboard in the eighth inning enabled the Newark Bears to come from behind and register a 5-to-3 victory today over the Baltimore Orioles before a knothole gang day crowd of 5,000.

The decisive blow gave George Washburn his eighth triumph against nine defeats. Washburn allowed nine hits, three more than the Bruins gathered off Brookie Dan Kerr, but kept them well scattered.

Kerr, a Baltimore sandlotter, held the Bears to four blows until the fatal eighth.

Southern Maryland Tobacco Markets

Average prices for tobacco sold at auction on Upper Marlboro and Hughesville floors on July 14, 17 and 18 were generally higher, according to the Agricultural Marketing Service. Offerings on Friday were of extremely low quality, and this, together with dry conditions, had a depressing effect on prices. Slight gains were noted on Monday and a definite rise was shown on Tuesday's sale. Prices on the better qualities continued firm, with choice quality bright crop selling up to $40 per hundred pounds.

Average prices per 100 pounds by quality and approximate ranges on bulk of sales follow:

Boston Wool Market

Boston, July 20 (AP).—(U. S. Dept. of Agriculture.)—Wool was selling quite freely today on the Boston market and prices were showing a firm to rising tendency. Fine territory wools in original bags were selling at firm prices, compared with sales reported earlier in the week. Graded combing three-eighths blood territory wools brought 66 to 68 cents, scoured basis, while quarter blood wools of similar character moved at 56 to 58 cents, scoured basis. Graded combing bright fleeces of these grades brought 33 to 36 cents in the grease, readily on quarter blood and occasionally on three-eighths blood.

Official Notices

COMMISSIONERS OF THE DISTRICT OF Columbia, July 20, 1939. Notice is hereby given that under authority granted in public act No. 307, approved December 15, 1937, authorizing the closing of streets, roads, highways and alleys in the District of Columbia, and in accordance with the provisions of an item authorizing changes in the permanent system of highways contained in D. C. Appropriation Act for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1914 (Public Act No. 435, 62nd Congress), approved March 4, 1913, as amended by an act approved April 30, 1926 (Public Act No. 158, 69th Congress), the Commissioners of the District of Columbia will give a public hearing in the board room of said Commissioners in the District Building on MONDAY, AUGUST 14, 1939, AT 10 O'CLOCK A. M., to interested property owners to determine as to any property rights which may be affected, or as to the equity, justice or advisability of closing the street and alley area, and concerning the proposed changes in the permanent system of highways, all in the District of Columbia, and described as follows: 1. Closing U street between 1st and 2nd streets sw. 2. Closing B street west of Burns street se., and a public alley running south from said B street in Square 5402, and closing part of Ridge road southeast of Anacostia road se.; and providing for a dedication for widening Anacostia road and Ridge road southeast, and for other additional street area in Parcels 198/30 and 203/21. 3. Proposed change in the plan of the permanent system of highways affecting property in the Southeast section, bounded on the north by East Capitol street, on the northeast by Burns street, on the south by D street, proposed, and on the southwest by Ridge road, affecting B street, C street, Anacostia road, and other proposed street area in the southeast section, all as shown on said plan. 4. Proposed change in the plan of the permanent system of highways affecting property in the northwest section bounded on the north by Van Ness street, proposed, on the east by Fordham road, on the south by Upton street, proposed, and on the west by the Dalecarlia Reservoir grounds, affecting the location of a proposed street in Parcel 8/13. 5. Proposed change in the plan of the permanent system of highways in the northwest section, affecting Potomac avenue, proposed, from Nebraska avenue to Wexler place nw., and providing for the elimination of a proposed street, being approximately an extension of Cushing place, from Potomac avenue to Interior place, proposed. Maps showing the street and alley area proposed to be closed and the additional land proposed to be acquired by the District of Columbia, and maps showing the proposed changes in the permanent system of highways are on file in the office of the Surveyor of the District of Columbia, Room 405, District Building (same being known as maps 2237, 2238, 2239, 2240 and 2241), and may be examined by interested parties during business hours prior to the hearing. Said maps will also be displayed at the hearing, and the Commissioners will consider any suggestions or protests concerning the proposed changes and the proposed street and alley closings, as shown on above-mentioned maps. MELVIN C. HAZEN, GEORGE E. ALLEN, DAVID McCOACH, JR., Commissioners of the District of Columbia.

Contract Bridge

By Florence Osborn.

A test in slam bidding is provided on this hand. Both sides are vulnerable. You are North, dealer, and hold these cards:

The first part of the bidding goes like this:

♠ K Q 9 3 2
♡ K Q J
♣ A K 6

The first part of the bidding goes like this:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♡	Pass
2 ♠	3 ◇	4 ◇	Pass
5 ♡	Pass	5 ♠	Pass

Whether or not you agree with North's bidding, what do you say over five spades?

Here are your partner's cards:

♠ A 10 6
♡ A 10 8 7 4
◇ A 2
♣ Q 9 7

The winning bid is seven spades, which George Verde, of Boston, the real North player made against Baron von Zedtwitz and A. Mitchell Barnes, who sat East and West, respectively.

How would you handle the bidding of these two hands and what final contract would you arrive at? Neither side is vulnerable, and South is dealer. East and West do not bid.

North
♠ K 9
◇ K
♣ K 6 5 2
South
♠ A Q J 8
◇ A Q 10 9
♣ A Q 8 3

Dr. R. H. Ecker, jr. and his partner, Al Weiss, bid boldly to six no trump and made it. Dr. Ecker was South; Weiss, North. Here is how they did it:

South	West	North	East
1 ◇	Pass	1 ♡	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♣	Pass

The Federal Diary

By The Diarist

WHEN C. Marshall Finnan, retiring superintendent of the National Capital Parks System, leaves for his new post as head man for Zion and Bryce Canyon Parks, he'll be taking his secret with him. The secret which only about half a dozen people outside of his own family know is exactly what the "C" in his name stands for.

Says his secretary, who is one of the half dozen who has the inside dope, "Mr. Finnan would bounce me off a 50-foot bridge if I told."

Finnan may leave town the middle of next week.

Other shifts in the park systems bring Paul R. Franke to Mesa Verde, Finnan's old assignment. Jesse L. Nusbaum will give up his present Mesa Verde post to supervise archeological activities with headquarters at Santa Fe, New Mexico.

ANSWER to that question about the difference between a clerk and a junior clerk: Under the clerical, administrative and fiscal service, according to the Classification Act of 1923, junior clerks come under grade 2. This includes "all classes of positions, duties of which are to perform under immediate supervision assigned office work requiring training or experience but not the exercise of independent judgment."

Clerks are generally grade 4. This includes "all classes of positions, duties of which are to perform under immediate or general supervision responsible office work requiring training and experience, the exercise of independent judgment or knowledge of a specialized subject matter, or both, and an acquaintance with office procedure and practice, or to supervise a small stenographic section or small section performing clerical operations of corresponding difficulty."

The difference therefore might be said to lie in the words "independent judgment or knowledge" . . . "or to supervise."

CHILE IS INTERESTED in American bangles. According to the American Commercial Attache at Santiago, the Andes are almost a push-over for costume trinkets manufactured in the United States. Right now the stolid Reich is exporting more trinkets to the South American country than any other bauble manufacturers. Chile bought up $35,486 of costume jewelry from der Fritz in 1937, and France was second. However, unsettled conditions across the Atlantic and the growing preference of Chilean muchachas for the American brand make things look good for Uncle Sam, reports the Department of Commerce.

Thirty-seven-year-old M. Lowell McElroy will be chief of the Market Data Section of the Marketing Research Division, Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, from now on. He's a grad of Harvard University, where he walked off with a pocketful of degrees in economics, marketing and advertising. At the old alma mater he was an instructor in business policy and assistant in advertising. At Michigan he held the post of assistant professor of marketing.

He and his staff of experts will mull over statistics collected from 2,300 manufacturers, 4,300 wholesalers, 35,000 independent retailers and 35,000 chain stores.

They're bears for work . . . issuing reports from these sources every 30 days.

FOR TOURISTS. Yosemite National Park will be wilder this year. Down in Mariposa Grove, an old lodge constructed around the trunk of one of the big trees has felt the inroads of a wrecking crew. Sawmills formerly on private land have been told to move on by the Federal Government. And still the back to nature movement goes on with Acting Director Demaray in charge.

WHILE WE'RE talking about the birds, the bees and the trees, we might take a look at the 32,589 man-months of work spent on the Prairie States forest project during this year's planting season. Cottonwoods started in 1935 are as much as 30 feet tall, and the brown thrashers, the orioles and the cardinals have set up nest-keeping in the branches.

It begins to look as if there's a poetic side to these Government reports.

THE THREE LITTLE fishes will grow into three million (and more) for Puerto Rico as a result of studies being undertaken by the Bureau of Fisheries.

Considerably startled by the fact that about 36,000,000 pounds of cured and canned fish are imported by Puerto Rico every year, the Department of the Interior has decided to build a new $25,000 laboratory on the island, where special studies are going to be made of fish-growing facts.

Latin-American republics will be able to benefit from the findings by sending student assistants to the lab. After two years of research work, the assistants will go home with a lot of answers to their own country's fishing problems. It's that good neighbor policy again.

Shriners Map Cruise

Shriners of Almas Temple will take a moonlight cruise on the Potomac July 31, Potentate Stanley D. Willis announced yesterday. The steamer will leave the Seventh Street wharf at 8:30 p. m.

NUTS AND JOLTS

PULITZER PRIZE NOVEL

THE YEARLING

By Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings

CHAPTER XLV.

Penny opened the front door and cupped his hand to his ear.

"Now I don't hear a thing but them dogs."

The calf bleated. The cry was at once of terror and pain. There was another that lifted to a scream, then was abruptly muffled. Penny ran to the kitchen for his gun.

"Fetch a light!"

Jody chose to believe that his mother was indicated. He ran after his father with his own gun, which since old Slewfoot's last visit he was allowed to keep loaded. Ma Baxter followed unwillingly with a lighted splinter, feeling her way with slow feet. Jody climbed the lot fence. He was sorry now that he had not brought the torch himself. He could see nothing. He could hear only a tumult of fighting and snarling, a snapping of many teeth, the voices of Rip and old Julia silenced. Above it came the desperate voice of his father.

"Git 'em, Julia! Hold 'em, Rip! My lord, the light!"

Jody turned back over the fence and ran to his mother and took the torch from her. The thing that was happening was for Penny to handle. He ran back again. He lifted the torch high in his hand. The wolves had invaded the lot and killed the heifer calf. A band of them, three dozen or more, milled about the enclosure. Their eyes caught the light in pairs, like corrupt pools of shining water. They were emaciated and rough-coated. Their fangs glistened as white as gar-fish bones. He heard his mother screaming beyond the fence and became aware that he was screaming, too.

PENNY SHOUTED, "Hold that light still!"

He tried to steady it. He saw Penny lift his gun and shoot once, then again. The wolves turned and flowed over the fence in a gray wave. Rip snapped at their heels. Penny ran shouting after them. Jody ran behind him, trying to keep the light on the swift forms. He remembered that he had his own gun in the other hand. He pushed it at his father and Penny took it and shot again. The wolves were gone like a thunderstorm. Rip hesitated, his light hide plain in the darkness, then turned and limped back to his master. Penny stooped and petted him. He, too, turned, and walked slowly into the lot. The cow was bellowing.

Penny said quietly, "I'll take the light."

He lifted it, and swung it about the enclosure. The shredded body of the calf lay in the middle. Near it lay old Julia, her teeth in the throat of a guarnt wolf. The wolf was taking its last breaths. Its eyes glazed. It was tick-ridden and mangy.

Penny said, "All right, gal. Leave go."

Julia released her hold and stood back. Her teeth, worn by age to the flatness of corn kernels, had accounted for the only casualty. Penney looked at the mangled calf and at the dead wolf. Then, as though he stared into the green eyes of an invisible enemy, he looked off into the night. He seemed small and shrunken.

He said, "well——"

He handed Jody his gun and retrieved his own from the side of the fence. He leaned and picked up a hoof of the calf and walked decisively toward the house, dragging the carcass. Jody understood, shivering, that his father meant to have it handy if the marauders returned. He was still frightened. A panther or a bear at bay always terrified him. But there the men had always stood with leveled guns. There the dogs had room to dart in and get away. The fierce pack in the lot had made a sight he wanted never to see again. He wished his father had dragged the carcass into the woods. Ma Baxter came to the door and callled quaveringly.

"I had to come to the house in the dark. I never been so scairt. Were it bears agin?"

They went into the house and Penny brushed past her to go to the hearth to the swinging kettle for the dogs' wounds.

"Wolves!"

"Oh, dear heaven! Did they kill the calf?"

"They kilt it."

"Oh dear Heaven! And hit a heifer!"

She followed him about while he poured hot water in a basin and bathed the dog's wounds. They were not serious.

"I wisht I could git the dogs on them beasts one at a time," he said grimly.

In the warm safety of the house, bold now because his mother was afraid, Jody could speak at last.

"Will they be back tonight, Pa? Will we go hunt 'em?"

PENNY RUBBED boiled pine gum into Rip's one deep wound, a jagged tear on one flank. He was in no mood for answers or talk of any kind. He did not speak until he was done with the dogs and had made them a good bed under the house near his bedroom window. He did not mean to be taken by surprise again. He came in and washed his hands and warmed them by the fire.

"Now this be the kind o' time a man needs a snort," he said. "I shore aim to beg a quart offen the Forresters tomorrer."

"You goin' there tomorrer?"

"I got to have he'p. My dogs is all right, but a big woman and a leetle man and a yearlin' boy is no match for that many hongry wolves huntin' in a pack."

It gave Jody a strange feeling to have his father admit that he could not handle anything alone. But the wolves had never before descended on the clearing in a band. Deer and small animals had been plentiful to feed them. Only a few had come, singly or in pairs, skulking about timorously, running at the first alarm. They had never before been a major menace. Penny took off his breeches and turned his back to the fire.

"Now I was scairt," he said. "My very bottom's cold."

The Baxters went to bed. Jody made sure his window was tight shut. He tried to make Flag lie under the covers with him, but the fawn kicked off the quilt as often as he drew it over him. He was content to sleep on the foot of the bed, and Jody awakened twice in the night and felt down to make sure he was still there. Flag was not as large as the nearly grown calf—his heart thumped in the darkness. The fortress that was the clearing was vulnerable. He drew the quilt over his head and was afraid to go to sleep again. But bed was a comfortable and a sleepy place on the first cold night in autumn——

PENNY GOT an early start for the Forresters' in the morning. The pack had not returned in the night. He hoped that perhaps one or two were wounded. Jody begged to go with him, but his mother refused outright to stay alone.

"Hit's all fun to you," she complained. "'Kin I go? Kin I go?' No thought o' bein' a man and lookin' out for your Ma."

His pride was touched. He patted her arm.

"Don't fret, Ma. I'll stay and keep off the wolves."

"About time. I git the weak jerks, thinkin' about 'em."

He felt bold after his father's assurance that the pack would not be seen in the daytime, but when Penny rode off on old Caesar he was uneasy in spite of himself. He tied Flag in his room to a post of the bed and went to the sink-hole for water. On the way back, he was certain he heard sounds that he had never heard before. He looked back frequently and broke into a trot past the fence-corner. He was not afraid, he told himself, but his mother might be. He chopped wood hurriedly and filled the kitchen wood-box to overflowing and stacked a pile by the hearth, in case his mother thought of it later. He asked if she needed meat from the smoke-house. She did not but called for a can of cracklings and a bowl of lard.

She said, "Now your Pa went off and never said what to do with the pore calf, bury it or cook it for the dogs or save it for bait. Well, best wait 'till he says."

No further outside work was necessary. He bolted the kitchen door behind him.

"You put that fawn out," she said.

"Ma, don't make me put him out. Why, the smell of him'd jest toll the wolves from all over."

"All right, but you got to clean up after him if he don't mind his manners."

"I will."

He decided to study his speller. His mother fished it out from the trunk that held extra quilts and winter clothes and the deed to the Baxter land. He occupied himself with it all morning.

"I never seed you so content with that book," she said suspiciously.

He scarcely saw the words on the page. He was not afraid, he told himself again. But his ears were strained with listening. He listened all morning for a swift rush of padded feet. He listened for the sweet sound of old Caesar's hooves in the sand, and his father's voice at the gate.

Penny was back in time for dinner. He had eaten little breakfast and was hungry. He would not talk until he had eaten his fill. He lit his pipe and tilted back his chair. Ma Baxter washed the dishes and brushed out the floor with the palmetto sweep.

Right of Way Given in House On Rail Relief

Bill to Be Brought Up Today; Debate Is Limited to 6 Hours

By International News Service.

Despite stiff opposition, legislative right of way last night was granted the Wheeler-Lea railroad relief bill by the House rules committee.

Majority Leader Sam Rayburn announced the measure would be brought up in the House today with a view to a showdown vote Saturday. Under the rule, debate was limited to six hours.

The committee was told by Chairman Lea (Democrat), of the House Interstate Commerce Committee that President Roosevelt wanted the bill passed at this session.

Asking for right of way for the measure that would bring rail, motor truck and water carriers under the regulation of the Interstate Commerce Commission, Lea said Mr. Roosevelt authorized him to disclose his position.

"Mr. Roosevelt favors bringing all major transportation facilities under one Federal regulatory body," Lea said.

A powerful Democratic-Republican coalition, formed of members representing Mississippi Valley, Great Lakes and coastal States, and headed by Representative Warren (Democrat), of North Carolina, fought the rule before the Rules Committee and threatened to wreck the proposal to put water carriers under the ICC.

Senator Magazine Seeks Bankrutcpy Reorganization

Reporting debts of $84,000 and no tangible assets, the publishers of the magazine the Senator yesterday applied in District Court for corporate reorganization under the bankruptcy laws. Of the debts, $35,000 were owed employes, the petition said.

Justice Luring referred the application to Fred J. Eden, referee in bankruptcy, who was directed to hold a hearing on final disposition of the case on September 13. Attorney tSephen G. Ingham filed the petition, which was signed for Toga Press, Inc., by Harry Newman, treasurer.

It was claimed that the magazine has reduced its overhead 50 per cent in the last month and has shown a gradual increase in circulation and advertising.

Official Accuses Jews of Illegal Entry in Palestine

London, July 20 (AP).—Colonial Secretary Malcolm MacDonald charged Jewish organizations today with deliberately encouraging illegal immigration to Palestine to wreck the new British policy.

He urged them to co-operate with the quota scheme of immigration since "Britain is a friend of the Jewish people."

Illegal entry of Jews has proceeded on a "carefully organized and regularized" scale, MacDonald said in House of Commons debate.
